Long Lines Of Cars Jam Open Stations

Gasoline Dealers Close For Four-Day Protest

By MARY LEYDECKER

Long lines of waiting cars, bomb threats and canceled weekend plans today marked the opening of a four-day gasoline drought in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties as independent service station operators shut down until Tuesday.

The retail gasoline dealers throughout Northern California were protesting Phase IV price controls, which they say are making it impossible for them to stay in business.

"There's no way we can exist on a 7-cent margin and no way we are going to exist on a 7-cent margin," John Huemmrich, executive director of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, told a cheering audience of station owners last night in Oakland.

In Marin, Jack Dalpino, president of the Marin County Independent Service Station Association, estimated today that 90 per cent of the independent stations in the county were closed down.

Yesterday many motorists filled up their tanks in preparation for the gas shortage, but their less cautious neighbors today lined up at the few company-owned stations which were dispensing gasoline.

At a Standard Oil Co. station at Third Street and Grand Avenue in San Rafael, traffic clogged as drivers waited for the five gallons of fuel rationed to each.

"We're dwamped," a station employee said. "We may have to close if we run out of gas."

In San Francisco, a Standard Oil spokesman said his firm "will do our best" to provide gasoline to company-owned and dealer stations during the weekend but warned motorists not to rely on this source.

Although no violence was reported, at least one Marin station did not open today because of a threat. Larkspur police reported that "virtually all" the company-owned stations on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard had received either bomb or burning threats.

After the Union Oil station at 501 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard received a telephoned bomb threat at 8:30 a.m. today, station operators decided to close, police said.

Traffic appeared near normal on Highway 101 during the morning commute, according to Sgt. James Dukes of the Highway Patrol, but he predicted that the long weekend would find many Marin residents staying home.

An independent service station owner who wanted to remain nameless brought six two-gallon cans of gasoline to the Highway Patrol office yesterday, Dukes said, telling officers to give the fuel to stranded motorists.

The patrol's own heavy cars, which average only about 10 miles to the gallon, will be fueled through special arrangements with stations, he said.

A harrased telephone answerer at the American Automobile Association office in Corte Madera was giving a San Francisco phone number to callers who wished to inquire about the gasoline situation.

"But that number's jammed," she said.

Most of the callers had already decided to remain in

Smog Officers Ask Reagan To Veto Election Measure

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area smog officials, most of whom would be unseated by a bill before the governor to make them elected instead of appointed, yesterday appealed to him to veto it. (Another Air Pollution Control District story, page 6.)

Directors of the Air Pollution Control District, in a hush-hush letter drafted by the staff, objected they did not know how to set up wards for an elected board, warned the high cost of elections would "attract special interests," claimed office space and clerical help cost an extra $175,000 a year and asserted directly elected directors would be less responsive "to the needs and concerns" of the public than the present appointed board.

Presumably appealing to Gov. Ronild Reagan's acknowledged distrust of "regional government," the letter warned "the addition of other functions would be an easy next step."

It also objected the bill, AB 2467 by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., would create "a serious inequity" because the 13 elected directors would be paid up to $4,800 a year while the nine county supervisors would be paid only $1,200 — in addition to their salary as supervisors.

The present 18-member board, half county supervisors and half city councilmen, is paid a maximum of $1,200 a year, and meets twice a month. Brown's bill would require the new board to meet four times a month and require elected members to spend at least 1,000 hours a year at the job.

The letter, distributed to directors at a regular meeting by the district's top administrator,

Senate Confirmation Given To Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate confirmed Henry A. Kissinger as secretary of state today, elevating the 50-year-old German immigrant to the No. 1 position in President Nixon's cabinet.

The vote was 78 to 7.

Kissinger, the White House adviser who engineered President Nixon's dramatic diplomatic initiatives toward warming U.S. relations with Moscow and Peking, won approval amid calls for foreign policy unity and a warning by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., that detente with the Russians and Chinese seemed to be coming unravelled.

The Senate was fulsome in its praise of the former Harvard professor's intellectual credentials and his achievements as Nixon's No. 1 foreign policy adviser for the past four-and-a-half years.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., said "he has proved to the world that this still is an open society."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, called Kissinger a "vigorous and dynamic leader." Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he respected Kissinger's "intellectual capacity and his unusual grasp of complex problems."

Some Senators who had bitterly fought Kissinger and the administration on Vietnam since 1969, still expressed misgivings.

"In his reliance on the diplomacy of big power clout, Dr. Kissinger has shown no inclination, to my knowledge, to look beyond the faces of dictatorships to see if people are suffering and dying from war, hunger or brutal repression," said Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa.

Hughes said Kissinger had "alienated our closest allies in Europe and Asia."

Kissinger was born May 27, 1923 in Fuerth, Germany. His family emigrated to the United States in 1938 to escape Nazi repression of Jews.

LONELY — Bob Stewart of Bob's Union Service station in Novato is a lonely figure as he sweeps up around his closed station. "We regret we're out of gasoline," his sign says, as a four-day gasoline drought opened in Marin. Most independent retailers closed in protest over Phase IV price controls.

17-Year-Old Booked For Recent Attacks In Marin

A 17-year-old Novato youth, questioned Wednesday about a wave of fires in Lucas Valley and Terra Linda, was booked into Juvenile Hall yesterday after victims of rape and robbery rampages in the same communities identified him as one of their attackers, San Rafael Police said today.

The youth and another man, Richard Alan Kisling, 18, of San Rafael, are believed to be the men who entered homes in Terra Linda and Lucas Valley two weeks ago, tied up the husbands and raped the wives before looting and rampaging through the residences, according to Detective Bart W. Stinson.

The detective said three of the four victims in the Terra Linda and Lucas Valley rape-robberies picked the 17-year-old out of a lineup.

Stinson said the youth was linked to the rampages after he discovered that the 17-year-old was an acquaintance of Kisling, who had access to a light-colored station wagon similar to a vehicle believed used in the crimes.

Kisling, who faces eight felonies in connection with the two rape-robberies, as well as the robbery of Robert Nelson, manager of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, is being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $35,000 bail. He will appear in Marin Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Stinson said he went to Novato police Wednesday night to seek information on the youth, and discovered authorities there were investigating the boy in connection with possible arson in Lucas Valley and Ter-

Two Grid Games Set In Novato

Novato High School's football field will be the site of two games tomorrow afternoon, as San Marin will meet Healdsburg at 12:15 p.m. and Novato will face Red Bluff at 3 p.m.

All other Marin prep teams were to play on the road, with today's lone game calling for Tamalpais at San Mateo, 3:15 p.m.; and tomorrow's schedule matching San Rafael at Lincoln of San Francisco, 10 a.m., Drake at St. Elizabeth of Oakland, 1:30 p.m., Marin Catholic at Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, 6 p.m., Redwood at Vallejo, 8 p.m., and Terra Linda at Mission San Jose of Fremont, 8 p.m.

In games in West Marin and southern Sonoma, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park will visit Petaluma at 8 p.m. tonight, and tomorrow's schedule calls for El Molino of Forestville at Tomales, 2 p.m., Anderson Valley at St. Vincent of Petaluma, 2 p.m., and Moreau of Hayward at Casa Grande of Petaluma, 8 p.m.

College of Marin is idle.

Angel Island Picnic Tops Weekend Events

Highlighting this weekend's calendar of events, Tiburon's fifth annual Ayala Day picnic will be held on Angel Island tomorrow with everything from a chicken barbecue to sack races in store for picnic-goers.

Three ferryboats will leave for the island from Tiburon at 9 a.m.

Events for the day beginning at 10 a.m. on the island include volleyball and softball games, a dedication ceremony to honor the late Charles Winslow who pioneered in preserving the island and a hot chicken barbecue at noon.

After lunch, there will be sack races, egg and balloon toss competitions and a tug of war on the beach.

Throughout the day music will be provided by the Raccoon Straights Marching band and a barber shop quartet.

CIVILIZATION

A state of society held together by three indispensable things: the safety pin, the paper clip, and the zipper.

Tickets are available from Tiburon City Hall and Elmo De Martini.

Marin and Southern Sonoma residents caught at home by the gasoline drought can choose from a variety of other entertainment — the Renaissance Pleasure Faire to a bluegrass concert.

The seventh annual fair, which brings the sights, sounds and smells of a 16th Century market to Marin, will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday in an oak forest in the Black Point section of Novato.

Phantoms of the Opry, winners of the annual Bluegrass Festival in Bean Blossom, Ind., and the Arkansas Sheiks, a traditional string band, will perform bluegrass and country music at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College.

Tomorrow's events include a film, "Billy Jack," and a bicycle swap.

Prices Soar The Fastest In 40 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Consumer food prices zoomed in August at the fastest rate for any month in 40 years, generating the largest overall monthly increase in the cost of living since just after World War II, the government reported today.

Supermarket food prices, reflecting the end of the freeze on all of them except beef last July 18, rose 7.4 per cent and the increase was put at 7.7 per cent when seasonal factors were taken into account.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said overall consumer prices — also including nonfood items and services —surged up 1.8 per cent on an unadjusted basis in August, the largest single monthly advance since September, 1947.

The new report meant consumer prices now have climbed at a 10 per cent annual rate in the past six months, pushing the level of retail prices 7.5 per cent above one year ago.

Singer Jim Croce Killed In Crash Of Small Plane

NATCHITOCHES, La. (UPI) —A small plane hit a tree on takeoff last night and crashed killing six persons including singer Jim Croce whose song "You Don't Mess Around With Jim" won a Gold Album.

Croce's latest hit was "Bad, Bad Leroy Brown." The other crash victims were members of Croce's band, according to sheriff's investigators. The group had performed in concert at Northwestern State College, 75 miles southeast of Shreveport.

The plane was enroute to Sherman, Tex., for a concert tonight at Austin College.

"It was a single engine plane, I believe," said Deputy Walter Braxton. "I think it had eight seats in it. It was taking off and it did not get any altitude.

"Somehow or other it hit a tree and it came down."

The plane went past the runway, hit the tree and spun around in the air before crashing.

JIM CROCE
Gold Album winner

Croce, 30, kept his Gold Album on the wall of his home next to a letter from ABC-Dunhill records rejecting the material as "not strong enough for us."

He grew up in Philadelphia and studied accordion and taught himself to play the guitar and harmonica. He graduated from Villanova University in 1966.

Croce's songs were about rough characters in rough situations, but he always maintained they were about real people he had known.

He became a songwriter while driving a truck but became a performer as a school teacher. In the beginning he tried the coffeehouse circuit with his wife, Ingrid.

He said he developed his philosophy that produced two "talking blues" records about hard-fisted fighters while doing construction work, but he also wrote and performed soft love ballads like "Operator."

Question Arises On Nixon's Home Value

SANTA ANA (UPI) — The assessment on President Nixon's Western White House in San Clemente is nearly a million dollars under what it should be, according to an Orange County supervisor.

In a formal complaint filed with the county Assessment Appeals Board, Supervisor Robert Battin said the assessed value of the seaside "La Casa Pacifica" should be $2.32 million instead of the present assessment of $1.37 million, the Santa Ana Register reported yesterday.

The complaint alleged that the President received a $55,000 tax break during the past three years.

Battin, a former accountant, said "I think the President should be treated fairly and he should pay his fair share—no more, no less."

The supervisor's figures were based on the $1.5 million purchase price, $703,000 in improvements paid for by the General Services Administration, and $123,000 in other improvements made by the President.

County Assessor Jack Vallerga claimed the $1.37 million assessment is correct because the Western White House value has been lowered by the state coastline initiative passed last November.

Development along California's coast is prohibited by the measure unless it is specifically exempted by regional and state boards which are drawing up a master plan.

Auto Union Contract Is Approved

DETROIT (UPI) —Chrysler Corp. workers in four of the six Canadian plants yesterday overwhelmingly approved the new United Auto Workers contract with the automaker.

The approvals came in plants located in Windsor, Ont., where about 9,000 workers, members of Local 444, ratified the pact.

Local 444's approval brought the number of Chrysler bargaining units which have signed new contracts to 17. There are still 52 bargaining units left not under contract.

The union has already urged its locals to return to work Monday if contract ratification is conducted Sunday, regardless of whether local agreements have been signed.

The UAW said if progress is not made on local issues, locals can set strike deadlines and ask the UAW international executive board for strike authorization.

Nixon May Drop Tour Of Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon may cancel a long-planned grand tour of Europe this fall and is considering going to Japan instead, administration sources said today.

The White House insisted that the trip to Europe —which Nixon announced months ago he would make as part of his projected "Year of Europe" policy —was not definitely off, but Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren acknowledged the status was "still being assessed."

Other officials said "it is wrong to say it is completely off," but left the impression that the trip's status was uncertain. There has been increasing speculation in Washington and European capitals recently that because of Watergate and other pressures, the trip would be canceled —or at least postponed until next year.

Nixon had been invited to visit Japan when Premier Kakuei Tanaka was in Washington Aug. 1, and gave a tentative acceptance but the trip was not expected this fall. Administration sources said a visit to Tokyo was now being seriously considered.

Whether Nixon makes the European trip this year, they said, depends on the progress made on several subjects involving Europe and the United States.

Officials said that the European visit was still on the books, but that time was growing short for achieving the U.S.-European progress that Nixon feels would be necessary before the trip would be worthwhile.

Papal Audience

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI will receive the Dalai Lama Sept. 30 in the first papal audience ever granted a Tibetan Buddhist leader, the Vatican said today.

Birth Pill Warning Is Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Food and Drug Administration has decided to require that warnings about the use of "morning after" birth control pills be distributed so doctors will be able to advise their patients of possible dangerous side effects.

The agency said yesterday it would require that pamphlets be inserted in the pill packages and that advisories be printed on the labels, warnings that such side erfects effects abnormal blood clotting may result.

In addition, women who become pregnant despite the contraceptive will be told to talk to their doctor about the possiblity of an abortion because there have been cases recorded where daughters born to mothers using the drug developed vaginal cancer.

The drug involved is diethylstilbestrol—DES—the same synthetic growth hormone once used to fatten up beef cattle. Its use in cattle feed was banned in August, 1972, because residues of the drug were showing up in slaughtered animals.

It continued to be used in cattle as an ear implant until April of this year when that use was also banned because detectable levels were still appearing after slaughter.

The drug is known to be capable of causing cancer, although experts are in disagreement over what levels might be tolerable in the human system. It has been used as a post-coital contraceptive for the past five to 10 years.

"The FDA and the medical community generally must develop better procedures for informing patients about their drug therapy," said FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexandr Schmidt.

Senate Votes To Cut Military Orderlies

WASHINGTON (UPI) —If the U.S. Senate has its way, a general who wants his lawn mowed just might have to do it himself.

The Senate voted 73 to 9 yesterday to cut down the number of enlisted men now serving as servants of senior officers—cleaning house, tending bar and sometimes walking dogs.

It adopted an amendment to the $21.9 billion military procurement bill, cutting the number of these stewards and houseboys from 1,245 to 218. Presently, generals and admirals are entitled to one aide for each star on their hats, except that members of the joint chiefs of staff get up to seven.

If yesterday's amendment becomes law, the joint chiefs would be entitled to three aides each, four-star officers would get two, three-star officers would get one, and generals and admirals with only one or two stars would scramble for whatever aides are left.

Sen. William D. Proxmire, D-Wisc., who introduced the amendment, said: "The military brass can well afford to pay for their own servants if they need them." He said a full general makes the equivalent of $51,000 a year, including benefits.

The Pentagon had argued that GI servants were needed to free officers for official duties, help their wives with official entertainment, including entertaining congressmen, and help with the upkeep of old and deteriorating homes which the military provides.

In what could conceivably be an indication of amendments to come, Proxmire indicated he still wasn't completely satisfied. "Personally, I think that there is entirely too much partying going on in military circles," he said. "You don't need parties to keep this nation strong."

Hodge Can Sell Real Estate Again

CHICAGO (UPI) —Former Illinois political leader Orville E. Hodge, who went to prison for embezzling more than $1 million of state funds during the 1950s, won permission to sell real estate again yesterday.

Hodge, an affluent real estate man in Granite City, Ill., who become state auditor and was one of the top vote getters on the Republican state ticket, was stripped of his broker's licence when he was convicted in 1956.

Dissident War Hero's New Status

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union has released a dissident war hero from a mental institution and placed him in an ordinary hospital following protests by militant Russian intellectuals.

Friends of former Maj. Gen. Pyotr G. Grigorenko, who sacrificed his military career to become a political dissident, said last night the cashiered officer won the transfer in a long Soviet court battle.

Grigorenko, 66, was arrested on charges of "spreading falsehoods derogatory to the Soviet Union" during a trip to Tashkent in May 1969, to campaign for Tatars seeking to return from exile in Siberia.

He had also protested trials of dissident intellectuals and publicly denounced the 1968 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Grigorenko was never brought to trial, however. Family members said a psychiatric commission ruled him paranoid and sent him to the Chernyakhovsk Mental Hospital near Kalingrad.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Skylab Finale

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts conducted some final scientific research tasks today and prepared to take a final walk in space, confident they will successfully be able to return to Earth on Tuesday.

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma made the last "Earth resources survey sweep," the 41st of the flight, with their battery of cameras, adding to the thousands of miles of film and magnetic tape they'll bring home to keep scientists busy for months.

The spacemen successfully checked out the disabled Apollo ferry ship yesterday to make sure it can bring them down on target in the Pacific Ocean using only two of its four steering rockets.

Roosevelt Offer

LISBON (UPI) — Elliott Roosevelt, claiming "somebody is out to get me," said yesterday he will appear voluntarily before a Senate committee to refute allegations of his part in a plot to assassinate the prime minister of the Bahamas.

"I will go and I will appear before the committee next week or whenever it is they say they'd like me to appear," the son of the President Franklin D. Roosevelt said.

Wednesday, a convicted securities racketeer told the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee in Washington he was offered $100,000 by Roosevelt and another man to assassinate Bahamas Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling.

Allende Death

LONDON (UPI) — Mrs. Salvador Allende said in an interview broadcast today she now believes her husband died fighting rather than by suicide during the military coup that overthrew his Marxist government in Chile.

Mrs. Allende, in an interview with the British Broadcasting Corp. in Mexico City, said newsmen, detectives and firemen at the scene had established the fact he died fighting.

She had asserted in earlier interviews that Allende killed himself during the Sept. 11 coup with a submachine gun given him by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Hotel Bombed

BELFAST (UPI) — Two teenagers walked into a hotel near the border with the Irish Republic yesterday, gave the staff 15 minutes to get away and then demolished the building with two bombs.

An army spokesman said there were no injuries in the hotel attack at the town of Strabane along the County Tyrone border with the Republic of Ireland. The hotel was destroyed in the blast.

Authorities said the two youths, who entered the hotel carrying a bomb apiece, raced off empty handed after the blast.

River Run

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A Cambodian navy convoy made a daring run down the Mekong River and up a tributary today, carrying vital food and ammunition to a besieged provincial capital in eastern Cambodia, the high command said.

Command spokesman Col. Am Rong said the convoy of seven supply vessels, escorted by nine navy patrol boats, drew little shorefire from apparently surprised insurgents along the riverbank on the trip to Prey Veng, 57 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

It was the first time a convoy has made such a run, Am Rong said.

Marxist Ban

SANTIAGO (UPI) — The head of new military junta, Gen. Augusto Pinochet, today outlawed Chile's Marxist parties — the main support for the late President Salvador Allende.

At the same time Pinochet denied that either the United States or any other outside power was involved in the violent coup which he led to overthrow Allende and end civilian government in Chile on Sept. 11.

Pinochet's statement followed the announcement yesterday that the armed forces have captured a guerrilla chief leading leftist opposition to the four-man military junta.

Defense Ministry press officer Federico Willoughby said army troops captured guerrilla leader Jose Gregorio Liendo, known as "Commander Pepe," and 16 members of his leftist band.

Willoughby said the soldiers seized the guerrillas without resistance in the town of Panguipulli in the southern province of Valdivia.

No Power Clash

GENEVA (UPI) — United States officials at the European Security Conference said today they intended to avoid any major big power clash with the Soviet Union.

The officials said Washington was not coming forward with any specific proposals of its own at the second stage of the conference in Geneva to avoid a confrontation with Moscow.

Officials said, however, the United States was still firmly backing its West European allies in demanding concessions from Moscow on freer contacts and movement between East and West as part of any overall settlement.

If the Soviet Union, which wanted the conference in the first place, desires a meaningful agreement in the political sphere, it will have to accept measures in the humanitarian area, the officials said.

Agnew, Nixon Meet An Hour In Private

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew met privately for an hour last night, the White House said today. They presumably discussed allegations that Agnew was involved in kickback scheme while he was a Maryland public official.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the meeting was held in the Executive Building adjacent to the White House where both men have offices. Warren refused to say what the men discussed.

It was the first private meeting between Nixon and Agnew since Sept. 1 although they attended a Cabinet meeting together Sept. 7 and were both on hand for White House social functions Sept. 10 and Sept. 18.

"The President and vice president agreed there would be no discussion or report on the meeting," Warren told reporters.

A federal grand jury in Baltimore has been investigating political corruption in Maryland politics including allegations that Agnew accepted kickbacks while Maryland governor.

Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, said the vice president requested yesterday's meeting with Nixon. Like Warren, he said the two agreed "they were not going to say anything about what has been talked about."

"I'm not authorized to say anything," said Thomson. He conceded that the lack of information about the meeting might lead to speculation that a resignation was discussed, but Thomson said, "As far as I'm concerned it's unwarranted."

Only Nixon and Agnew were present at the meeting in Nixon's hideaway office in the Executive Office Building that came several days after reports that Agnew was considering resigning this week or within a few weeks.

In Washington, a source close to Agnew told UPI that the Vice President's position "hasn't changed. He's still fighting."

Agnew was holding "continuing conversations with people on Capitol Hill and is talking continually to the (Republican) leadership," the source said.

He said Agnew may select one of a number of upcoming speeches as a "forum" to respond to reports that he will resign.

The grand jury investigating corruption in Maryland poltitics met for 90 minutes yesterday, but reporters were kept away from the grand jury room and prevented from seeing witnesses and jurors.

The Justice Department refused to confirm or deny reports that Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson met here yesterday with U.S. Attorney for Maryland George Beall.

Marin for the weekend, she said, and were inquiring only about the local situation.

Among the canceled weekend outings were trips such as one planned to Mendocino County by Boy Scout Troop 36 of San Rafael. An elderly couple, who had had reservations at Yellowstone Park for more than two months, also decided this was not the weekend to set forth to Wyoming.

In Oakland last night, there were no dissenting voices in the crowd of 1,100 cheering, chanting service station owners who met beneath a "Let's Go Fishing" sign.

One after the other, they stood up to endorse a shutdown of their stations from yesterday at 4:30 p.m. to Tuesday afternoon. The men represented more than 50 per cent of the retail dealers of Northern California.

Russell Young, a Redwood City Shell dealer, told the audience that the dealers "aren't mobilizing to boycott or hurt the public. We're trying to show some unity to get the results we want."

He predicted that 75 per cent of Northern California stations would participate in the lockup.

Delegates from the floor also voiced approval for 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. operating hours to save on overhead costs until the price freeze is lifted.

The governmental proposal to add a 1-cent boost to gasoline prices early next week and another 1-cent later was termed an "insult" by the dealers.

Nationwide, sporadic shutdowns marked dealers' dissatisfaction with the price situation.

In Michigan, Charles Shipley, president of his state's service station dealers, said, "As of now things are peaceful. We're just going broke quietly."

He predicted that if there is no relief from the profit squeeze by next week, "there are going to be tremendous explosions regarding dealer reactions all over the country."

D. J. Callaghan, noted state Air Resources Board members were required to spend only 720 hours a year, despite their greater responsibilities.

It added "the present board meets only twice per month and has done an outstanding job."

Brown introduced the bill at the request of citizen groups dissatisfied with the district board's performance and with Callaghan. Some of the groups hope a new board would deprive Callaghan of the majority of present directors which defends him from critics.

Callaghan refused to give a copy of the letter to the Independent-Journal, and relented only after Alameda County supervisor Joseph P. Bort offered to disclose his own copy. The California Public Records Act makes such a document a public record as soon as it is drafted.

The governor will have until Oct. 2 to sign or veto the bill.

Ferry Terminal Design Contract Given Backing

A $194,000 contract to design a permanent downtown Sausalito ferry terminal was endorsed unanimously today by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The recommendation by the building and operating committee will go the full board at 10 a.m. next Friday in toll plaza offices.

The committee accepted the offer by the Sausalito firm of Environmental Planning and Design Associates to do the work. The same firm did the master plan for the terminal, and estimated its cost at $1.2 million.

The terminal is supposed to be in operation by July 1 next year when the first of the new ferryboats is scheduled to start service. The temporary terminal in Sausalito cannot accommodate the new ferries.

Shell Drops Fuel Pact For Buses

Shell Oil Co., which supplies the Golden Gate Bridge District with 1.7 million gallons of diesel fuel a year for its buses and Sausalito ferry, today canceled its contract as of Dec. 20.

There was little likelihood the district will run out of fuel, but it faces much higher prices as it competes for other sources, cautioned Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring.

The district's contract with Shell was for fuel at 11.75 cents a gallon, but the price shot up to 16 cents a gallon when additional fuel was needed recently and Shell could not provide it. Shell and all other refineries say they cannot make enough fuel to meet the demand.

The district has been buying 1.5 million gallons of diesel fuel a year for its 188 buses and 200,000 gallons for the ferry.

ra Linda, where three fires had scorched hillsides earlier that day.

The youth was taken to the Novato Police Department for questioning in those cases, then viewed by victims in the Terra Linda and Lucas Valley rape rampages, Stinson said.

The name of the youth — described by Stinson as a "husky Caucasian" — was withheld on a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Dump Truckers Accept $3.73 Hourly Pay Hike

SAN JOSE (UPI) —Some 400 independent dump truck owner-operators agreed yesterday to accept a $3.73 hourly pay hike, ending a four-day walkout at Bay Area construction jobs.

Their new salary will be $23.50 an hour.

The drivers struck Monday after truck brokers rejected their demand for a $25.70 rate. The compromise means a 19 per cent increase.

Ralph Grago, a spokesman for the owner-operators, said his association would shift its bargaining focus on the Central Valley and Southern California in attempts to secure higher fees for the trucks there.

A number of big construction projects in the Bay Area were slowed or shut down as a result of the strike.

Blood Bank Set Tomorrow

The San Marin Improvement Association will sponsor a blood bank at All Saints Lutheran Church, San Marin Drive and Novato Boulevard, Novato, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow.

The drive is to assure a reserve supply of blood to be available to any San Marin resident, but anyone wishing to give the blood in the name of another organization can do so, according to Marcia Curtis, chairman.

San Marin residents also may give blood in the name of the association at the bloodmobile which will be at the Novato Community Center until 7 p.m. today.

Jury Convicts In Drug Case

A Marin Superior Court Jury yesterday found Steven Richard Flynn, 25, of Tiburon, guilty of felony possession of marijuana. Judge Joseph G. Wilson set sentencing for Oct. 26.

The verdict came after a trial lasting three and one-half days and after almost four hours of deliberation by jurors.

Flynn was charged with receiving a package containing more than three ounces of hashish from India Feb. 3. A U.S. Postal Inspector testified Flynn had not opened the package when authorities raided his apartment 30 minutes after the parcel was delivered.

en together with a 1.1 per cent boost for restaurant meals, increased the total food index by an unadjusted rate of 6 per cent.

The BLS said that was the swiftest one-month rise since one of 9.4 per cent in July, 1933, in the midst of the Depression. The agency initially reported that the previous high was 9.6 per cent in April, 1917, but corrected this after rechecking its records.

Food prices in the San Francisco-Oakland area increased 4.4 per cent in August with meat, poultry and fish soaring 16.2 per cent.

The food price index stood at 18.4 per cent above the year ago level. This meant it cost $14.44 in August to buy the same amount of food which cost $10 in 1967.

Food purchased for home use increased 5.4 per cent, up 22.3 per cent from last year.

The report on food prices alone was based on a nationwide survey taken Aug. 7-9 by the BLS and was the first to show the effect of the lifting of the freeze on them.

Government economists had predicted that August would be a bad month for retail prices, since it came on the heels of a record rise in wholesale prices in July.

But the magnitude of the retail price statistics appeared to go beyond expectations and to be a setback for the administration's anti-inflation program, now in Phase IV.

The BLS said higher prices for meats, poultry and eggs accounted for about 80 per cent of the retail price explosion in August, when grocery prices usually drop because supplies are plentiful. Meat, poultry and fish prices rose 16.4 per cent after declining slightly in July.

Gary L. Seevers, a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the retail food price bulge was "in part an overreaction to pressures built up during the freeze."

Seevers forecast continuing "pressures for price increases until food supplies have expanded to match the high level of demand," although he said there had been "substantial declines" in wholesale prices for cattle, hogs and broilers.

Beef and veal prices also rose sharply and consumers paid more for bread and milk. Fresh fruit and vegetable prices were down.

There also was bad news on the non-food side. Clothing prices, which generally drop in late summer, went up instead. The cost of homes, home repairs and fuel oil at retail also increased although prices for new and used cars declined.

Felony Driving Charge Denied

A Santa Cruz County man pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a felony drunken driving charge arising from an alleged wrongway drive down Highway 101 Sept. 7.

A preliminary hearing for Joseph Edwin Schumacher, 60, of Boulder Creek, was set for Oct. 2 by Judge David R. Baty.

Four members of a San Francisco family were injured when their car crashed into a guardrail while trying to avoid Schumacher's car, which was driving north in the freeway's southbound lanes in San Rafael, according to the California Highway Patrol.

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH CHIARA

Joseph N. Chiara, retired Petaluma engineer, died yesterday at a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 54.

Chiara was born and reared in Brooklyn, N.Y., and had lived in Petaluma 33 years. He served in the Merchant Marines during World War II.

Chiara worked as an engineer at Mare Island Naval Shipyards for 14 years and for Douglas Aircraft Co. and Western Condensing of Petaluma. He retired 13 years ago after suffering serious injuries in an automobile accident.

Chiara lived at 339 Walnut Street and was a member of the St. Vincent's Fathers and Men's clubs.

He is survived by his wife, Fontilla; four sons, Peter Chiara of Petaluma, Michael Chiara of Davis, Gerald Chiara of San Jose and Robert Chiara of Los Angeles; two daughters, Antoinette Chiara of Petaluma and Claudette Prettyleaf of San Luis Obispo; two brothers, Rev. Chiara of Medford, N.Y., and Dr. Nicholas Chiara of Staten Island, N.Y.; a sister, Antoinette Chiara of Rockville Center, N.Y., and two grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent De Paul Church, Petaluma. Recitation of the rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Sorensen Funeral Home. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

HAZEL NELSON

Memorial services for the late Hazel Nelson, longtime teacher at Ross School, will be held at 4 p.m. next Thursday at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross.

Mrs. Nelson, a teacher at Ross School in Ross for 20 years, died last June in a Kern County Hospital.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Hazel Nelson primary library fund at Ross School.

ANTOINETTE E. KOSTA

Antoinette E. Kosta, a San Rafael resident for the past 27 years, died yesterday at home. She was 54.

A son, Walter, found her dead on her bed near empty pill bottles, according to the Marin County Coroner's office. A note indicating despondency was found nearby.

Mrs. Kosta was born and reared in San Francisco. She met and married her husband Stanley P. Kosta, there in 1939.

They moved to San Rafael 27 years ago and reared two children here.

Mrs. Kosta worked as a secretary for a Marin physican for 15 years, but had been a housewife for the last two years. She was a member of the Medical Secretaries Association.

She is survived by her husband, and two sons, Walter P. Kosta of Novato, who works as a San Rafael policeman, and Robert S. Kosta of Denmark.

Funeral will be held Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Entombment will be private.

Chances Better On Survival

DENVER (UPI) —Doctors said today they were enthusiastic about chances of survival for the five remaining Stanek sextuplets. Their mother, who lost one of the children to a lung disease, said she would take a fertility drug again if she had it to do over.

"All five of the infants are in stable condition today," said obstetrician Dr. Tibor Engel.

Engel visited with Mrs. Stanek briefly after checking the 5-day-old children in the obstetrics ward nursery.

WILL HE BE KING?

Bill Bangert, mayor of Champ, Mo., shows the harness he has designed in attempt to move the 7,000-pound Naha Stone on the Island of Hawaii. According to legend, if Bangert is able to move the stone, he will become king of Hawaii. Bangert said yesterday in Honolulu he wanted to prove that King Kamehameha actually did move the stone some 200 years ago before he united the islands. Bangert plans his feat next month. Vibration Harnessed As Source Of Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Navy engineer today announced the discovery of a "revolutionary but amazingly simple" way to overcome friction and power a bulldozer with an engine the size of those used in four-cylinder small cars.

Dr. Howard A. Gaberson of the Naval Civil Engineering Laboratory at Point Hueneme Calif., said his new invention called the "Vibra-Lo" moves because of rapid vibration rather than rolling on wheels or tracks.

"It is a board set on the ground and shaken by a weight to go forward," Gaberson said.

"The new land locomotion invention certainly won't replace the bulldozer, but it will do some things the dozer can't. Although most bulldozers move faster, our devices will outperform any locomotive method in jobs calling for sheer weight-pull."

Gaberson's device works for much the same reason that a washing machine will "walk" across the floor during its spin cycle if its load of clothes is not evenly distributed. It moves in small, rapid hops.

A Pentagon spokesman called the discovery "revolutionary but amazingly simple" and said the Defense Department is looking at it as a potential way to back amphibious craft off a beach and to move heavy loads across terrain where wheeled or tracked vehicles would bog down.

New Plans On Sterilization

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government has proposed new restrictions on a program in which the federal government finances sterilization of about 100,000 women a year.

Under rules proposed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) yesterday, all would have to give consent in writing before operations could be performed. The proposal allows 30 days for public comment before becoming effective.

The proposal goes beyond guidelines issued by HEW Aug. 3, which called for written consent only by or on behalf of minors or persons mentally incompetent.

children CAN'T help WONDERING.

And they wonder a lot about God. They seem to have a natural awareness that He's here, and that He's important. But they want to know more.

In the Christian Science Sunday School, God's nearness and goodness become practical realities to children. They study and discuss weekly Bible Lessons, and how to apply their truths each day. They learn to look to God for His unfailing help.

No need for your child to go on wondering. Let him start discovering, at our Sunday School. We'll be delighted to welcome him and his friends.

WASTE NOT — This healthy looking field of sorghum near Rohnert Park is being irrigated with waste water from the city's sewage treatment plant. Backers of the experimental eight acres say it would take approximately 6,000 acres to handle the 25 million gallons of wastewater produced daily by the cities of Rohnert Park, Petaluma and Santa Rosa.

Road Patrol, Smog Alert Plans Delayed By Air Control Board

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Delays in two widely publicized new programs were acknowledged yesterday by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. (Another Air Pollution Control District story, page 1.)

A roving highway patrol by 12 district vehicles to stop and cite drivers of smoking vehicles, originally announced to start last June, now can't start until sometime next month because the red lights and sirens have not arrived.

And a health alert on smoggy days for persons with respiratory problems, adopted by district directors in June after a year of discussion by the advisory council, won't get started until next month because of arguments over the title of the alert system.

The 17 directors present accepted the staff reports without debate. Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. was the only director absent.

The district's administrator, D. J. Callaghan, said "we might be getting into a medical error" if there were not "a slight delay" in the health alert system. The heaviest smog season traditionally runs from September through October, thus the new system will not start until the tail end of this year's season.

The district's public information officer, Edward W. McHugh, told the board the argument over the title of the new system had delayed printing of publicity to be sent all doctors so they can handle patients' questions when alerts are called.

The board also debated inconclusively whether district inspectors in the highway patrol should have the power to arrest drivers. The district's counsel, David Self, said the power to cite was meaningless unless the inspectors first could halt a driver by arrest.

Callaghan said inspectors will call for help from the California Highway Patrol to arrest drivers who refuse to stop. Self noted such drivers then could be cited also for resisting arrest.

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto objected "you don't put serious police power in the hands of amateurs." A hearing on the issue was set at 11 a.m. on Oct. 3 in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors also:

COMPLAINTS — Asked the State Cooperative Personnel Services to redo its job classification and salary survey of district employees objecting its findings failed to maintain high enough standards. A spokesman for the state office said court decisions have forced lower hiring standards to "allow more people to compete for jobs."

AIRPORT — Approved a $12,000 contract with the City of San Jose to measure air quality at its airport over the next year.

Distribution Of Local Sales, Use Tax Funds

Payments to cities and the counties of Marin and Sonoma in the September distribution of local sales and use tax funds, have been announced by the state Board of Equalization.

The money comes from cleanup payments for the second quarter of 1973 and advance payment for the third quarter.

Marin County will receive $44,843 and Sonoma County, $331,500.

Payments to the cities will be:

Belvedere, $2,533; Corte Madera, $45,672; Fairfax, $11,794; Larkspur, $23,070; Mill Valley, $35,438; Novato, $68,917; Ross, $1,566; San Anselmo, $20,775; San Rafael, $284,028; Sausalito, $44,358; Tiburon, $8,627; Cotati, $13,350; Petaluma, $93,442, and Rohnert Park, $20,171.

Sonoma Test May Save Dairies

By PAT ANGLE

With its tall green stalks waving in the breeze, the field looks like any other flourishing plot of corn and sorghum.

But the eight acres, west of Highway 101 near Rohnert Park, are actually an experiment designed to recycle wastewater, end urban sprawl and pump life into Sonoma's dairy industry.

The crops are irrigated with treated waste water from the city of Rohnert Park and there is a hope that the small plot may someday grow to 6,000 acres, spread around Sonoma's major towns.

The corn and sorghum will be used to feed cattle and provide a lessexpensive food source for local dairymen whose irrigation bills are among their major expenses, according to Judson Snyder, a project spokesman.

Behind the experiment are Sonoma County officials, dairy industry representatives, environmentalists and University of California agricultural experts.

The project's sponsors see it as a feasible way to solve many of the county's most pressing problems.

For example, Snyder said the cities of Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Santa Rosa are struggling to curb urban sprawl as agricultural land is being bought up by land developers and speculators.

The cities want a greenbelt of farming lands bordering their boundaries, he said, but the cost of acquiring these lands through taxes and bond issues is almost prohibitive.

Were the cities to buy farm land and use waste water to irrigate it, federal funding would be possible and there would be less burden on the local taxpayer.

In addition, using the free water as a drawing card, the cities would probably have no trouble leasing the lands to commercial operators, Snyder said. The city of San Diego has been involved in a similar business for 11 years and makes a 5 per cent annual return on their original investment for purchase of the property.

The disposal of waste water from sewer plants has become a major problem for Sonoma cities, since water quality officials have forbidden the dumping of such water into streams unless it has received tertiary treatment.

City officials estimate that a tertiary treatment plant to serve Rohnert Park, Petaluma and Santa Rosa would cost more than $75 million and could result in a doubling of sewer charges to local homeowners.

A means of disposing of the waste water through irrigation would make a tertiary treatment plant unnecessary, according to Snyder.

On the dairy front, producers have traditionally imported most of their hay from the Central Valley. Transportation from the valley and increased competition from foreign markets has resulted in soaring feed costs.

Unless a less expensive source of feed can be found, Earl Holtz, county dairy extension specialist, predicts that dairymen will be forced to move to areas where crops can be grown more efficiently.

If forage crops were irrigated with free water, they would cost less and provide a boost to the industry, he said.

Participants in the project include the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors, City of Rohnert Park, University of California Agricultural Extension Service, School of Environmental Studies at Sonoma State College, Sonoma County Farm Bureau, Sonoma County Economic Development Board, Sonoma County Tomorrow and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Roaming Tam Students To Be Session Topic

A special meeting with Mill Valley, county and school officials on how to police Tamalpais High School students will be held next month by the Almonte Improvement Club.

Joan Panek, club president, said that the club decided to hold the meeting after receiving a petition Wednesday from 45 residents complaining of problems caused by students who leave the school campus to wnader through Almonte.

According to Mrs. Panek, difficulties arise because three law enforcement agencies overlap in jurisdiction.

When students are on campus or in Mill Valley, the Mill Valley police must deal with them, Mrs. Panek said. When they cross into Almonte behind the school, the California Highway Patrol is responsible for any parking or traffic problems they create and the sheriff's deputies must deal with any criminal activites students are involved in, she said.

Mrs. Panke also said the club wants the school to restrict students to Mill Valley because sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen are too qverworked to deal with problems they create.

But residents also want the highway patrol to step up enforcement of no-parking regulations in Almonte to keep out student cars, she added.

Representstatives of the Tamalpais Union High School board, Mill Valley police, the sheriff's department and highway patrol as well as Supervisor Micahel Wornum will be asked to the meeting for which a date has not been set yet.

Mrs. Panek said that at the meeting another petition was endorsed by the club which asked that the county health department clean up an empty lot at Homestead Boulevard and Stadium Avenue where dumped trash is attracting rats.

The group decided to give up regular monthly meetings in favor of holding occasional meetings when a community crisis demands it.

"Rather than try to create something to interest people, we want them to come to us with an issue," said Mrs. Panek.

The club will continue, however, to send out its monthly newsletter to residents, she said.

Marin Trio Elected To Area Panel

I-J Special Report

LAKEPORT — Two Marin men were renamed yesterday to positions with the Redwood Empire Association and a third Marinite was elected to the association's executive board at the group's annual convention here.

J. Galen Foster of San Rafael, North Bay division manager for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., was reelected a vice president for the nine-county association.

Carney J. Campion of San Rafael was reappointed general manager.

Larry H. Marks, owner of Olema Ranch Campgrounds in Olema, was elected "at large" to the executive board.

The elections took place at the opening session of the 53rd annual meeting of the group. Andrew Flynn, Crescent City title executive, was elected to a second term as president of the association.

Money In Air Ties Up Traffic

LONDON (UPI) — Passersby pounced, a truck driver jumped from his truck to get in on the action and drivers ran from their cars, causing traffic jams.

For flying around in the wind were five pound ($12.50) notes, being scattered by 25-year-old Carol Reynolds. By the time she finished, she had thrown away $3,500.

"This is for the poor of the world," she said as she scattered the money.

Dymally, Possible Contender For Second Spot, Lists Wealth

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Democratic Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, a potential candidate for lieutenant governor, estimates his personal wealth at $20,000 and says he earned $31,530 last year.

The Los Angeles lawmaker, the Senate's only black, made the public disclosure yesterday. He said income besides has $19,200 salary as a legislator came from teaching, lectures, fees and honorarium.

The financial statement showed his estimated net worth when he entered the legislature as an assemblyman in 1963 was $6,250.

Co-author of the Legislature's recently passed Election Campaign Disclosure Act, Dymally said in an accompanying news release, "I think I can say that I have not profited financially from serving in the Legislature."

The disclosure showed he had no current outside business activities, has invested $5,000 in Consensus Publishers Inc., a college textbook publisher, and that he has a 10 per cent interest in an apartment building and a half interest in a desert cabin, plus ownership of homes in Los Angeles and Sacramento.

He estimated his total assets at $25,160 and liabilities at $5,000. The liabilities constituted two outstanding loans.

Dymally said he had $1,200 in a checking account and owned a 1967 Chevrolet. He said the statement did not include retirement and insurance benefits and that additional details would be disclosed in a subsequent report.

Bridge Tolls For BART Suggested

BERKELEY (UPI) —A federal official suggested yesterday that tolls on the Golden Gate and Bay Bridges be hiked to provide financial aid to the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

John E. Hirten, deputy chief of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, made the comment when told BART faced a $100 million operating deficit.

Hirten was here to attend a conference on transportation and urban environment at the University of California.

Without BART and the area's bus systems, he said, there would be "total dependence on the auto—impossible congestion and pollution."

Hirten added: "This (BART) is a public need and needs public support."

The federal representative said it was "up to the local community to decide how to fund its local transit.

"There are many ways of doing this. I see nothing wrong about raising tolls on both bridges to support BART."

Driver Killed

FREMONT (UPI) —James Probst, 42, was decapitated last night when his car veered off the road near the San Mateo Bridge and crashed into a building.

Reagan Says Tactics Unfair On Tax Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan charged today that the campaign being fought against his tax ceiling initiative "is a little bit like Watergate."

Although bugging and burglary are not involved, Reagan said, the same attitude exists that anything in politics is fair.

Reagan's criticism was aimed particularly at Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, who is campaigning feverishly against the plan, and the San Francisco public relations firm of Whitaker and Baxter, which has been hired by the California Teachers Association to promote opposition to the Nov. 6 ballot measure.

"Damn it, that's dishonest," Reagan told a newsman as he read a campaign letter Moretti had written to the editor of a newspaper (The Santa Monica Evening Outlook).

He said the same thing about a brochure prepared by Whitaker and Baxter which was mailed to news executives. It proclaimed: "Don't be duped by Prop. 1—The tax 'reform' that's a reshuffle, not a reduction."

"This is a little bit like Watergate," said Reagan. "If somebody believes in a philosophy, let him battle for it on that basis—not by lying."

Asked to elaborate how his opponents' campaign correlated to the Watergate scandal, Reagan said: "Well, I know these men don't steal or anything. But in waging a political battle, they believe it's okay to distort, tell half truths, falsehoods."

Reagan agreed there was "not the illegality" of Watergate. But the Republican governor said just as the Watergate conspirators waged a campaign with dirty tricks instead of strictly on the issues, the opponents of his tax ceiling plan also are avoiding the real issues.

"I haven't lied, I haven't shuffled over anything," Reagan said.

Black Woman Starts Impeachment Action

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) —A state representative who was called "a nigger woman" by Comptroller Robert S. Calvert has prepared a resolution to impeach the elected official.

Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas, said yesterday she will ask the legislature to formally impeach Calvert, 81, unless he first resigns or ends what she called discriminatory hiring practices.

Mrs. Johnson, 37, also filed a complaint with the Federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission claiming Calvert, the comptroller since 1949, discriminated against women, Negroes and Mexican-Americans in hiring office workers.

Calvert replied by calling Mrs. Johnson "a nigger woman who doesn't know what she's talking about." He told UPI he wouldn't hire a woman because "we wouldn't be about to send her down to Houston to one of those nigger or Mexican neighborhoods."

Mrs. Johnson said she was insulted by Calvert's remarks, but that wasn't the reason she prepared the impeachment resolution. She said Calvert's hiring practices violate the U.S. Constitution, the Texas Constitution and several other federal and state laws.

Marin Will Receive $860,823 Check

Marin County will receive $860,823 from the state as reimbursement for income lost through the state-mandated exemption from the personal property tax on business inventories, according to the office of the state controller.

This included payment of claims for business inventory taxes lost during 1973-74 and adjustments on payments made for 1972-73.

Museum Schedules Classes, Field Trips

Nature classes and field trips for adults and children, both individuals and families, will begin Oct. 5 at the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Science in San Rafael.

Brochures and further information about the programs, which include preschool nature walks, creek ecology, reptile classes, ecology walks for women and a seashore life class, are available by calling the museum at 76 Albert Park Lane.

Information Reported Incorrectly

An Independent-Journal report on the sentencing of Marc Allan Litchfield of San Rafael Sept. 11 incorrectly stated Litchfield named 19 firms which he burglarized.

Actually, Litchfield pleaded guilty to and was sentenced for possessing stolen property, not burglary. Goods from 19 Marin and San Francisco firms were found in his apartment.

The article also quoted Litchfield as telling arresting officers that everything in his apartment was stolen.

In fact, Litchfield pointed out four items, according to his probation report, then "told officers that that was all the property in his residence that was stolen."

Litchfield was given 90 days in jail and two years probation by Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best.

Pakistan Wants Prisoner Release

ZULFIKAR ALI BHUTTO
U.N. policy statement

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto said yesterday he would support U.N. membership for Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan, only after India releases all prisoners left from the Indo-Pakistani war.

Fresh from talks earlier this week with President Nixon, Bhutto made the pledge in the first major policy speech before the 28th General Assembly, which opened its annual session Tuesday by admitting East and West Germany and the Bahamas to the world body.

Dressed in a white tunic elaborately embroidered in gold, Bhutto said Pakistan would drop its objections to the admission of Bangladesh to the United Nations as soon as all prisoners, specifically 195 detainees considered possible war prisoners by Bangladesh and India, are returned.

India and Pakistan recently concluded agreement for the return of 90,000 prisoners held since the 1971 war, in which Bangladesh — formerly Pakistan's eastern wing—emerged as an independent nation.

The agreement did not include the 195 suspected war criminals. Bhutto said until they, too, are freed, "there can be no question of the recognition and admission to the United Nations of Bangladesh."

The gray-haired, bespectacled Bhutto, however, said Pakistan "will not resist the admission of Bangladesh into the United Nations as soon as all of our prisoners of war, including the 195, have been repatriated to Pakistan."

Bangladesh, with its estimated 90 million population, makes it one of the world's largest countries. Its U.N. admission was also blocked by China, which backed Pakistan in the war.

Mideast Peace Move Expected From U.S.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli official in Jerusalem said today his government expected the United States to launch a new initiative soon to end the Middle East crisis. Political sources in Cairo said the Egyptian government was unaware of any such plans.

The Israeli official said the drive for a Mideast peace would probably be spearheaded by U.S. Secretary of State-designate Henry A. Kissinger after the Israeli elections at the end of October.

"It's not only that we expect the Americans to take steps, but Kissinger has said so himself," the Israeli official said.

In Cairo, the sources said the Israeli statements may have been aimed at "anesthetizing" world opinion on the Middle East question. American diplomats in Cairo said they, too, were unaware of such an initiative.

President Nixon declared in a news conference Sept. 5 that he was giving "highest priority" to the search for a settlement in the Middle East. He blamed both Israel and the Arabs for the deadlock, and said the United States would apply its influence to get negotiations "off dead center."

The Israeli official said that despite the belief there will be a new U.S. peace initiative, "certainly, nothing will take place before the elections." Elections for a new government and parliament will be held Oct. 30.

The United States has urged an interim settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute based on the reopening of the Suez canal. Israel has accepted such a proposal in principle and has called for direct negotiations without prior conditions with the Arab nations that lost territory in the 1967 Middle East war.

Another official in Tel Aviv said that Israel has no intention of returning to the pre-1967 war borders. He said Israel believes that Egypt is the key to breaking the Middle East deadlock.

Israel is very much interested in getting out of the deadlock created by the Arab refusal to hold direct negotiations, and thus welcomes any initiative by the United States," the official said.

In other Middle East developments, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said he hoped hundreds of Palestinian guerrillas released by Jordan would not take up arms against his country.

Curing Agent Used In Hams, Bacon Due Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Agriculture Department today formed an advisory committee to study the possible formation of a cancer-causing agent in ham, bacon and other cured meats.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said recent events "have brought increasing concern about the safety of the use of nitrite as a curing agent."

Sodium nitrite has been used to cure meats for years. It prevents contamination and gives cured meat its red color.

But recent studies have brought it under increasing attack because of the reported possibility that it can react to other acides in the meat and form nitrosamines—known carcinogens. One report on the subject by Dr. Michael Jacobson, co-director of the Washington-based Center for Science in the Public Interest, labeled bacon as probably the most dangerous food in the supermarket.

Earlier this summer the Food and Drug Administration and the Agriculture Department ordered meat packers to stop mixing sodium nitrite with spices in advance of placing the curing mix in such products as lunch meat and sausage. It said investigators had found cases where such pre-mixes contained nitrosamines, apparently through a reaction of the curing agent and the spices. The use of separately-handled or "buffered" agents and spices was ruled safe and allowed to continue.

Butz said there is now "a great deal of information in our hands. This panel will study the material and make recommendations as to what action needs to be taken."

The committee consists of Dr. Cecile H. Edwards of Howard University in Washington; Dr. Leo Friedman of the FDA's Bureau of Foods, Dr. Richard A. Greenburg of Swift & Co., Oak Brook, Ill.; Dr. James P. Keating of St. Louis Children's Hospital, St. Louis; Dr. Aaron E. Wasserman, of the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Research Service in Philadelphia, and Dr. John H. Weisburger, American Health Foundation, New York.

Alioto Reports Good News For Naval Shipyard

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto announced yesterday Hunters Point Naval Shipyard can be converted to civilian ship-building activities.

The Navy had insisted previously that it would retain 110 acres of the 963-acre installation, including one major dry-dock and ship repair facilities.

Alioto said the Department of Defense now is open to bids on the entire shipyard.

Alioto made his announcement after a closed-door meeting with Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Mendolia.

The Navy has been phasing out its ship repair operations at Hunters Point and proposed putting it in mothballs after next June 30th.

THE COUNTDOWN TO OUR HI-FI EXTRAVAGANZA BEGINS THIS WEEK WITH FREE CREDIT

Pacific Stereo's Sound Experience is coming to the Cow Palace the first weekend in October, and it should be one of the biggest and best hi-fi shows ever. Not only will the top manufacturers be demonstrating the latest in stereo and four-channel gear, but there will be continuous live music, including a rock concert every night with name groups. Tickets for the show are free at Pacific Stereo; just drop by and ask. And as a prelude to the show, we're packing our stores with even better-than-usual values during the next couple of weeks. For openers, we're offering our free credit terms this week on the systems and items in the ad; there's no finance charge at all, and you can arrange the down payment and 12 monthly payments to suit your particular needs (we've provided a typical payment plan with each item). But you'll have to come in this week for the free credit, as we can only offer these terms through Thursday, the 27th.

Save on Low-Noise Open Reel Tape

Memorex low-noise tape has excellent dynamic range and will draw every last dB of performance from your deck. There's 1800 feet on the 7" reel, and the price is only $3.49 per reel this week at Pacific Stereo. (Our usual discount price is $5.39 per reel.)

A Stereo Starter for $200 (And a $90 Saving)

The new Sony HST-230A AM/FM stereo receiver only costs $159.95, but you'd never guess from the complete array of features such as a tape monitor switch, a loudness contour and bass and treble tone controls. The tuner will give you truly outstanding FM reception with no unwanted noises, and the amplifier puts out 24 watts (RMS) of good clean power. The price even includes the walnut case.

The Garrard 40B is a totally reliable automatic record player with a gentle record changing action and damped cueing to help you keep your discs in mint condition. Our $49.95 price includes a base and an Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge.

The Audio Design 806's are two-way systems with an 8-inch bass speaker. They sell for $79.90 a pair, and deliver the kind of clear, natural-sounding bass lines you can't get by turning up the bass control on your portable.

A Fine-Sounding, Well-Matched Sherwood System

Sherwood's S7100A is a lot of receiver for its $219.95 price: you get 44 watts (RMS) of power at low distortion, and the FM tuner section follows a Sherwood specialty: has a really excellent 65dB signal-to-noise ratio, so you'll get music undiluted by background noise. Even the AM tuner is pretty good, and you'll find all the convenience features you'd want. The walnut case is included in the price.

A low-friction tonearm, steady-speed synchronous motor and adjustable anti-skating are among the features that help make the BSR 510A automatic record player an excellent value at $69.45. A base and a Shure M75ECS elliptical cartridge are included in the price.

Quadraflex Model 44's sound super good from the bass man's low E on up. They're two-way, ten-inch systems that are an outstanding value at their regular $159.90 a pair price.

The Spectrosonic 210-4 AM/FM stereo receiver has a direct-coupled amplifier section that's capable of producing 60 watts (RMS) from 20 to 20,000 Hz. The advanced tuner section and features like four-channel adaptability, FM muting and a loudness contour make the 210-4 one of the best values around at its regular $269.95 price. (The walnut case is extra.)

Garrard's SL72B automatic record player has a sophisticated tonearm that has no trouble tracking even severely warped records, and the Synchro-Lab motor guarantees a rock-steady speed. The $109.95 price includes a base and an Empire 999XE/X elliptical cartridge.

The sound of the Quadraflex Model 55's is clean as can be, and their deep bass response and power handling capacity leave very little to be desired. They're three-way, ten-inch systems that go for $239.90 a pair.

Save $110 on a Great Combination

TEAC's 220 cassette deck is about as fine a value as you'll see in quality cassette equipment. Although its regular price is only $239.50, it offers outstanding performance and all the features essential to making good cassette recordings. For instance, there's a tape selector switch that lets you use either standard or chromium dioxide tape to maximum advantage, and there's also a pair of big, easy-to-read VU meters to aid you in recording. We're selling the 220 together with TEAC's AN-60 outboard Dolby noise reduction unit, which can increase the signal-to-noise ratio of the 220 by up to 10dB. In other words, your recordings will not only be very faithful, but very free of hiss too. The AN-60 is normally $99.50; this week you can get it with the deck for less than the regular price of the deck alone.

Free Credit on One of the Best Speakers Around

The Rectilinear III is a 4-way floor-standing speaker system that is generally regarded by critical listeners as being one of the finest made. The III uses a 12-inch bass speaker, a 5-inch midrange unit, a pair of 2½-inch treble speakers, and a pair of 2-inch cones for the highest frequencies. Dispersion is excellent, the bass response is clean all the way down to 20 Hz, and the system easily handles very high volumes. The III is a bargain at $279 each, but this may be your last chance to get it for that: the price is going up to $299 soon.

An End To Probation Subsidies Called For

"California's current system of probation subsidies should really be revoked," Deputy Atty. Gen. Edward P. O'Brien told a San Rafael audience last night.

This brought the greatest round of applause during O'Brien's "Law Enforcement Night" address to a crowd that overflowed the Maple Lawn dining room of the San Rafael Elks Lodge.

The system, declared O'Brien, who heads the criminal division of the attorney general's office in San Francisco, "gives counties an economic incentive to put people on probation. Courts should recommend probation on the ability to perform as law-abiding citizens, not to put money in the county coffers."

The dinner meeting, honoring Marin law enforcement officers, drew wide representation from the district attorney's office, California Highway Patrol, and various police departments — including one woman officer, Molly McGowan of the Mill Valley Police Department.

Rapping "strange notions about how to handle convicted felons," O'Brien urged that "protection of society must come first."

"When I hear probation people speak with a straight face of murderers and other felons as their clients, I sometimes wonder," he said.

California, declared O'Brien, has prided itself on its advances in handling criminals, yet has one of the nation's highest crime rates. Asking, "What went wrong?" he answered himself that "not every innovation that California has tried has worked. . . We should be willing to abolish programs which don't work."

One of these, he asserted, is the probation subsidy program, which pays counties for not sending convicted felons to prison.

The deputy attorney general praised Senate Bill 237 by state Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding, which mandates stiff penalties for crimes of violence and narcotics peddling, and Marin Sen. Peter H. Behr's bill — which has passed the Legislature — providing compensation from the state for victims of violent crime.

Warden Louis S. Nelson of San Quentin Prison, as master of ceremonies, introduced the speaker, Lt. Col. (ret.) Walter S. Filler was program chairman.

Ex-Policeman Can Remain Free

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The State Court of Appeal ruled yesterday that former San Francisco policeman Aster V. McDonough can remain free of $10,000 bail pending appeal of his bribery conviction.

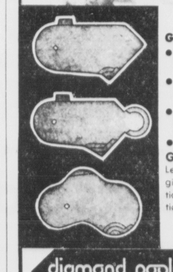

McDonough was sentenced May 24 to one to 14 years in prison for trying to bribe an Oakland vice squad officer to protect a bookie.

BOAT UNDER GUARD

A member of the Coast Guard stands watch over the fishing boat, Gilma I, after other guardsmen (in boat) brought it to the Miami Beach port. The boat was seized Wednesday in Bahamanian waters by U.S. authorities. Two men were arrested and eight tons of marijuana removed. Barrels on the stern were for a long distance fuel supply.

Center Gains Time To Upgrade Kitchen

A Mill Valley retirement center has received an extension of 30 days from the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin to upgrade its kitchen facilities to meet state requirements.

According to Dr. Michael L. Harris council president, the Redwoods is licensed as a retirement center but is seeking an additional state license to provide more nursing care to patients.

If the facility makes sufficient progress in upgrading its kitchen facilities during the 30-day extension the council will automatically grant another 30-day extension so that the licensing process can be completed. But under no circumstances will the extension be granted beyond 90 days from Aug. 28, according to Harris.

If the Mill Valley center is not licensed within the time limit, the health planning council will revoke its certificate of need and allow the number of beds set for skilled nursing at the Redwoods to be placed in another county facility.

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin also:

HEARING — Set a public hearing for 8 p.m. Oct. 17 in the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium to consider a license change for Canyon Manor Convalescent Hospital. It is requesting a license change from 62 skilled nursing beds and 18 alcoholism hospital beds to 80 long term mental beds.

MEETINGS — Changed the group's meetings to the second Wednesday of the month to coordinate its meetings with Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council and state deadlines.

APPOINTMENTS — Made the following appointments: Cynthia Wik of Mill Valley, annual meeting chairman; Timothy J. Egan of San Rafael, Marin Council of Agencies representative; Ezilda Lucheta of San Rafael (chairman), Mary Lee Brooks of Novato and Nancy Roach of Mill Valley to the group's nominating committee.

FEDERAL — Approved participation of Joan Ripple, executive director of the council, in federal assessment team which will evaluate all comprehensive health planning agencies.

OPEN HOUSE — Set an open house for Oct. 3 from 4 to 7 p.m. in the council's new offices, 710 C Street, Suite 12, San Rafael.

'Lemon' Sign Ordered Off

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI) —A man unhappy with his new car decided to paint his displeasure on the sides of the vehicle. The dealer took him to court.

Michael M. Miller was ordered yesterday to wash off the signs he had painted which identified the dealer and called the car a "lemon."

Desmond Ford filed suit against Miller, seeking $2,000 compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damages because of the signs.

District Judge Paul Snead said a hearing will be held next week to determine if his order should be made permanent.

Superintendent Wins $20,000

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — The fired superintendent of the Jefferson Elementary School District in Daly City has won a $20,000 settlement in his appeal against last July's dismissal.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn directed attorneys for Frank Greenwood and the school board to work out details to pay off the contract which had two years to run.

Greenwood, as part of the agreement, will not try to get his job back.

Greenwood was fired after disagreements between him and the board over administrative procedures.

Round The World Sail Is Thwarted

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — The dreams of Allan Fitzsimmons, 16, of Centerport, N.Y., and Frederick Dau, 18, of Huntington Station, N.Y., to sail around the world in a stolen yacht were spoiled by a dead calm just when the teen-agers were trying to make their getaway.

They were held yesterday in lieu of $5,000 bail each on charges of second degree grand larceny for stealing the two-masted 48-foot ketch, "Snow Goose," Wednesday morning from its mooring.

The youths said they were headed for Europe on the first leg of a projected round-the-world voyage, but were captured soon after they set sail because they "had no wind."

The return of long-legged storks to rooftop nests marks the coming of spring in Europe.

Former EOC Employee Found Dead In Bathtub

Frederick Richard Jones, 26, a former Marin Economic Opportunity Council youth worker, was found dead yesterday in an empty bathtub in a Marin City apartment.

A hypodermic needle and spoon were lying nearby, according to coroner's deputies, who said his sister, Betty Sue Jones, found him in an apartment at 155 Drake Avenue where he was staying.

Coroner's deputies said there was a fresh needle mark on Jones' left forearm. The cause of death is being investigated.

In 1966 Jones was put on probation after being convicted in Marin Superior Court for auto theft and felony assault on a police officer.

Then in 1967 he was hired by the Marin EOC as a team leader of five other youths working as teachers in a summer school program at Manzanita School. Shortly after being hired, he was charged with assaulting a deputy sheriff.

Marin Economic Opportunity Council officials praised his work at the time and said he was very dependable.

In 1968 his probation was revoked, and he was sentenced to state prison on the basis of the 1966 conviction.

Youths Blamed For Increased Bus Violence

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Youngsters are blamed for much of the hike in violent crime on San Francisco's Muni buses.

A report issued yesterday said the period from July 1, 1972, through June 30, 1973 saw roughly a one-sixth increase in violent crimes over a comparable period last year. Patronage was down 12 per cent the same period.

The report noted that the peak crime period of 2 to 6 p.m. was when most junior and senior high school students ride the transportation and it noted that loading zones around junior and senior high schools are "particularly troublesome areas."

Legislature Finally Bowed To Rebate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California income taxpayers will be granted a $380 million "discount" on returns filed next April, under a tax rebate plan proposed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and accepted by the Legislature.

The same legislation also will cut back the newly increased state sales tax to five cents on the dollar (5 ½ cents in Bay Area Rapid Transit District counties) effective Oct. 1. The levy will return again to six cents April 1, (and 6 ½ cents in the BART counties.)

While the tug-of-war between Reagan and Democrats over how to return an unprecedented $826 million surplus to taxpayers highlighted 1973 fiscal issues, more traditional controversy also swirled around the state budget.

Reagan signed a biggest-in-the-nation state budget totaling $9.4 billion on June 30, a few hours before the spending plan was to take effect. But first he vetoed $80 million from the bill sent to him by the Legislature 13 days after the required deadline for enactment.

Democrats assailed the budget cuts as "cheap hypocrisy" and noted the deepest reductions occurred in the areas of welfare and day care centers for children of low-income working mothers.

The same day he signed the budget bill, Reagan vetoed Democratic sponsored legislation to delay for six months the scheduled July 1 penny sales tax increase. He objected to a feature which would have provided an income tax cut of up to a maximum $200 per couple.

Democrats led by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti rejected a compromise proposed by Reagan. But lawmakers eventually accepted the proposal on Aug. 16.

It provides a onetime income tax reduction ranging from 35 to 20 per cent. It also temporarily cuts the sales tax.

The measure gives a typical family of four earning $15,000 a year a $60 tax cut. the same family earning $25,000 would save $137 while that family earning $50,000 would save $583.

In another tax matter, the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee killed the legislative version of Reagan's tax ceiling plan.

The expected rejection left Reagan with no other alternative than to qualify the measure for the ballot via the initiative route.

The Legislature also passed a bill (AB6) by Assemblyman Robert C. Cline, R-Canoga Park, giving divorces and widows with children a $14 million-a-year income tax break.

That measure would affect unmarried heads of households with dependents —such as divorcees, widows and widowers—and would tax them at the same rate as married couples up to an income level of $6,000. Beyond that point, the rate of taxation would approach that of married couples but not to the level of complete conformity.

For example, an unmarried person with a dependent and a taxable income of $8,000 a year now pays $140 a year in state income taxes while the married couple filing a joint return pays $80. Under the bill, the unmarried breadwinner would pay a tax of $95, for a tax cut of $45.

'College Night' Set At Tam High School

The eighth annual Marin County "college night" for high school students will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 4 at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley.

Representatives from most of the state colleges in Northern California, from several University of California campuses and from some 20 to 25 private colleges will be present to discuss their schools.

Co-Owner Of Enrico's In Fairfax Is An Expert In Italian Cuisine

Restaurant people are generally quick to spot and identify a master of their own profession.

Some have already focused their attention on one such individual — a newcomer to Marin restaurants by the name of Angelo Roselli. He holds the distinction of being a highly trained chef in the classic Italian tradition. You'll find him in Fairfax where he is co-owner of Enrico's Italian restaurant, which recently changed hands.

His dishes are a delight to behold as well as consume, for he is a perfectionist — as much as any highly trained and dedicated French chef. His sauces are carefully balanced with the proper seasoning. He knows when to blend and not to blend. And he has a light, loving touch that comes with a thorough knowledge of food and cooking it.

This was acquired in a combination of ways, which explains Angelo's unusual talent. A native of Rome, he came from a family of restaurant people and grew up with his subject. He also attended restaurant school in Bologna to pick up the fine points of classic Italian cuisine. He managed to pick up so many of them that he was signed on to teach, which he did for five years.

All in all, he's had 25 years of restaurant experience. Five of them have been in this country. And except for a short stint at the Sahara in Las Vegas, where he reorganized the kitchen procedure, he has spent all his time here with the famed Alioto restaurant clan in San Francisco.

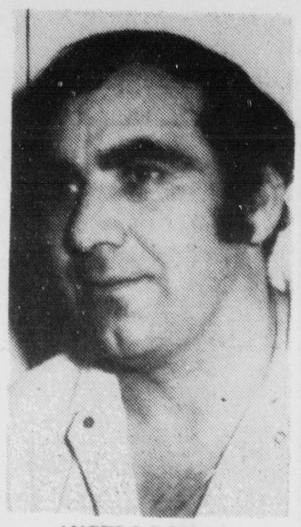

At Enrico's he has a dedicated assistant — an up-and-coming young man, Lorenzo Veronese. Lorenzo is also well trained. He had a good teacher. He was one of Angelo's star pupils in Bologna. The two make a rare kitchen combination. It's a nice thing to see in any business. And in this case the customer is the beneficiary.

Try anything in the veal line — scaloppine, marsala, dore, piccata, Milanese, Parmigiana or saltimbocca. And you've never tasted such cannelloni, ravioli or gnocchi al sugo (they make their own pastes). There are other things to order, too — chicken al forno, saute sec and cacciatora, lasagne, scampi, tortellini, linguine. Usually there's a daily special. And Angelo is a whiz with fresh vegetables. I cleaned up my plate.

Under the Croces, Enrico's was a popular place up to the time they sold it. Then it was closed several weeks for remodeling throughout kitchen and dining room (all tables now — no counter. And there's lots of new food equipment).

Any time a restaurant is closed that long it takes a while to bring back the patrons, who have had to form other eating-out habits. But many years ago I called Enrico's a "sleeper" and it awoke with a bang. It's about to happen again.

Both lunches and dinners are served. If you like good Italian food, prepared with tender, loving care, you'll find it here.

Teen-Ager Shot At Hotel Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A teen-ager shot in the lobby of the Sheraton-Palace Hotel Aug. 25 has died at San Francisco General Hospital.

Coroner's deputies said Virgilio Tejada, 19, had been paralyzed from the neck down since being shot along with two others. He died Wednesday.

Armando Aniel, 22, and Sam Parizal, 19, were also wounded in the shooting. Tejada, Aniel and Parizal had told police they were shot while trying to break up a fight.

Three suspects are in custody. They were Philip A. Becker, 21, his brother, Joseph, 24, and Nicasio P. Fernando, 21, all of San Francisco.

The shooting erupted while a dance sponsored by the Philippine-American Association was under way in the main ballroom.

Oldtime Cowboy Is Dead At 102

OROVILLE (UPI) — Oldtime cowboy Alvin Alonzo Wetmore, who took "a notion" to live and at age 101 was still packing away "all the bourbon I can get my hands on," is dead at 102.

Friends in this Northern California community said the former ox cart and bull driver succumbed during last weekend.

Born Jan. 28, 1871, near Chippewa Falls, Wis., Wetmore ran away from home at the age of nine and wound up in the Oklahoma Territory, where friendly cowboys took him in.

Dangerous Person Is Drunken Driver

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Health Insurance Institute reports that one of the most dangerous persons in the nation today is the drunk driver.

About half of the estimated 56,000 persons who will be killed in traffic accidents this year will have been drinking themselves or will be the victims of an intoxicated driver. About two of every three alcohol-related deaths will be caused by a small fraction of America's drivers (about seven per cent) who habitually drive while drunk.

Problem With Economy Cars

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The move to economy cars has brought a new problem to a driver accustomed to the automatic shift of larger cars.

A hand printed sign in the rear window of a small car driven around here reads, "Be Patient Learning Stick Shift."

Marin Dining And Wining

RESTAURANT REMODELING always seems to take more time than was anticipated. If there is any doubt, witness the Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile, which has been closed for about seven weeks.

But it's now open again, sparkling new and different in appearance. Menu still offers the same delectable French food and service of Roger Minhondo and Michel Braud. Closed Tuesdays.

These two have bought the property, so it appears they'll be around for a few years.

They intend to do still more work on the place.

THE SEASON FOR fresh salmon is just about over, says Ursula Valan of the Grotto. In a week or so it will be.

BARRY OLDHAM has taken over the interest of his partner Ron Patnaude at the Mayflower Inn in San Rafael and is now the sole owner of this establishment.

Which brings to mind that tonight there's another amateur program scheduled. These affairs have now settled down to a regular occurrence every two weeks and have become very popular.

There are prizes for the contestants and a big prize for the winner — who is determined by audience applause. Last winner was a barber shop quartet. Tonight, in case you feel like participating, it may be you.

DAVID CHAN of the recently opened Chopsticks Chinese restaurant at 508 Third Street, San Rafael, has in mind adding a new selection entirely of vegetables if there is enough call for it by diet conscious customers.

It seems that the Cantonese are particularly fond of vegetables, which they prepare to the best advantage according to what each season has to offer.

If you have already started visiting here and have become a regular patron, I know David will welcome your comments. And if you insist on it he may just prepare something for you on the spur of the moment.

I BELIEVE the first dish I ever ate at Le Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia when it opened many years ago was the beef bourguignon. Since then I've gone on to try many other things on the menu (there's a big selection).

And it was just the other day that I got around again to beef bourguignon, this time for lunch. It's still as delicious now as it was then. You can't go wrong on it.

Le Chalet Basque is a favorite among the Northgate and Civic Center crowd for lunches. I believe it serves as many mid-day meals as dinners — maybe more.

IF EVER THERE WAS TRUTH to the saying — "Build a better 'mouthtrap' and the world will beat a path to your door" — there is in the case of Gregory and Mary Alyce Seubert.

When these two had Gregory's in Corte Madera they developed a terrific following. When they moved to the Mendocino coast and Gregory took over the operation of the new Noyo River Inn, they did the same. And Marinites continued to go there and patronize them.

Last weekend when we made our monthly trip to Albion to check on our own property there, I counted four other couples from Marin at the new Gregory's, which is about 125 miles from Marin. It's amazing.

Gregory's is now closed Mondays and Tuesdays. Unless you get there for an early dinner I'd recommend making a reservation. The place is filling up faster all the time.

Concorde Pays Visit To New Texas Field

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — The Concorde supersonic Transport (SST) landed on U.S. soil for the first time yesterday on a 2,559-mile flight from Caracas, Venezuela, to the new Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

The needle-nosed, praying mantis-type jetliner, a joint British-French venture, took two hours and 22 minutes to make the flight which included one low-level pass over Caracas after takeoff and three passes over the new $700 million Texas airport billed as the world's largest.

During the flight from South America, the Concorde reached a maximum altitude of 57,000 feet and a top speed of 1,360 miles an hour.

One hour and 27 minutes of the flight was at Mach 2, twice the speed of sound.

The sleek Franco-British jetliner slowed from supersonic speed about 10 minutes before reaching the Texas Gulf Coast and coasted the final leg into Dallas to spare inland areas the supersonic boom. It will take part in three-day ceremonies inaugurating the new airport located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth in suburban Grapevine.

The Concorde will be on display and make special flights in the area Friday and Saturday, and then go to Washington's Dulles Airport Sunday for further exhibitions. The plane will return to Paris Wednesday in a non-stop flight expected to take three hours and 44 minutes across the Atlantic.

The new airport, which will open for traffic next month, has three major runways designed to take 270 flights an hour and is the size of the island of Manhattan in New York City. This area of Texas has only an average of 15 days out of the year which require a plane to land under instruments.

Legislators Now All For Open Meetings

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
14 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

On the ballot next June will be a constitutional amendment requiring that meetings of both houses of the California Legislature and their committees be open to the public, with some exceptions in which they could be closed only by two-thirds vote of the legislators.

This proposed amendment, by state Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, passed the Assembly unanimously and the Senate with only one dissenting vote.

IT WAS NOT long ago, however, that Marin's Sen. Peter H. Behr had to resort to some fancy political footwork to get a proposed Senate rule to open committee meetings onto the floor for a vote. Many of the legislators, while piously espousing the public's right to know, were reluctant to let the public watch their own maneuverings.

And just last April, when Grunsky's proposed constitutional amendment was before the Senate Rules Committee, Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego, declared it was not needed.

"There is no problem," said Mills (who as Rules Committee chairman had held two secret committee meetings during the preceding week). "We get no complaints."

Judging by the Senate vote when Grunsky's measure finally reached the floor, Senator Mills was alone in his belief that there is no need to conduct the public's business in public.

Actually, Grunsky's proposed amendment was sure to win if it ever came to an open vote — as was Behr's measure which paved the way for it. The legislator is rare who will publicly oppose a measure of such obvious public benefit.

But — as with Behr's earlier proposal — there were those who tried to keep it from coming to a vote.

THE PEOPLE of California will, we have no doubt, prove almost as unanimous as their legislators in approving the amendment when it comes before them next June. Open meetings of the legislative houses and their committees then will be required by the constitution. There will be no more changing the rules to suit the convenience of assemblymen or senators.

The most important impact will be on the joint budget session. In this, committees of the two houses meet together to iron out differences in the state budgets they have adopted. They have long done it behind closed doors. And behind those doors, they "divvy up" our tax dollars in secret, and inflate our tax bills in secret.

Grunsky's amendment should put an end to that for all time. And we should not forget that it was Peter Behr who first brought the issue to a showdown. The Watsonville senator then picked it up to make permanent what Behr's measure had accomplished temporarily — provided the voting public approves.

No Brickbat

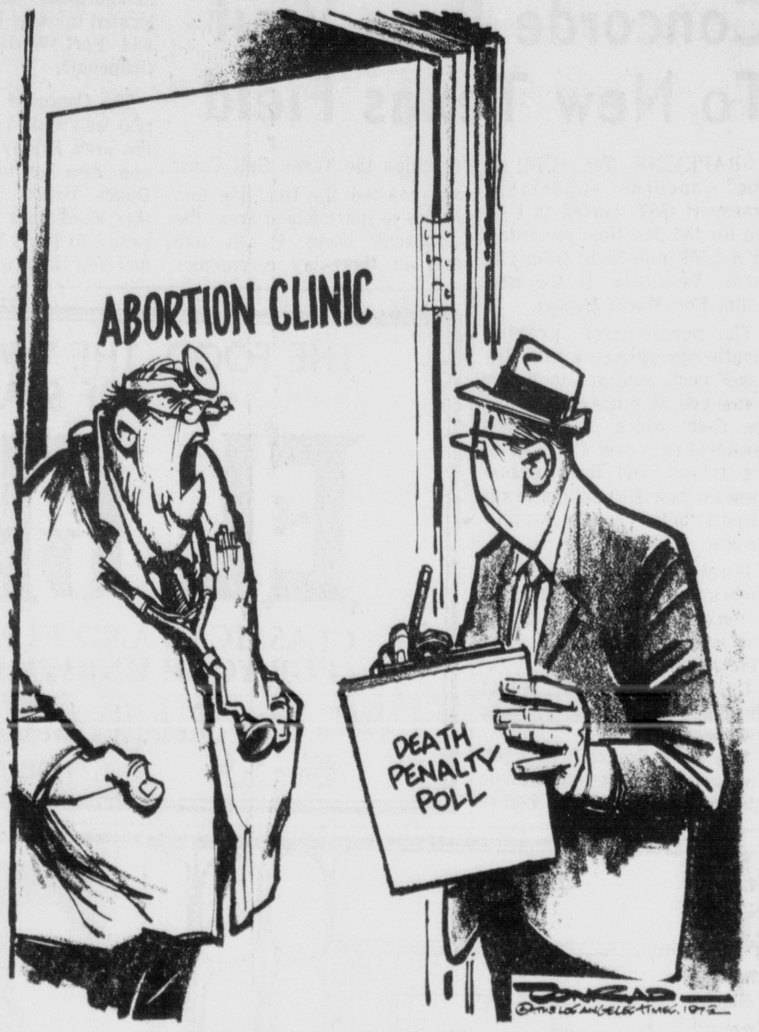

Last Saturday, we aimed a "brickbat" at Assemblyman William T. Bagley for voting "yes" on Senate Bill 400, which would put control of the public schools into the hands of unions by allowing them exclusive bargaining rights for school employees.

Bagley hurled it right back at us — deservedly. For he did not vote "yes" in the final voting on SB 400. He voted "no."

What happened was this:

Assemblyman Bagley allowed his name to be used as a co-author of the bill. And Bagley was recorded as voting for it in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee. But when it came to a floor vote, he switched.

His reason, he told us, was that Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, and other sponsors refused to consider amendments which might have made the bill more acceptable.

"It's nothing but legalized murder."

BILL FUSSELMAN

How 'One Man, One Vote' Works In Fifth Supervisorial District

The Warren Court's edict of one man, one vote has always seemed to me unrealistic. The le Bapteste situation that I briefly touched on last week is a good example. Le Bapteste moaned that a majority of the people in his district didn't know who he was or what he is doing, which was proven correct by a telephone poll — only three out of 12 knew who their supervisor was and only four out of 12 knew who le Bapteste was.

Now, let's consider this: There are 16,712 registered voters in District 5 (Novato area). He was elected by 5,938 of those voting. His opponent got 3,309. Thus only a total of 9,247 voted, a mere 891 more than 50 per cent of those eligible. If we accept the poll figure of four out of 12 who knew who he was, 1,979 really knew what they were doing. A cockeyed situation, isn't it?

I HAVE HAD MANY phone calls asking me where the person calling could get one of the petitions protesting the hiring of Gary Giacomini's campaign manager as an administrative assistant to him. Here are two sources given in the news story: William F. Dresia, 107 Santa Margarita Drive, San Rafael; Theresa M. Schaefer, 25, Latham Street, San Rafael. We are paying this assistant $960 a month, which with fringe benefits comes to $13,250 a year. As I said last week, a brazen thing for the supervisors to do.

"SUPERVISORS ANGRY with planner." So said the heading of a story in Wednesday's issue. And were they burned up! If it wasn't so serious, it would be to laugh. They let things get out of hand so as not be bothered with detail while they relax in the big comfortable chairs they bought and you paid for.

Giacomini: "These staff reports are the lousiest I've ever seen." Even with his administrative assistant there hasn't been time to walk a few steps to the planning staff's hangout to keep things in line. Le Bapteste fumed and called an executive session, whence he called in his pal von Gundell to chew him out. All this while 30 citizens milled around, waiting to be heard. "Wunnerful!"

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Congressman Has GIs' Votes With Flight Pay Curtailment

WASHINGTON — Congressman Les Aspin of Wisconsin repeatedly has proven a royal pain to some professional military men, not to mention a lot of nostalgic former nonprofessional military men. Aspin is the terror of military spending. No line in the arms budget is sacred to him.

Nevertheless, Aspin is onto one aspect of it that could get him elected national commander of the American Legion, or anyhow the ground-bound contingent thereof. I say so because he is out to eliminate unearned premium flight pay for military aviators and because a majority of servicemen, past and present, never qualified for flight pay.

FROM THIS POINT, with the mention of those two words, this column drops any pretense of objectivity. It is a summary of opinion gathered on a couple of continents and a number of islands, from my own contemporaries and a generation on each side, on the subject of flight pay and those who draw it — from those who do not.

Often this judgment was rendered by men marching at slog step along the shoulder of a mud road, each carrying a rifle, a cartridge belt, a bayonet, a steel helmet, a box of machine gun ammunition, two mortar rounds, a field transport pack, a shelter hat, a poncho, a field jacket, a sleeping bag, a change of socks, a day's C rations, a bottle of Tabasco, an onion, a canteen, a mess kit, a bar of soap, a comic book or a dirty novel, three days' beard, three days' sweat, and a half-gallon of water in each boot.

At times I have heard it from men kneeling in a flat-bottomed landing craft onto which about 35 men are packed by the process of climbing down a cargo net in the darkness before dawn and dropping one by one into the boat pitching 10 feet up and down the side of a steel-hulled ship. Once in, they circle and circle while other boats load the same way, and if there is a noticeable swell some of them become seasick all over the ones kneeling in front of them.

As they circle they often see an air show, in which some airplanes zoom prettily along the beach strafing and others fly over the beach at a lofty altitude and drop bombs, some of which strike the island aimed at and many of which fall into the ocean. Then they watch the airplanes fly away to a base where their pilots have a cold beer, a shower, a hot meal, some ice cream and perhaps a movie before going to sleep between clean sheets.

While the pilots thus prepare for another day's hard work, the men in the boats are breaking out of their circles and heading for the beach, where they splash through the surf getting shot at — or pretending to be shot at, depending on which island it is and when.

Sometimes these men do not arrive on the ground by boat, but instead jump out of airplanes. These days it is fashionable for them to travel by helicopter, which means less marching, but also confronting the inhospitable aliens sooner. Sometimes the land is not swamps and centipedes but snow and wind.

EITHER WAY, their comments on fliers are the same. It occurs to me that I have not yet reported their comments, only the conditions under which they were made. The fact is, I cannot paraphrase them for family consumption, even bowdlerized. Rather I will return to the specific matter of Congressman Aspin's curtailment of flight pay.

Under all the circumstances above, it is the mildest kind of cut. So far it ends flight pay only for colonels and generals not on regular flying duty. The services have a meaningless counterposition, offering to cut off all flight pay after any individual has been drawing it for 25 years. But neither the budget-slashing Aspin or the service brass has approached my own personal measure, which has millions of co-sponsors:

Require aviators to pay extra for the privilege of hot meals and clean sheets, and use flight pay instead for foot pay, to be drawn by anyone of any rank who does his soldiering on his feet.

Dangerous Precedent In Corte Madera Recall

Three citizens of Corte Madera have been carelessly cast out of office as the result of a small band of disgruntled residents and a well-orchestrated campaign. I cannot help but question the precedent which has been set by Ms. Brown et al. Apparently, whenever a handful of people don't see eye-to-eye with their governing council, recall procedures would be in order.

I, for one, shall be very critical of any candidate who is endorsed by Ms. Brown and her cohorts for a position on the Town Council of Corte Madera. No doubt they will be aware of the tenuous nature of their positions in a town which recalls it elected officials so carelessly.

Don't Blame Little Girls, Blame Little League

I feel a deep sense of betrayal at letters like Linda Coleman's (I-J, Sept. 17). Coming from an ignorant male chauvinist, such sentiments could be expected; coming from one of our own sisters, we are dismayed and saddened.

Its message has been pushed at women for centuries: Feel guilty for demanding your rights. It is not the little girl in Mill Valley who is depriving the boys of their "basic right" to play ball; it is a group of narrow-minded, ill-informed (though well paid) men sitting in the administrative offices of the Little League Association who will not face facts.

Fact is, girls have been playing baseball since the game was invented. There have always been girls who could match or outdo their brothers in throwing, catching, and hitting a ball. These girls played on sandlots across the country. Along came Little League to superorganize the activity and rule to deprive the girls of the right to play.

It seems to me that Little League could well use the leavening influence of girls. I'd suggest that Linda Coleman view a Little League game when she gets the chance and listen to the jeers, catcalls, boos, "chatter," insults, arguments, and at times profanity, that characterize this "sport." For contrast, attend one of the local swim meets, where teams include boys and girls, ages 6 to 17. The spirit of camaraderie is refreshing — and even the slowest swimmer is applauded.

I'd like to quote from an I-J story of a few months ago by Lew Coddington: "If male self-confidence is going to be crushed by a loss to a female, then perhaps its existence was shaky and artificial to start with, and perhaps the male is better off building himself a more stable structure."

Hiding Facts Only Leads To More Trouble

Re: Answer to Mrs. R. D'Amico's letter in your "Readers Say" of Sept. 17.

I personally appreciate the whole story because the actions of individuals before their troubles often is the real cause of getting into personal situations which if reported in full becomes a lesson for others.

Hiding the real truth often fosters our present day attitudes of "covering up crime"; "refusing to become involved"; "refusing to be a witness even for personally observed incidents"; "refusing to go out-of-our-way to help our neighbor and saying 'that is the job of the police' "; "hiding knowledge of misdeeds of children or others because we won't tell their parents what we have observed", etc.

After 25 years as a school teacher and principal, 20 years as a National Park ranger, I have observed that you can't improve the situation by hiding the facts. You must get all the facts and then you can make an intelligent decision.

THE NEEDLE

Eighty years ago today Charles Duryea was credited with creating the first automobile in the U.S., and his brother Frank was blamed for being the first to drive it.

Ever since Sept. 21, 1893, autos have been falling into the hands of folks who don't know how to drive 'em.

History has proved it's easier to build a good automobile than it is to find a good driver.

Autos were safe in 1893 but pedestrians and telegraph poles were considered dangerous.

Governor Reagan Rates Applause For Attacking 'Official Spenditis'

(John S. Knight in Detroit Free Press)

Everyone complains about high taxation, but California's Gov. Ronald Reagan has done something about it. When the Golden State accumulated an unexpected treasury surplus of $829 million, the Legislature and Governor Reagan decided to rebate $721 million to the taxpayers.

Governor Reagan contends that he won the tax rebate over the opposition of "would-be big spenders" in the Legislature. Moreover, the governor says the voters of his state have a "once-in-a-lifetime" opportunity to cut their taxes permanently by approving his tax control program at a statewide election on Nov. 6.

By contrast, when Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio discovered a surplus in the treasury, he immediately found new ways to spend it. This is about par for the course with most governors.

Governor Reagan rates a round of applause from long-suffering taxpayers in other states afflicted by "official spenditis."

Nixon May Be Willing To Make Tapes Public — On His Own Terms

WASHINGTON — It would not be surprising to find a quite unexpected end to the matter of the presidential tapes.

The gathering opinion in Washington is that whichever way the courts decide — for or against the President's right to withhold official White House conversations — the pertinent Watergate tapes will likely be made available.

The reasoning is this:

If the Supreme Court rules that Judge Sirica is right, that there are some limits to executive privilege, it is unlikely that Mr. Nixon will refuse to obey a Supreme Court decision.

THAT IS ONE WAY the pertinent parts of the tapes could become known.

If the Supreme Court rules the White House lawyers are right, that the President alone can decide whether there shall be any exception to the confidentiality of official conversations between him and his advisers, then Mr. Nixon will have secured intact for himself and future Presidents the principle of executive privilege.

Such a decision would mean that the President would be free to make the tapes available without diluting the authority of a President to be the only one who can make the decision.

This has been the prime reason Mr. Nixon has given for refusing to yield to Judge Sirica's order; that is, that the President alone has the right to determine confidentiality.

THAT WOULD BE the second way the tapes of the White House Watergate conversations could become known.

Would Mr. Nixon seek to put himself above the law by asserting that he alone could decide what the law is? Would he refuse to bow to a decision of the Supreme Court that he must make the tapes available to the grand jury?

The President has made the answer to that question somewhat uncertain by suggesting that he would only obey a "definitive" ruling by the court and by not defining what he means by "definitive."

I'm inclined to think that this phrase was used to keep his options open.

Could the President sustain the argument that any majority decision of the court was binding on most people but that only a near-unanimous decision was binding on him? I doubt it.

It would almost certainly invite impeachment. Some of Mr. Nixon's most influential supporters, like the Wall Street Journal, have said that if he tries to flout the Supreme Court, impeachment would be in order.

BUT IF THE COURT secured beyond attack the principle of executive confidentiality, would the President then feel he could properly and safely yield the tapes to the grand jury?

There is more than a fair reason to believe the answer is yes.

One reason concerns the intriguing answer Mr. Nixon gave at his latest press conference when he was asked whether, if the Supreme Court secured the right of confidentiality for Presidents, he would be willing to disclose the tapes to dispel all doubt about their contempt.

The President replied: "I would like to respond to that categorically . . . but it would be inappropriate to comment in any way about what is going to happen during that (judicial) process. You put that question to me a little later and I'll be glad to respond."

Legislators Pass Sceptres To Aides In New Trend

By EARL G. WATERS

There is a disturbing trend which has accompanied the advent of the year 'round "professional legislature" that is emphasized in the recent elections of Bill Lockyer and Douglas Carter to the Assembly.

Locker served as an administrative assistant to Robert W. Crown and won his seat following the untimely death of the Alameda lawmaker. Carter was an aide to Robert Monagan, R-Stockton, and succeeded him when he resigned to accept a federal appointment.

They are just two of an increasing number of individuals gaining legislative offices by serving apprenticeships as aides to elected members. Speaker Bob Moretti is another.

In addition to these three, 11 others now in the Assembly and two of the present state senators also got their starts as legislative employes. These are Assemblymen Richard Alatorre, Dixon Arnett, Howard L. Berman, Kenneth Cory, Bill Greene, Frank Holoman, Barry Keene, Leo McCarthy, Frank Murphy, Leon Ralph and Senators Alan Robbins and Anthony C. Bielenson.

AT FIRST BLUSH this may seem an admirable way for legislative aspirants to gain valuable experience in preparation for service as an elected official with the full responsibilities of office.

There is no denying that working for the legislature does offer a chance to acquire valuable insight not easily gained in other ways.

But it is a distinct departure from the standards which were applied when the lawmakers made up a "citizen legislature" meeting only a few months every other year.

Then a legislator most often was an established member of his community. He generally had taken time from his business, profession or farm to serve on the school board. Many had also served as city councilmen, and as county supervisors. They had built a record in public office or were otherwise prominently known to the electorate.

And they had something else that some of the new breed seem not to have. That was an acute awareness of the wishes of those who had elected them.

THE GROOMING of bright young men for future public service by the legislature is one thing. The backing of them for elective office by maintaining them on the payroll during a campaign is quite another.

It is hardly fair to other candidates to find an opponent being paid by the legislature with tax dollars while campaigning.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Did Tiburon Get A Bargain Or Pay Too Much For Land?

Could Tiburon have made its first open space purchase last week for less money?

It's hard not to ask that question, considering that the city paid $232,000 for 25 acres of property for which its owners had filed an appeal with the tax assessor claiming its market value was only $75,000.

Henry J. Eavey of San Francisco said the land was almost unsaleable as long as the Marin Municipal Water District's moratorium on new water connections continues.

The land hid been valued at $140,000 by the county tax assessor.

CITY COUNCILMAN Albert H. Sennett, one of the negotiators of the sale, said that he and the negotiating team had not looked at Eavey's appeal at the tax assessor's office.

"Even if I had, it would not have made a difference in my decision," he said. "What the tax assessor decides is the value of a piece of land is not a compelling thing. The courts have never applied that as a standard in fixing the value of land in condemnation suits."

City officials think they bought a bargain.

"What the county decides the land is worth is not important," said Bert A. Balmer, city manager. "What the city has to do is make sure we have appriased the value of the land accurately, and we had that done by a competent appraiser. Our negotiating team came up with a sale price which is proper. The last big piece of land sold in Tiburon, above the cove apartments, went for $20,000 an acre at a court sale."

Mayor Branwell D. Fanning added: "This year the land is valued at $75,000 because of the water moratorium. Next year the ban would be off, and it would be worth half a million. We weren't buying it just for this year; we were buying it in perpetuity."

BUT MANY TIBURON taxpayers must be asking themselves whether the city could have been more coy with Eavey and forced his price down. Besides the water moratorium, Eavey was faced with the fact (according to Balmer) that much of his acreage was too steep to build on.

It will be interesting to see what price per acre the city pays for future open space land.

Another point to note — Bert W. Broemmel, tax assessor, said that what Tiburon paid for the land probably will not raise assessments on property in the immediate area. "We don't like to rely on what a government pays for a piece of property," said Broemmel. "We prefer to go by the regular real estate market."

Watergate Plays Part In Political Reform

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The pressure of the Watergate scandal and the threat of a stringent ballot initiative helped to pass "reform" legislation this year aimed at keeping California politicians "triple clean."

But one measure designed to disclose which lobbyists "grease" which lawmakers and with how much was scuttled by the State Senate until at least next year.

Passage of the bill was blocked by maneuvering which the Common Cause citizens group said is an example of why voters think politics is a dirty business.

The author of the lobbyist control legislation (AB1218), Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Oakland, called the action on his measure "absolutely outrageous."

Lawmakers, however, did send to Gov. Ronald Reagan two-thirds of a package which Common Cause called "the most sweeping governmental reform legislation in 60 years."

The group, which said it has 45,000 members in California, declared enactment of the three-bill package, including Meade's stymied measure, would be a "giant step toward eliminating the corrupting influence of money and secrecy on all levels of California government."

One conflict-of-interest bill (SB716) on Reagan's desk would require public officials to file yearly reports on their investments in excess of $1,000 and income, gifts and loans over $250 which could pose a potential conflict of interest.

The measure is authored by Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco and supported by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti of Van Nuys, both Democratic gubernatorial contenders.

In supporting the bill, Moretti told lawmakers they should realize that in the year of the Watergate scandal "the public is taking a very dim view of everyone in office."

The other "reform" bill sent to the governor would require more detailed identification of the sources of campaign contributions and require audits of spending statements of candidates who receive 15 per cent of the vote or who spend more than $25,000.

The measure (AB703) is authored by Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman, D-Los Angeles.

The legislature also passed proposals which guarantee most meetings of the legislature and its committees, including the important budget conference committee, are open to the public. And a legislative rules change gave radio and television newsmen greater freedom to film or record committee hearings.

The Moscone, Waxman and Meade measures are aimed at taking the steam out of an initiative drive supported by Common Cause, the People's Lobby and Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., also a Democratic gubernatorial contender.

The initiative would impose much tougher requirements in the areas of conflict-of-interest, campaign spending and lobbying.

Meade had hoped to push his lobbyist control bill through the legislature so that it could take effect in 1974. But passage was held up when it was amended on the Senate floor well past midnight on the last day of the legislative session. Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego, proposed the amendments which were instantly gaveled through to approval by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, on a voice vote.

Supporters of the Meade bill objected vehemently to the voice vote, complaining that Dills, who was presiding at the time, acted so fast they didn't have time to request a roll call vote which would put each senator on public record.

A roll call vote was eventually taken and the amendments approved 21-18.

Schrade's amendments would require any constituent to register as a lobbyist before he could attempt to influence his legislator by correspondence or in virtually any other manner.

Meade said the bill, which will be before the Assembly in January for concurrence in the amendments, is now unacceptable to him and its backers. He said the amendments were only a delaying tactic.

Ken Smith, West Coast director of Common Cause, said the Senate action on the bill is a "perfect example" of why voters are suspicious of politicians.

Meade said the measure will have to be changed, probably in a two-house conference committee, before he brings it up for a final vote.

Basically the proposal imposes tighter regulations on lobbyists seeking to influence legislative action for the benefit of big business or labor. It requires reporting of lobbyists' expenditures of over $50 a month and the names of officials on whose behalf the money is spent.

Currently lobbyists do not have to report the names of lawmakers who benefit from their expenditures —sometimes called "grease" in Capitol circles.

Another related "reform" bill (SB234) by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, would provide partial public financing of political campaigns.

It would also bar campaign contributions from a single source in excess of $100. The measure will be up for consideration by the Senate Finance Committee in January.

Suit Attacks Lack Of Tahoe Protection

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A group of conservationists, including the Sierra Club, filed a federal suit yesterday charging that the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (PRPA) has failed to protect the Lake Tahoe Basin as required by contract.

The coalition, which also included League to Save Lake Tahoe and two area residents, said the PRPA has failed to adopt an adequate master plan and ordinances to implement such a plan. The 1969 bi-state Tahoe Regional Compact, the suit said, required such a plan by Sept. 19, 1971.

The PRPA adopted a plan in December 1971 which the suit said was incomplete and inadequate.

Specifically, the federal district court suit also challenged PRPA's approval of the 26-acre shopping center at the north end of the lake and its failure to disapprove two highrise hotel casinos at the south end. It referred to the Raley Shopping Center and an addition to the Park Tahoe and Harvey's Wagon Wheel Hotel Casino.

The suit sought a court order to force the agency to carry out terms of the regional compact. It said the Congress had specifically noted that "not only the scenic beauty of the region but the very quality of its natural environment are now at stake."

The petition asked the court to order the PRPA to submit an acceptable overall regional plan and specific implementing ordinances.

"The location of the shopping center is outside of present urban centers in the basin and is in direct violation of the bistate compact," Lloyd Krause of the Sierra Club told the news conference. "The addition of gambling facilities will serve to more than double the existing hotel room and gaming areas, generating heavy highway traffic in the already overtaxed area along US50 in South Lake Tahoe and adding to the deteriorating air quality of the basin."

The suit said that the Tahoe Regional Compact specifically set forth 19 subject matters that should be covered by the master plan implementing ordinances. The PRPA has failed to adopt any ordinances directing covering at least seven of these subject matters, the suit said.

The seven are water purity and clarity, air pollution, watershed protection, flood plain protection, outdoor advertising, sewage disposal and solid waste disposal.

In addition, the suit said, the PRPA has failed to adopt necessary ordinances for transportation, recreation, water supply, fire protection, protection of wild life, control of soil erosion problems, public works, preservation of historical and cultural areas and allocation of population densities.

Journalists Walk Out In Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) —Journalists went on strike across Pakistan yesterday to protest recent government shutdowns of three newspapers and the arrests of their employees.

Minhaj Berna, president of the Pakistan Federal Union of Journalists, said the 24-hour strike was "virtually complete." Several newspapers published but with a reduced number of pages.

Aviatrix Is Cited For 1971 Flights

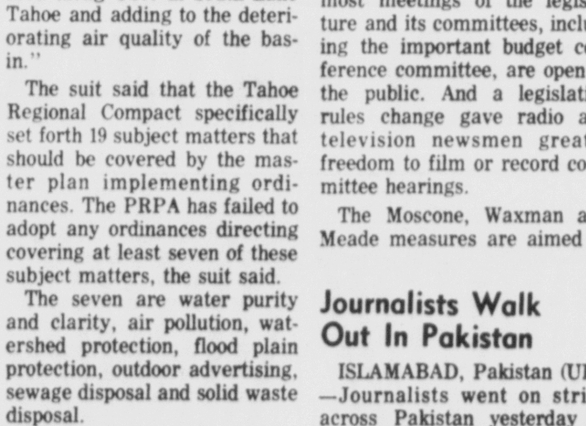

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon yesterday presented the 1972 Aviatrix' trophy to Geraldine (Jerrie) Cobb, an Oklahoma born aviatrix, for a series of humanitarian flights during 1971 over the Amazon River Basin of South America.

The trophy was presented at a ceremony during which Nixon handed out four other awards for aviation excellence sponsored by the Harmon International Trust.

The 1972 aviator's trophy was awarded jointly to two U.S. Air Force officers, Lt. Col. Thomas B. Estes of Eubank, Ky., and Lt. Col. Dewain C. Vick of Lorain, Ohio, for their long distance non-stop flight of 15,000 miles at three times the speed of sound in an Air Force strategic reconnaissance SR-71 aircraft.

The 1971 aviator's trophy was jointly awarded to Andre Turcat of France and Brian Trubshaw of Great Britain, chief test pilots for the British-French Concorde supersonic Transport plane which is just beginning to enter real production.

Attending the ceremony was Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who was a World War II pilot.

Newspaper Milestones

On this day in 1784, the Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser began publication as the nation's first successful daily newspaper. Much earlier, Benjamin Harris had published the first newspaper in the Colonies. It was called Publick Occurrences and appeared on September 25, 1690. It was much less successful than the Pennsylvania Packet, as only one issue was ever printed. Colonial authorities cited Harris for printing the paper without a prior license, in violation of the Licensing Act of 1662, and he was restricted from ever publishing again in the Colonies. American Newspaper Anniversary Week, September 21-25, salutes both newspapers.

Two San Quentin Escapees Caught

Two San Quentin convicts who made an inept attempt to escape by placing dummies in their cell yesterday, were caught in short order by prison officials.

William D. Nyberg, prison information officer, said the two, John R. Miller and Leonard A. Veale, both 27, were missed during a 4:25 p.m. headcount. An officer then found dummies made of paper-stuffed clothes with painted papier mache faces, in the men's cell in the East Block.

A search of prison grounds turned up the pair about 5 p.m., Nyberg said. They were found hiding in a storeroom behind some shelves in the prison bookbinding shop in the industrial section.

Both men have been placed in segregation.

Miller is serving a term for two counts of armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon from Ventura County, and Veale, who has a long juvenile record, was most recently sentenced for damaging property at the Vacaville prison facility.

Nyberg said one of the dummies "was pretty good," but that they were ineffective in fooling the guard.

Invitation To Howard Hughes

ZAPATA, Tex. (UPI) — Billionaire Howard Hughes has been invited to spend his "latter years" in Zapata, in southern Texas.

"Here, on Falcon Lake in Zapata County, you will have the best in climate, in seclusion, in self-entertainment, to enable you to live and live and live—and to invest your time and resources in development and research and human benefactions," city and county officials said in a letter mailed to Hughes.

"No other location could afford you such opportunities for your latter years of worthwhile achievements." The letter was mailed to Hughes at his address at Inn on the Park in London and was released to newspapers yesterday by Sheriff C. M. Hein.

Brazilian Capital To End Illiteracy

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil (UPI) — Brasilia, capital of Brazil, will have no illiterate people by the end of 1973, according to a Brazilian Literacy Movement (MOBRAL) official.

A $876 Million Budget Handed To Cal Regents

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A proposed $876 million budget for the University of California, for 1974-75 was submitted yesterday to the Board of Regents.

The budget, a 10 per cent increase over the present fiscal year, was sent to the regents' committees on finance and buildings for further study. The proposal will go before the Regents for a full board vote Oct. 19.

The budget, calling for $498.6 million in state funds, up 17.1 million from this year's total, must be approved by the Legislature and Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The budget is geared for a total enrollment of 101,349, and increase of 1,409.

SAUSALITO WOMAN'S STORY

Actress, Model, Mother And Poet

By BETTY FROST

To her roles of model, actress, and mother, Suzanne Somers of Sausalito has added established poet.

Her collection of poems, "Touch Me" is going into a second printing and a second volume is in the works.

The poet's sensitivity is revealed not only in her writing, but in her approach to life. A 26-year-old divorcee with a son, Bruce, 8, she is realistic about her role of single parent.

In her poem, "Sometimes I See My Son", she says, "But sometimes I see my son
With trust in his eyes no one else could give,
With a smiling, shining face that says there was no failure
. . ."

"About 50 per cent of the children in Bruce's class are being raised by single parents," she observed. She is philosophic about the break-up of her marriage, "We were three children," she said. "I thought when I was married that it would be like a Doris Day-Rock Hudson movie, but real life isn't like that."

BECAUSE OF her Roman Catholic upbringing, Suzanne found divorce a crippling experience, and some of this rebellion is reflected in this excerpt from her poem, "Extra Love,"

"If anyone has any extra love
Even a heartbeat or two
I wish they wouldn't waste it on God"

Trained as a professional model at the Gimme Model Agency in San Francisco, the Sausalito woman is grateful for the background she received in grooming, make-up, posture and the poise she acquired for appearances on the runway and before the camera.

She is not unduly impressed with her own capabilities in the modelling field and laughingly recounts an incident when she was modeling in a large outdoor fashion show in San Francisco's Union Square, twirled right off the high runway and broke an ankle in the spectacular fall.

In her life as a model, "I resented being looked on as a thing. I grew tired of being disregarded as a person," she said. That part of the professional modeling business turned her towards women's liberation, "but I am a soft-spoken women's libber," she emphasized.

This phase of her life is captured in the poem, "Model",

"The slave traders are out
To sell the American way of life
With the smiling girl — as soft as Revlon can make her
To sell shampoo and panty-hose."

AS A YOUNG girl, Suzanne loved to sing and dance. She appeared in musical productions at San Francisco College for Women and went on to perform in "Guys and Dolls," "Annie Get Your Gun" and other musicals in summer stock. She gave demonstrations on physical fitness on television and was a regular interviewer on the program, "Mantrap."

Her movie credits include "Harold and Maud," "The Strawberry Statement" and "Bullitt". In "Magnum Force," starring Clint Eastwood, she portrays a gangster's girl friend, and spent a week in a Tiburon swimming pool, while certain scenes were being filmed.

In "American Graffiti," the actress is cast as "the most beautiful girl in Stockton." The setting is early 1950s and Petaluma's main street is the backdrop for most of the action. She feels uncomfortable to be thought of as "The most beautiful girl," and her poem "Beautiful Girls" explains why,

"There are rules
For beautiful girls to abide by:
You must notice other women
Or you're a snob,
And you must let their men alone-
Because every worthwhile man
Belongs to someone . . ."

SINCE THE publication of "Touch Me" she has worked on a new television program to be released this fall, "Sensuous Man," and reads selections from her book for the series. She is a frequent guest on other programs and will soon appear on "The Dating Game".

"I love the respect that comes with being an author," the poet said, "And I like the control you have in putting a book together. My poems are often love notes, and an extension of my being a romantic.

"As for the theme 'Touch Me,' it is the cry of every voice, of trees and animals, men and women," the writer explained. "'Touch Me' is the call of all life, the challenge of death, and to touch and be touched, personally, intimately, honestly — is to live."

'TOUCH ME', a collection of poems by actress Suzanne Somers of Sausalito, is going into a second printing and will be followed by a second book. The writer relaxes in her Sausilito home and reminisces about her career as model and actress.

The Suit Making Reentry On The Fall Fashion Scene

By PHYLLIS FELDKAMP
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — Starring in the first act are the sweaters, the outdoorsy knits and the glamorized sports clothes of British persuasion. Act three is a super-extravaganza featuring the metallics, the spangled, furred and feathered theatrics.

From which you could draw two possible conclusions: Either fall fashion has second-act trouble or it is a Noel Cowardish production where the best parts are reserved for English ladies of the genre who need only good tweeds, sweaters and magnificent evening dresses — anything in between being extraneous for their mode of life.

BUT THERE is a surprisingly solid middle-ground this season — a strong second act between the casual and the razzle-dazzle.

Here we see the reentrance of the suit. People have been saying "suits are coming back" for some time as though merely making that prediction would be enough to bring them back.

This year they are actually around in such variety it will be a wonder if numbers of women do not wear them again.

The same goes for hats, which have been in the wings waiting, perhaps, for the return of short, close-cropped hair. The thinking today is toward the well-composed — what is known in the fashion business as "a pulled-together look" — and without a knit cap, a brimmed felt, or a turban, the niftiest costume can come off like a work-in-progress. Evening heads are not exempt, being dressed up with tiny hats, wrapped scarves, or veils, jewels, and feathers.

ON THE suit scene are the menswear fabrics — gray flannel taking the lead — and the tweeds with coordinated sweaters worn layer-style over shirts, also duly coordinated. Full-length coats, often reversible with waterproof poplin on one side and tweed on the other, or of double-face wool come with matching skirts and some sort of related top — most likely a sweater.

THE TARTAN skirt teamed with the cardigan by Ralph Lauren for Polo illustrates the importance of the sweater for fall and winter.

Like pants, separates dressing has become a fixture in the scheme of fashion life. However, the outfit that is bought together must not necessarily stay together.

A new word — "additives" — is gaining currency. It is used to describe components acquired here and there that extend the possibilities of changing about the skirts, shirts, jackets, and pants you already own. As Yves Saint Laurent recently pointed out, these days not even the world's greatest clothes horse with a limitless bank balance wants to throw out all of last year's wardrobe.

The key elements in this year's separates are the sweaters. Of the myriad types to be found, the sweater coat is the one you'll encounter most often. Of tweedy yarn, or solid color thick wool knit, in cable-stitch or plain, it comes in a variety of styles, the shawl-collared wrap being a leader and fox fur being added for a deluxe trim.

The hip-length sweater, either cardigan or pullover, is another new winner. In some quarters it is being called the fanny sweater.

LENGTH IS a key style factor in sweater coats, the elongated ones being preferred, in keeping with the long torso silhouette. An alternate to the thinned-out line is the tent shape, used a great deal in coats and in modified form for dresses that are cut to fit like skin at the shoulders and the bodice then flare out from there.

Length is not all-important for skirts, the going hemline maintaining a level an inch or two below the knee. For those who find wearing the same skirt length day-in, day-out a huge bore, designers present the lower-calf length, a latter-day version of the midi, which, being cut much fuller and worn with higher-heeled platform-soled shoes comes off with considerably more charm than its ignominious predecessor.

In the evening, ankles are visible in extra-sheer stockings with open sandals of silver or, for a change, bronze, which, while you're about it, could be bronze-snakeskin, the snake motif and scaly pattern being very in for accessories and prints.

Classes For Oldsters Slated At Whistlestop

Two classes in self-realization in the older adult years will be offered this fall at the Whistlestop, the Marin County senior center in San Rafael.

The classes will be conducted by Florence E. Vickery of Mill Valley, a consultant on programs and services for older adults. They are jointly sponsored by the Adult Divisions of the College of Marin and the San Rafael City Schools.

A morning session from 10 a.m. to noon will begin on Tuesday and an afternoon session from 1 to 3 p.m. will begin on Thursday. Registration is at the Whistlestop at the first session of each class. There will be 10 meetings of each class, over a period of 10 weeks.

The small group method will be employed, and discussion by participants encouraged, according to Miss Vickery. The classes are open to adults 60 years of age or older, and to others interested in learning more about the concerns of senior citizens.

Miss Vickery began her work with the aging in 1947, when she was appointed the professional director of the San Francisco Senior Center, the second such center in the country. The first one was in New York City. A pioneer in her field, she has participated in national and international conferences on aging. She is a member of the board of directors of the Redwoods, a residence retirement center sponsored by the Mill Valley Community Church in Mill Valley.

FLORENCE VICKERY
Consultant on aging

Since her own retirement last year from full-time activities with the San Francisco Senior Center, she has written a book, "Creative Programming for Older Adults, which is a text for those planning to work with older adults.

She is an instructor in her specialty at California State University, San Francisco, and the University of California Extension Division.

Miss Vickery is a graduate of De Pauw University in Greencastle, Ind., and received the master's degree in human development from the University of Chicago.

The English Spread Collar Is Shorter

The new English spread collar, slightly shorter and wider than the long pointed collar of past season, is the fashion news in men's shirts for fall.

This collar along with button-downs and tab collars in more organized patterns and stripes will be in keeping with the slightly relaxed feeling of the English country look this fall.

A LOST HOPE?

Promise Made On Equal Pay Not Panning Out In England

LONDON (UPI) —"By 1975 every woman in Britain will be getting equal pay with men," promised the British government's chief spokesman on labor relations.

The audience of women exploded into applause.

The year was 1970. The spokesman was red-haired Barbara Castle, at that time secretary for employment and productivity in the former British Labor party government. She was addressing the national Labor Women's Conference.

MORE THAN three years have passed since then. Under the program announced by Mrs. Castle and endorsed by Parliament a few months later, women by now should be earning 90 per cent of men's pay for equal work. By 1975 men's and women's pay was to have been completely equal.

In fact, British women are nowhere near achieving that goal.

Income Data Services, an organization that monitors industrial pay, reported recently that out of 84 industries it checked, 49 still are paying women less than 90 per cent of men's wages.

At the beginning of this year the average woman in Britain earned a little over 20 pounds ($50) weekly. The average man earned somewhat over 33 pounds, or $82.50.

"Unless the whole program is speeded up, equal pay by December, 1975, is a lost hope," reported Income Data Services.

MRS. DOREEN Tomlin, 44, a state registered nurse of Berkshire, announced she and friends plan to form a new political party dedicated to equality for women.

"It is something in which I believe very strongly and I think the only way to change the general attitude and bring about changes is through a political party," she said.

Mrs. Tomlin turns her back on "Women's Lib."

"It is a derisory term and not treated with much respect by men," she said.

THE EQUAL pay fight in Britain began in earnest in 1964, when the Labor party made it official policy. In 1969 Harold Wilson, at that time Prime Minister, publicly pledged equal pay for women.

In the spring of 1970 Parliament approved legislation promising "gradual progress" toward equal pay. At that time only one million of the 8.5 million women employed in Britain earned the same as men.

The government said the equal pay legislation would add 30 per cent to industry's payroll. But it said if this were spread over five years it should cause no major hardships.

The Conservative party government adopted the policy when it took office in June, 1970, but the Ministry of Employment says that instead of closing the gap, industry is using every conceivable trick and loophole to avoid putting women on an equality with men.

THE TRICKS, it says, include "segregating" women in separate departments so they have less chance of finding out what men earn, re-grading jobs and reserving the lowest-paid posts for women.

Recently, the ministry mailed 400,000 leaflets to employers urging them to quit stalling and to start paying women on an equal basis.

None of this has impressed Mrs. Tomlin and others like her. "We seem to have heard all this before," is their reaction.

ON THE AGENDA

Mill Valley AAUW Branch Will Launch 25th Year On Tuesday

The Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women will begin its 25th anniversary year with a morning meeting and luncheon beginning at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ray C. Schultz in Mill Valley.

Members will discuss a change in name from the Mill Valley Branch to the Mill Valley Area Branch, indicating that membership is open to eligible women from Belvedere, Tiburon, Corte Madera, Sausalito and other parts of Southern Marin as well as Mill Valley.

Mrs. Geoffrey Bennett of Mill Valley is luncheon reservations chairman.

A SALAD luncheon will open the fall season for members of the Marin Alumnae Chapter of Delta Delta Delta at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Angelo Capozzi in Tiburon.

Co-hostesses are Mmes. Robert I. Christensen of San Rafael, Richard Ogle of Tiburon and A. S. Vickers of Mill Valley.

THE MILL Valley Women's Golf Club has accepted the invitation of the Mare Island Women's Golf Club for an invitational tournament Tuesday in Vallejo. Mrs. Joseph Wittenmeier, president, and Mrs. John Burroughs, captain, will be in charge of the Mill Valley team.

THE DATE for San Rafael High School Parent Teacher Association's back-to-school night has been changed from next Wednesday to Tuesday, according to Mrs. Nevin George, president.

The date change was made because of a conflict. Parents of students will meet briefly at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the auditorium and then will meet teachers in the various classrooms.

A BRIDGE luncheon with a Scottish theme will be held by the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club at noon on Tuesday. The event will be given at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. Mrs. Allan Livers is reservations chairman for the luncheon.

TAMAL REBEKAH Lodge 393 will have the official visit of the district deputy president, Mrs. Hazel Kistenmacher of Sebastopol, on Tuesday. The ceremony will be held at 8 p.m. at Odd Fellows Temple in San Rafael.

A silent auction will follow the meeting, with proceeds set for the scholarship fund of the Rebekah Assembly of California.

Noble grand Mrs. Val Nichelini will head the decorations committee, and Mrs. William Amos is chairman of the refreshments committee for the evening.

THE CHEF'S Special Regatta at Sausalito Yacht Club beginning at 6:40 p.m. Tuesday is sponsored by the chef, Fernand Loing, and his wife for members and other yachtsmen who have sailed in the club's summer-long Tuesday evening race series.

After the four mile sailing race dinner will be served at the clubhouse and the trophies presented by the Loings will be awarded.

JOEL KODISH will be the guest caller when the Question Marks Square Dance Club of Santa Rosa holds its fourth Saturday hoedown tomorrow. The intermediate level dance will be given at the Cotati Women's Club Hall in Cotati, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

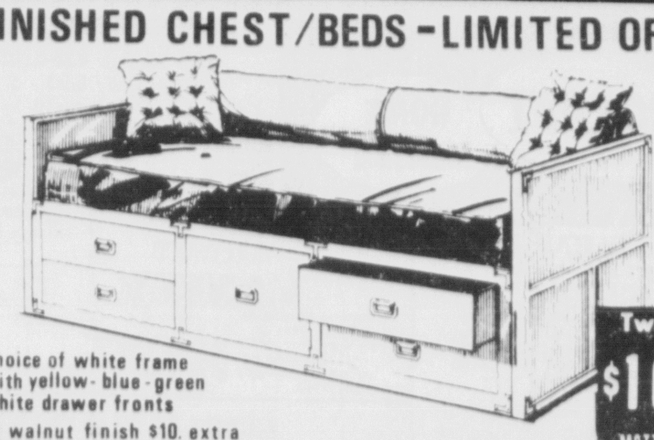

Dance Already Is Held By Club

The incorrect date was given Wednesday in the On the Agenda column in an item announcing a dance sponsored by the Social-Lites Single Adult Club of Sonoma and Marin Counties.

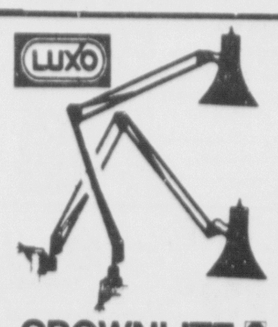

The dance has already been held, and the club will not meet on Friday.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Remember The Wall Can't Be Broken Within A Short Time

DEAR HELEN:

I've been married twice in the last four years. My problem is I can't express love or affection to my husband. The first marriage lasted six months and we filed for divorce just after the baby came.

When I married again, I got pregnant right away. We've been together a year and a half, but it won't last much longer unless I can show Mark I really do love him. He knows I didn't at first, but I've grown to care for him — and I still can't show it. I shy away from phsycial contact, and I've never once been able to say, "I love you." Even when he puts his arms around me, I freeze.

I came from a broken home which didn't have love in it. I don't remember anyone ever showing affection. All there was, was yelling and hitting.

Don't say to see a psychiatrist. I've seen two, and they didn't help. — NEEDS HELP BADLY AT AGE 23.

DEAR NHB:

You've "seen two psychiatrists," but for how many sessions? A wall that took 23 years a-building can't be broken down by two or three one-hour talks. You may need prolonged therapy before you fully learn to trust.

I suspect you avoid closeness as a subconscious shield against possible rejection. ("People who don't feel can't be hurt.") But since you recognize how damaging this is to yourself and others, you can change. Until you do fully, try pretense. You'll be surprised how often it becomes natural — especially if you have a gentle, patient husband who understands the problem. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You hear of so many "creative" people who are a little bit nuts. Five out of six recent Pulitzer Prize winning novelists were alcoholics. And look at the artist who sliced his ear off, and the musicians with problems, and the writers and performers who do crazy things.

They say there's a fine line between genius and madness.

What I'm getting at is that my son has this wild ambition to be a writer, and I have to admit he's good. But I don't want him going crazy or getting involved in the wild life.

Am I wrong to discourage him from this so-called career? — PARENT

DEAR PARENT:

Yes, you're wrong! Talent should never be discouraged.

And for Pete's sake, stop judging all "creative" people by the few who make headlines. Only one famous artist in history sliced his ear off. And I'll bet you'll find more potential alcoholics at a sales managers' meeting than at an authors' conference.

You've got an exaggerated picture because famous names make news and sometimes their antics are built up beyond their real-life actions (by writers who need to "sell"). Face it: there's something in most all of us that might come off a little nutty when exposed to public light.

Good luck to your son. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My daughter wore a POW bracelet for two years. When she read the young man had come home, she sent it to him, and wrote a nice letter. She heard absolutely nothing! It's been seven months.

Why don't these fellows send thank-you notes? Seems like nobody cares any more. — MRS. M.

DEAR MRS. M.:

These fellows went through hell. Must you criticize because they can't get around to hundreds of thank-you notes? They appreciate our concern. Surely your daughter must realize this, even though she doesn't get a letter. — H.

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Novato To Be Home For Recently Wed

The First Baptist Church in Novato was the setting for the wedding of Shirley Blanche Wiggin and Ellsworth Charles Overmyer, both of Novato.

The Sept. 8 nuptials were followed by a reception at the church and a wedding trip to Hawaii. The couple will live in Novato.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Wiggin of Novato, Shirley chose her sister Mrs. Joel Hollander of Novato as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were another sister, Mrs. Jerry Retke of San Rafael and Mrs. Joe Caldwell of Mill Valley.

Mike Ferretti of San Rafael served as best man, and the ushers were the bridegroom's brothers, Robert and Ronald Overmyer of Novato.

Shirley is a Novato High School graduate and is employed at the Emporium at Northgate. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. C. J. Wiggin of Sanford, Me.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Overmyer of Novato. He is a graduate of Novato High School and College of Marin and is employed at Las Gallinas Golf Course in San Rafael.

Blue Jeans Entrepreneur To Be Guest

A blue jeans entrepreneur and a conditioning therapist will be guests on "Jorie Talks" which is broadcast weekdays at 9:30 a.m. on KTIM.

Melody Sabatasso of Fairfax, who recycles used denims into fashion apparel, will discuss the fad on Thursday and Friday.

Health and beauty through exercise will be discussed by Bob Fuller of San Rafael on Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Monday host Jorie Parr will give the Marin County slant to Myra Friedman's biography of Janis Joplin, "Buried Alive."

Why Not Recycle Guns Into Useful Products?

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Supposedly one needs a license to purchase a gun, but not for stealing or renting a gun.

If you're unfamiliar with the rent-a-gun business, it goes something like this. You pay $5 or more for the use of a stolen or even legitimately purchased gun for a prescribed length of time. The consumer picks up his rented revolver, commits an act of armed robbery, drops the gun at a predetermined location (behind the 16th bush in the local park, in the third trash can on 11th Avenue or locker three at the bus station). The rental agent picks up the gun and returns it to stock to be rented again.

THE MILITARY must have guns for national security. This need is questionable when you consider the many other sophisticated and effective methods of warfare (nerve gas, A and H bombs) we have at our disposal. Why fool with guns if you want to win a war?

The crooks and kooks will have their guns — one way or another. Consequently, the law-enforcement agencies must have their guns — to protect the protectors.

The hunters are the most vocal and well-heeled lobbyists against gun legislation. Under the auspices of sport, they must have their guns for fun and recreation.

The mail from hunters across the country justifies their position: "At least we shoot animals in the woods and not people in the streets!" "We are trained and certified marksmen. We know how to use firearms safely." "Hunting is a sport — just like basketball." "We help nature maintain an ecological balance. The animal excesses would have to be slaughtered anyway."

WITH THE price increase of beef, licensing agencies state there has been a heavy increase in the number of applications for hunting licenses. The day hunting season opens is celebrated like a national holiday.

It's been said before and remains a simplistic statement for a complex problem: A society with no guns at all would surely be safer than a society with everyone armed. There are simply too many guns in existence now to exercise meaningful control.

BUT WE'VE GOT to start somewhere. How about stopping the production of guns and recycling existing guns by melting them down and using the metal for other products? Surely there are other products that gun manufacturers can produce. Surely there are other sports in which to participate besides shooting helpless animals. Surely our war arsenal is not dependent on guns for the annihilation of other countries. Surely fewer crimes of passion would be committed if there were no guns in homes. Surely fewer youngsters would be shot by law-enforcement officers accidentally because they "thought the youngster was armed."

In this age of ecological concerns, the recycling of guns (like the detoxification of deadly gases) should be considered.

Couple Planning December Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Davis of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter Quannah Lee Dodge to Robert Ramon Bartunek, also of San Rafael.

The future bride is the sister of Patricia Ann Dodge of San Rafael and the granddaughter of Mrs. Sybil Walker of Sulphur, Okla., and Mrs. and Mrs. Seldon Dodge of San Pablo.

She is a graduate of Terra Linda High School, attended the College of Marin and is employed by H. C. Electronics, Inc., in Mill Valley.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Bartunek of San Rafael and the brother of Jonathan, James, William and Joel Bartunek.

He also was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended the College of Marin and is now employed at the Union Garage in San Francisco.

The couple has set a Dec. 8 wedding at Lucas Valley Community Church.

Engagement Of Couple Announced

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Strachan of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter Carol Louise Strachan to Kevin Joseph Curtin of Novato.

The couple is planning a Dec. 1 wedding at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Carol, who is the sister of Kathleen Strachan of San Rafael and James Strachan of Fairfield, is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and attended the University of California at Davis. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald O'Donoghue of San Rafael and Mrs. E. H. Strachan of Loveland, Colo.

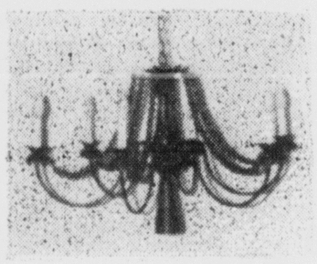

Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Curtin of Novato and the brother of Cynthia Curtin of Inverness and Stephen Curtin of Petaluma. Mr. and Mrs. Rene LaCasse of Bellingham, Wash., are his grandparents.

A Novato High School graduate, he is serving with the Air Force in Albuquerque, N.M.

Major Toy Company Now Taking 'Back To Fundamentals' Approach

HAWTHORNE (UPI) — One major toy company has taken a "back to fundamentals" approach in a simplified line of playthings for preschool children who, despite advocates of zero population growth, are and will be for some time to come, more numerous than ever.

It makes sense that a company such as Mattel Inc., based in a Los Angeles suburb, would be interested in the number of children nudging their parents to buy toys, but offhand one would think the younger population was on the decrease.

Not so, says young Joseph S. Whitaker, the company's vice president for product planning. He cites reasons to back up his belief which could be a million-dollar boo-boo if the company makes the wrong toys on his advice.

"BIRTHS ARE growing and will continue to grow," he explained. "There are more families now even though they have fewer kids. The parents of today are those born in 1957 when our population peaked. For the next 10 years, the absolute number of kids will continue to grow despite zero population growth."

For this growing market, especially the under-six group, Mattel is producing simplified toys which spell sturdiness.

The company has researched the youngsters and parents and Whitaker says "there is a trend away from mechanistic toys."

The parents and the children want "simplicity, ease of operation, worthwhile fun."

He added, "The child should be able to enjoy the toy by himself. This is what we call a baby-sitter aspect."

"Since young married couples are more affluent than ever, they are going to spend more," said Mattel's Whitaker. "First babies always get more. The first baby may be the only one they have and they will spend more on it. A mother is going to spend in a more quality conscious way.

"ANOTHER FACTOR is that lots of mothers are working. They will hire baby-sitters or put the child in a nursery school or day-care center. It is most important to a working mother that she provide meaningful, wholesome toys for her child.

"I have seen statistics showing that one-third of the mothers of grade school children are working. And in the next decade it is forecast that one-third to one-half of preschool mothers will work outside the homes. There will be a tremendous demand for satisfying toys and they will have the money to spend. We anticipate that preschool toys will be the fastest growing section of our business for several years to come."

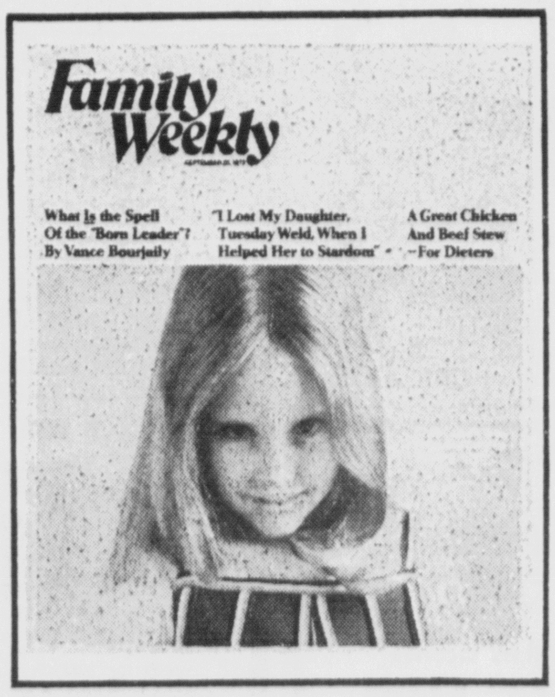

Whitaker is a young-looking 32 and came to Mattel 10 years ago from the University of California at Berkeley. He holds a master's degree in management organization and theory.

He said that the mother will be the one who decides what to spend on what.

"She's got the dollar power."

Don't miss this fascinating article tomorrow in the Family Weekly Section of your Week-End I-J.

Child Crises:

Which Ones Are Normal — Which Are Not?

"The child who puts on a cowboy suit for Halloween and can't stop being a cowboy for three weeks after Halloween is over may need help."

Thumb-sucking, bed-wetting, temper-tantrums . . . Is the child just going through a stage, or is there real cause for concern? In an essay written especially for Family Weekly, Grace W. Weinstein quotes valuable advice and suggests tested guidelines for parents who are anxious about some common childhood problems. In reporting the results of her in-depth investigations and interviews with child-development specialists, she offers some barometers of children's emotional needs and suggests means for recognizing abnormal patterns of behavior.

PHOTOGRAPHER'S PHOTOGRAPHER — This intent photographer, straddling a puddle of water which reflects his image, presents an unusual study in concentration as he merges into the patterns of form and imagery which surround him. One of 35 black and white photographs by Prentice L. Price II, it is currently on view in the lobby gallery of the Social Security office on Northgate Drive in San Rafael.

ART REVIEW

Photographer Deals With Two Worlds

By ADA GARFINKEL

Photographer Prentice L. Price II is not so much concerned with photo-journalistic reality as he is with selecting special dramatic and poetical vignettes from these realities.

In his exhibit of 35 black-and-white photographs on display in the lobby gallery of the Social Security office on Northgate Drive, San Rafael, Price presents rich cameo portraits both of the natural and man-made worlds.

He dwells lovingly on the latter, for example, in three separate views of the distinctive Gothic architecture of a handsome Victorian mansion. In the first shot, the focus is on the delicate lace-work patterns of the tall white gable roof line. In another, it is on the cruciform effect of a mullion-paned window flanked on both sides by quarter-circle lunettes, the effect heightened by the white painted frames against the dark siding.

The third view is of the intricately designed millwork used for the siding. In this photo, as in the other two, the running white roof-line accents the velvety darkness of the wooden structure.

Price deals with the formations of nature in a mythic-poetic way. A close-up, for instance, shows several fossilized stones lying on a large plateau of rock, which conjure up the sculptural remains of an ancient civilization. And in another close-up, a group of silvery cabbages gleam phosphorescently like jewels.

One of the most unusual of Price's photographs is one of the rear view of three tiers of roller-skates attached to white, high-top shoes. At first they all look alike in their static uniformity. Then one notices that some are slightly taller than others, that they are wrinkled, and other subtle variations.

Textural variety and contrast are seen in multiple ways in Price's work. There is an analogy between a scene of a pile of heavy industrial chain crisscrossed by thick wire cables and another photo in which a pile of dry branches, brambles, and rubble assume the same pictorial relationships.

The special harmony of a wooden-slatted door fitting flush into a crusty stucco wall, and the collage effects of tin, burlap, and remains of posters stripped from the walls of old buildings are recorded sensitively in various photographs.

Subtle and not so subtle graffiti on several old walls shows a Matisse-like dancing figure, a mountainous cup of coffee, and a gigantic curved arrow leading to a student parking lot. It is the unexpectedness of witnessing these examples of iconography in such situations that is one of the special rewards in Price's work.

This exhibit will continue through Nov. 16. Viewing hours are weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The office is located at 549 Northgate Drive.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parent's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Asylum" — This British horror film is a real shocker. Part of a job interview, for a doctor, is the selecting of one of four mentally ill patients as the former doctor who ran the institution.

"Day of the Jackal" — Lengthy but suspenseful tale of the preparations made by a hired gunman to assassinate DeGaulle. Handsome production is well acted.

"40 Carats" — A charming, slightly implausible fable, a dashing young romeo falls deeply in love with a slightly geriatric juliet in this light comedy with glossy background.

"Harold and Maude" — A heavy-handed film about an 80-year-old woman teaching a mixed up, suicidal young man how to enjoy life including marriage to her.

"Hireling" — Set in 1920s in England this film details the relationship between a chauffeur and the aristocratic lady he drives.

"Paper Moon" — Sophisticated comedy drama recreating the 1930s. Salesman-con-artist agrees to deliver a 9-year-old orphan girl to an aunt. The child is tough, smokes and swears and outswindles her mentor.

"Romeo and Juliet" — The tragic love story is made vividly new in this superlative production.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Butterflies Are Free" — A blind boy strikes out for independence from a domineering mother by living alone in a swinging San Francisco neighborhood. His sexual encounters change his life.

"Cesar and Roslie" — The eternal triangle, French style, makes a sophisticated sex comedy. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Happy Mothers Day, Love George" — A murder-horror tale is uncovered when a young man attempts to discover his true parentage. A network of incestuous relationships as well as bodies is found. Rough language.

"Live and Let Die" — Latest James Bond adventure takes one to New York, New Orleans and Caribbean islands in search of a drug ring and a voodoo enchantress. Usual violence, gadgets and sex.

"Man In The Wilderness" — A fur trapper, mauled by a bear, is left to die in the savage wilderness in the 1820s. His survival and resolve to get revenge for being abandoned makes it a down beat drama.

"Outside Man" — After murdering a wealthy California Mafioso, a hired killer becomes the object of assassination himself. (Boxoffice magazine).

"Pete and Tillie" — The romance and marriage of a middle-aged couple is both hilarious and touching.

"Scorpio" — A double-agent is marked for execution. The violent manhunt through the capitols of Europe is the plot.

"State of Siege" — French made, very violent film. A harsh indictment of U.S. policy in Latin American countries and the crises it precipitates. Poorly dubbed but food for thought.

"Sterile Cuckoo" — Story of a first love on a college campus between a desperately unhappy mixed-up girl and a boy she draws into an affair.

"Walking Tall" — When an ex-wrestler returns to his hometown and finds it in the grip of a corrupt element he runs for sheriff and fights violence with violence. Extremely brutal, bloody and suspenseful. (Boxoffice Magazine)

ADULTS ONLY

"Day in the Death of Joe Egg" — This black comedy tells of the trials a young couple must bear to deal with their child being permanently retarded at an infantile level. Their bizarre sense of humor leads to fantasy games. Sex and nudity.

"Deliverance" — Gripping suspense tale of four men on a canoeing trip who are attacked by two sadistic men. There is violence, rape and cursing.

"O Lucky Man" — A three hour episodic comedy-fantasy — satire. It is both a left-handed tribute to man's indomitable spirit and man's inhumanity to man. Violence, sex, nudity and cursing.

Marin Water Supply Will Be Debated

Marin's water supply and Measure E on the November ballot will be the subjects of a debate at a meeting of Marin Alternative at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in Room 101, Science Building, College of Marin.

Speaking against the measure, which would provide phase two of the Marin-Sonoma Aqueduct will be Tina Ferris of the Committee to Save Marin. Speaking in support of the measure will be John M. MacPhail Jr., member of the board of directors of the Marin Municipal Water District.

Sewer Ponds Oversized?

Five sewage treatment ponds planned for the Bolinas Mesa may have been designed too large to qualify for government funding, Bolinas Public Utility District directors have been told.

Directors have set a meeting with representatives of the state Water Quality Control Board to discuss the matter.

State engineers believe the ponds, part of the much-discussed and long delayed sewage treament plant for Bolinas, may be 40 per cent larger than the village needs. Cost of the plant in its present design has been set at $1,684,000, of which 87.5 per cent would be financed by state and federal grants.

Utility district director Paul Kayfetz, board chairman William A. Niman, sewer consultant William Oswald and state representatives are to meet either tomorrow or Monday, said board clerk Lymon Robinson.

Buy Your Meat In Market Last

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although some supermarkets' layouts make this difficult, try to buy meats, including hamburger, last.

Burying the meat at the bottom of the shopping cart can puncture the package. This mishandling increases the chances that bacteria will grow in it. Hamburger can be stored in its own plastic wrapping, but not in butcher paper, says the New York Better Business Bureau.

Logging, Bad Air Bring About Protective Action

By ROBERT E. SWEET

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Legislature passed a score of bills this year to clean up California's environment, ranging from the scenic Sierra timberlands to the smog-ridden Los Angeles basin.

One measure sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan would impose strict new logging standards on the $1 billion-a-year California timber industry to protect forests from massive overcutting.

Passage of the compromise bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, culminated an often bitter two year fight between environmentalists and loggers over regulations for forest practices on eight million acres of privately owned timberland.

The measure creates a new state Forestry Board dominated by members representing the public. It also provides for specific restocking standards and on-site inspections before, during and after logging operations.

The bulk of the antismog legislation passed this year was aimed at the South Coast Air Basin, including a bill to create the state's first mandatory car inspection program to check pollution control devices.

If signed by Reagan, the bill by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, would establish a pilot program which would expand to cover annual inspection of all vehicles within the six-county basin.

The vehicles' smog control equipment would have to be in top shape before they could qualify for registration. The legislature also passed a bill by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, to establish a single pollution control district in the Los Angeles smog belt. Currently, smog is handled by six different district agencies which often conflict with one another.

The bill also would shift the cost of fighting smog in the basin from property taxpayers to motorists and to stationary sources of air pollution based on their emissions of pollutants.

A proposed constitutional amendment which cleared the legislature would help reduce automobile pollution by unlocking gas tax funds to construct new rapid transit systems.

The legislation by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills would divert about $50 million a year in gas taxes, long reserved strictly for highway projects, for use in rapid transit programs. The measure will appear on the June, 1974 ballot.

Another major measure passed by the Legislature would create a new statewide commission with broad powers to cite nuclear power plants and ration fuel supplies if a critical energy shortage occurs.

The Energy Resources Development and Conservation Commission also would conduct experiments to enhance the efficiency of electrical products with the aim of reducing California's energy demand.

The measure, coauthored by Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, and Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, is supported by the Sierra Club and strongly opposed by utility companies and the General Electric Co.

Under a bill by Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, petroleum companies would be required to screen oil sumps to protect birds which now die in uncovered oil sumps. The measure is awaiting Reagan's signature.

Other environmental bills which cleared the legislature would:

Regulate commercial fishing of herring in Tomales and San Francisco Bay (Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael.)

Provide $10 million for the state to acquire land around Lake Tahoe to prevent overdevelopment in the region. (Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg D-Sacramento.)

Declare a five-year moratorium on dam construction on sections of the south and middle forks of the Kings River. Sen. George N. Zenovich, D-Fresno.

Many conservation measures failed and will reappear before lawmakers when they reconvene in January for the second half of their two-year session. Major unfinished business includes bills that would:

Impose stiff fines on pollution-belching industries in the South Coast Air Basin. (Moretti.)

Establish an oil-free sanctuary in the Santa Barbara channel. (Moretti.)

Appropriate $155 million to protect the environment, including fish and wildlife habitats. (Mills.)

Create a commission with power to curtail development in the Santa Monica Mountains. (Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Los Angeles.)

Seminars Are Announced

Seven seminars, ranging from "Consciousness Raising for Women" to "Encounter With Out Jewishness" and group leadership training, have been announced by the Mental Health Counseling Group in San Rafael.

Fee for the group seminars depends on individual financial situations, although some courses require minimum fees, a spokesman said.

More information is available from the counseling service at 610 D Street.

Jews Rap Russian Emigration Policy

MOSCOW (UPI) — A group of more than 80 Soviet Jews charged yesterday that government officials were making a mockery of their repeated requests to emigrate to Israel.

In a petition made available to Western newsmen, the group said they had made several requests to the government for permission to leave, but the appeals were not acknowledged.

Public Financing Of General Elections Win Labor Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three representatives of organized labor today endorsed public financing of general elections and creation of a federal election commission with its own enforcement powers.

But they differed on whether to entirely exclude private campaign donations and whether to extend federal financing to primary elections.

In testimony prepared for a Senate subcommittee, Andrew J. Biemiller, legislative director of the AFL-CIO, and Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, backed taxpayer funding for all federal elections.

Biemiller proposed a complete ban on private donations while Woodcock called for public financing coupled with taxpayer money to match small private donations.

Glenn E. Watts, secretary-treasurer of the Communications Workers of America, disagreed. He said "we feel privately financed primary campaigns should be preserved to encourage full citizen participation."

Watts said that "While CWA favors public financing of general election campaigns, to utilize this system for primary campaigns would only stifle public involvement in the political process."

Robert G. Dixon Jr., an assistant attorney general, submitted a tentative Justice Department plan which would require that all contributions to candidates go into a financial pool, administered by a federal commission. The commission would forward funds to candidates' campaign committees, requiring full public disclosure of contributors in the process.

"The proposal is designed primarily to reach the secret holding of large sums of money by committees and individuals," Dixon said.

Some 33 senators and 140 members of the House are reported to support bills for public financing of campaigns in one form or another.

Biemiller said some reform is needed because, "America's political system has been corrupted beyond belief by money."

Philip S. Hughes, director the Office of Federal Elections, testified Thursday that stronger laws are needed give the government power to crack down on campaign financing abuses.

Thacher Session

John S. Hyler, director of admissions for Thacher School in Ojai, will meet with seventh and eighth grade boys who are interested in attending the school at a gathering at the home of Fred C. Hannahs, 440 Ridge Road, Tiburon, at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday.

Big Party Grows Out Of Skyjack

TOKYO (UPI) —Two European businessmen made social history in Japan today by giving the world's first party to celebrate an airline hijacking.

"Thanks to the Palestinian guerrillas, we now have many new Japanese friends," said A.J.J. De Koning, manager of a Netherlands-based firm engaged in international grain trade.

De Koning and H.M. Gauger, German-born executive of a Belgian company, were among five European passengers of a Japan Airlines jumbo jet hijacked July 20 on a flight from Amsterdam to Tokyo.

The two men were hosts today at Tokyo's Palace Hotel for a party given in honor of their business associates and the jet's Japanese crew.

The other 114 passengers were Japanese.

AT&T Leader Questions Experiments In Economy

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — John D. deButts, board chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., yesterday called for a moratorium on further experiments aimed at increasing competition in the telecommunications industry.

He said a moratorium was needed to permit a systematic evaluation of the impact of further competition on the adequacy, dependability and availability of telephone service as well as its cost to the public.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the National Association of Regulatory Commissioners, deButts said regulatory decisions aimed at competition for competition's sake will hurt most people in the long run.

He said the notion that "in all times and all places competition is good and monopolies are bad and that regardless of the cost and consequences, the former should supplant the latter" was placing the common carrier principle in jeopardy and could, in time, destroy it.

He said that AT&T's experience so far with competition in the provision of customer provided telephone equipment and special private line services suggests an urgent need for caution before proceeding to further liberalization of interconnection requirements that would permit customers to connect their own telephone equipment directly to the nationwide network.

"The prospect confronting us," he said, "is not free and open competition as an alternative to monopoly, but rather a third alternative with the virtues of neither and the disadvantages of both—and that is regulated competition, a division of the marketplace arbitrarily imposed and artificially maintained."

"The time has come ... for a moratorium on further experiments in economics — a moratorium sufficient to permit a systematic evaluation—not merely of the question of whether competition might be feasible in this or that segment of telecommunications, but of the more basic question of the long-term impact of its further extension on the public at large."

Defacer Of Art Gets Probation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Elane Winston, 60, was sentenced to three years probation after pleading no contest to charges of defacing two oil paintings of reclining nudes at an art show.

The Sacramento woman was cited by police for malicious mischief last month after artists at a downtown display said she marred the two large paintings with crayons and fluid.

She was sentenced Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Lawrence W. Marvin Jr. Both paintings were valued at $500.

A Flag Conflict

EIBERGEN, The Netherlands (UPI) —The town council of Eibergen is in conflict with the mayor and aldermen who want a town flag of strictly heraldic pattern. The councillors want the flag to illustrate the eggs and mountains hidden in the towns name. Eibergen

Red Nations Said Tough Customers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Western businessmen were told yesterday it is no use spending a lot of money trying to sell goods to Communist nations—if the Communists want products they will seek out sellers, and if they don't want the goods, there is no way they will buy.

"Our experience is that expenditures supporting a major selling effort cannot really be justified," said Lord Pilkington, head of a British glass manufacturing firm.

Pilkington's advice was given during a panel discussion at the International Industrial Conference, a meeting of 650 businessmen from 75 countries gathered to discuss mutual problems.

Sales teams sent into Iron Curtain countries not only are often frustrated in their sales efforts but find travelling are often frustrated in their business."

"The people with whom one generally deals are almost always polite and friendly," Pilkington said. "But they seem to have a very much stronger constitution than most of us in the West, being quite happy to negotiate without getting anywhere until well after midnight and to arrange to continue the meeting at six the following morning in an overhot office where breakfast is served, consisting usually of local brandy and garlic sausage."

If a sale is made, "payment terms will be strictly adhered to without fuss or delay," Pilkington said. The Socialist businessman also "recognizes integrity as he meets it."

However, Westerners crossing the Iron Curtain to sell goods should keep in mind that "there is no permanency" in a business relationship. "You do not create goodwill, you cannot reach the user," he said. "The tap will be turned off quite finally if other sources can meet demands."

He said that when the state-controlled company "wants to buy, it will seek out sellers.

"But when it does not want to buy, because it has local unused capacity, no straightforward economic considerations seem to prevail and you cannot build up a kind of long-standing tradition of good will that will ensure you a permanent place in a market.

"You must make hay while the sun shines. Our experience is that the expenditures supporting a major selling effort cannot really be justified."

The British industrialist also warned the western businessmen that their Soviet-bloc counterparts are usually very well informed on worldwide markets.

Recruiting Of Y-Indian Guides Set

Recruiting and orientation meetings for the Y-Indian Guide program of the Marin Young Men's Christian Association will be held in various locations in the county beginning next Monday, according to YMCA officials.

The program is open for boys in kindergarten through third garde and their fathers.

The meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. The locations and dates are:

Monday, Linwood School; Tuesday, Loma Verde School, Wednesday, Marion School, and Thursday, San Marin High School, all in the Novato area.

Oct. 1, Mill Valley Middle School; Oct. 2, Del Mar School, Tiburon; Oct. 3, San Clemente School, Corte Madera, and Oct. 4, Ross School.

Oct. 3, Terra Linda High School; Oct. 4, Isabel Cook School, San Anselmo; Oct. 9, San Pedro School and Oct. 10, West End School, both in San Rafael.

Mount Makalu Climb Planned

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Preparations are under way for an international expedition of Americans, Argentines and Germans who will try to scale 27,790—foot Mount Makalu next autumn.

Fritz Stammberger, 33, Munich, a member of the team, today left here for the mountain to reconnoiter the route and inspect snow conditions.

Walk Slated In Oldtown Of Novato

The Novato Civic Foundation has scheduled a walk through the "Old Town" section of Novato at 2 p.m. Sept. 30, to view historic buildings that have been proposed for reservation.

The idea for a walk arose at a foundation meeting Tuesday night after President Herbert W. Cook Jr. called for "putting it all together in oldtown."

The foundation has given priority to projects in Oldtown, including renovation of the old postmaster's house, renovation of the Carlyle house at DeLong and Sherman avenues, and preservation of the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. station at the east end of Grant Avenue.

The walk will start at the old pastmaster's house along DeLong Avenue, near Novato City Hall.

Among the proposals from the public at the meeting were use of the railroad station for a model railroad club, hiring youths to renovate old homes or paint buildings in Oldtown and planting trees in Oldtown.

Cook said the foundation's role will be to coordinate the activity of civic groups in the restoration and preservation projects, with both money and labor needed.

Firemen To Receive Underwater Training

A scuba diving team organized by the San Rafael Fire Department to combat fires along the San Rafael Canal will begin training Monday at a local diving school, the department said today.

Thirteen firemen will receive underwater diving instruction from the Bamboo Reef Diving School in San Rafael, a firm that is supplying its facilities "as a service to the people," according to fire training officer Douglas E. Jones.

Most of the firemen on the team have their own equipment and already know basic diving, he said.

The team will be used for water rescues and fire suppression along the city's waterfront, and will be available to other Marin fire departments under the city's mutual aid agreements.

The team is the first underwater rescue and fire suppression unit in Marin, according to Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci.

Minor Quakes

TOKYO (UPI) —Two earthquakes rocked most parts of this island nation today, but caused no injuries or damages, the Seismological Center said.

Proposed Bike Trail Is Endorsed

Lagunitas School District trustees have endorsed proposed trail and bicycle path routes connecting West and East Marin.

Trustees Wednesday night especially liked a proposed underpass on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in front of Lagunitas School, according to Supt. Harry F. Roche. He said residents of the district long have been concerned about the crossing and that trustees were pleased to find an underpass was proposed in the county plan.

The board granted teacher Mario LaMorte permission to work four days a week with a corresponding cut in salary. The request was granted, Roche said, because trustees thought the open classroom program in which LaMorte teaches is flexible enough for the change. The board also agreed to pick up any additional costs for milk for children this semester, rather than pass it on to the youngsters.

Unusual Items In Lost-And-Found

GENOA, Italy (UPI) —The police lost-and-found department had two unusual items to take care of yesterday: a white mare and a tiny Sardinian donkey.

A trucker who brought the animals by ferry from Sardinia told police he lost the address of the man he was supposed to deliver them to. Police kept them in a courtyard overnight, then asked a circus to look after them until the owner shows up.

THE FIAT 128 SL: THE SPORTY COUPE THAT ISN'T JUST A TWO-DOOR SEDAN HIDING BEHIND A RACING STRIPE.

In the last few years, a new breed of car has emerged.

Something called the "Sporty Coupe," which is supposed to be the perfect combination between a real sports car and a regular two-door sedan.

Unfortunately, many of these sporty coupes have ended up as imperfect compromises. Failing to combine either the mechanical refinements of a true sports car or the common sense of a true two-door sedan.

The front-wheel drive Fiat 128 SL, however, does not fail in either respect.

It has all the things a true sports car ought to have: Rack and pinion steering. Independent suspension. Power disc brakes up front. A four-speed gearbox. Standard radial tires. A tachometer. Vinyl bucket seats with perforated vents for breathing. And a thick, padded steering wheel.

It also has something real sports cars don't have—and few sporty coupes, for that matter—room.

Because the engine is mounted sideways (transverse) there's an incredible amount of room in the car for your head, your knees and other parts of your anatomy. Even in the back seat.

Further, the Fiat 128 SL gets the kind of gas mileage usually associated with stripped down economy sedans.

So if you think the idea of a sporty coupe is a good one, you ought to drive the Fiat 128 SL and see how good an idea it is when it's done right.

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1973 23

MARIN SCENE — Olema Valley, as depicted in this 1893 painting by Thad Welch, is a typical California landscape which Mr. and Mrs. Roy Farrington Jones of Ross have included in their slide collection of landscape paintings. They have photographed over 3,000 paintings and have been contacted by the Smithsonian Institution because of the size of their slide collection.

Landscape History Is Captured

By BILL ROBERTS

A project to photograph a collection of paintings for insurance purposes has mushroomed into a large collection of slides of California landscape paintings for a Ross couple.

The slide collection of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Farrington Jones has even attracted inquires from the Smithsonian Institution which is beginning a catalogue of American art.

Jones and his wife, Nancy, originally photographed their own collection in 1970 for insurance purposes. But their shared interest in both painting and photography quickly ignited the small project into something much bigger.

"Gee, we have three Thad Welch slides, let's see if so-and-so will let us in to photograph theirs," said Mrs. Jones in describing how their collection began to grow.

"Gosh, if they'll let us do it how about deYoung and Oakland," she said in decribing their expansion to museums.

Presently, the Jones have more than 3,000 slides of paintings which centered around California landscape. They have photographed paintings belonging to more than 100 private collectors and say they have worked in every major museum from Shasta to Los Angeles.

"The backroom is the place to be in all these places, backrooms and basements," said Jones.

Since 1970 they have devoted much of their time on vacations and pleasure trips to finding collectors with works that would fill out their slides or in rummaging through the attic of large and small museums.

As their personal photography project began to turn into a history of California landscape art, the Joneses discovered they had the technical knowhow to reproduce the beauty they saw in paintings.

Mrs. Jones had been a professional photographer in the Bay Area specializing in "marriages and candid children's shots" and her technical capability complemented his hobby interest in photography.

They experimented with lighting, filters and various films before hitting on combinations which allow them to gain the best reproduction.

She usually sets up lighting and solves technical problems while he does the picture taking. Jones thinks this is a reversal of roles but he points out that his height allows him a better camera angle for shooting paintings on museum walls.

They have presented slide shows at the Art and Garden Center in Ross, the Century Club in San Fancisco and at Stanford University seminars.

Their show will go public at 8 p.m. Oct. 5 in Olney Hall at College of Marin when they give the first of a four-part series on California history as seen through artists' eyes. They will show scenes painted between 1850 and 1890. Other dates in the series cosponsored by the college and the Marin Conservation League are Oct. 19 and Nov. 2 and 16, same time, same place.

Jones — a real estate appraiser and longtime Ross town councilman — emphasizes that he and his wife operate in a non-profit manner and any payments they receive are used to add to their collection of slides. The project has had challenging and interesting moments.

In Sacramento, they found themselves facing a difficult task in photographing "The Last Spike" by Thomas Hill which measures eight by 12 feet and hangs in the state Capitol. Capitol guards proved most cooperative, however, and produced the necessary ladders and assistance which allowed the Joneses to photograph the large painting.

And they had to secure written permission from galleries and collectors all over the country before they could photograph the "American West Show" at the M.H. deYoung Memorial Museum.

With more than 100 private collectors' paintings included in their slides, they have earned the trust of collectors and art curators throughout the state.

"The average person who has anywhere from one to 40 or 50 paintings prefers anonymity," Jones said explaining why they don't give collectors' names. Most collectors are afraid of thievery if the extent of their collection were known, he said.

"It's fun for us because we don't just deal with people who love art," Mrs. Jones said. "If they love California, they love our slides."

She emphasized that they continue the project only because they both enjoy the paintings and photographic end of their work. In their own description of the upcoming show at the College of Marin they describe themselves as "two California art enthusiasts with a camera."

Lease Offer Made For Fair Site

Western Weekend Inc., seeking a site for its annual fair, wants to lease 24 acres of the O'Hair property, Sutro Avenue and Novato Boulevard, Novato finance director L.H. Koehl reported yesterday.

Western Weekend is one of 14 requests submitted to the city which has offered to lease 24 acres of the 50-acre park site for grazing, Koehl said.

The Western Weekend Country Fair has been held at the east end of Rowland Boulevard in recent years, but that site has been lost to construction of an interchange at the Highway 101 bypass.

The proposal calls for use of the site not only for the fair but also flea markets, rodeos, go-kart racing and circuses under a 10-year lease with the rental amount to be negotiated.

Koehl said the remainder of the proposals involved activities related to horses from grazing to stables to an equestrian academy including a show ring.

Koehl said he will forward his recommendation on the proposals to City Mgr. Charles A. Brown and he expecte the matter would reach the city council in mid-October.

Radioactivity Has Two Hazards

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Exposure to excess radioactivity may have two kinds of effects on the human body, according to experts in the nuclear power industry.

Somatic effects impair health or shorten life, while genetic effects are transmitted to the offspring of the exposed individual by mutations of the genes.

San Quentin Six Judge Retained

Pretrial wrangling in the San Quentin Six case got off to a late start today before Marin Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick, who yesterday survived a disqualification move.

The six, accused of murder and conspiracy in connection with a bloody escape try at the prison in August, 1971, were scheduled to enter pleas today.

Broderick also was to hear arguments on some pre-trial motions and set dates for others to be heard. These include an attack by defendants on the grand jury which indicted them.

Association Justice Winslow Christian of the First District Court of Appeals, San Francisco, refused yesterday to disqualify Judge Broderick.

Disqualification first was sought by inmate John Larry Spain, and the motion was backed by attorneys for the other inmates.

But Christian held there was no proof that the six could not get a fair trial with Broderick on the bench.

Also charged are Fleeta Drumgo, Louis N. Talamantez, Willie Tate, Hugo A. Pinnell and David Johnson.

Shoreline Trustees Study Bond Defeat

Shoreline Unified School District trustees last night pondered the defeat Tuesday of a $450,000 bond measure for classrooms at Tomales Elementary School.

The measure gained a 59.6 per cent favorable vote, but was short of the two-thirds required for passage.

Supt. Kenneth L. Barnes said the board was concerned about the vote in the northern part of the district, Bloomfield, Bodega Bay and Valley Ford where the vote was virtually even.

Barnes said the board asked him to determine if an override tax election would be permissible under provisions of SB 90, the law relating to property taxes. Three bond measures to finance building, including Tuesday's measure, have been defeated at the polls in the past two years.

On attendance Barnes reported that at the end of the first week of classes, enrollment was 888, down four from the opening day enrollment last year. Under interdistrict agreements, 36 students have transferred to Shoreline and 11 out of Shoreline to other districts, he reported.

Trustees approved a wilderness trip to Yosemite National Park, tentatively scheduled Oct. 7 to 12, for 40 Tomales High School students. At least 60 per cent of the students taking the trip must be students who didn't take the trip to Death Valley last school year, he said.

The board also hired Mary Jean McAllister as a fourth-fifth grade teacher at Tomales Elementary School at $10,239 a year.

The board's next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 18 at Bodega Bay School.

Old Adobe Pay Hikes Approved

Salary increases averaging 7.4 per cent were approved last night by the Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma.

Pay increases for teachers will total $56,000 for 1973-74 and raises for classified employees and administrators will add an estimated $20,000.

Under the teachers agreement, the salary step increases will be changed to provide 10 steps from the bottom to top rates instead of the previous 13 steps.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

LUNCHES — Agreed to raise milk and lunch prices on Oct. 1 since the district no longer qualifies for federal support. Milk will increase from five to 10 cents per half-pint and hot lunches will go from 45 to 50 cents for students. Lunches were last increased by five cents on July 1.

CROSSWALK — Agreed to finance a crossing guard at Maria Drive and East Washington Street while negotiations with the City of Petaluma continue.

TRAINING — Approved an in-service training day for teachers on Nov. 9. No classes will be held.

ENROLLMENT — Heard that current enrollment is 2,202 students with classes average 28 students. The student population was 2,165 last year with most gains in the primary grades.

BUILDING — Heard that construction of the administration building is on schedule and should be completed by Nov. 1.

Judge Ponders Drug Prosecution Ruling

A decision on whether Sausalito attorney Michael H. Metzger will be prosecuted on drug charges is in the hands of Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

McGuire postponed a ruling yesterday on a petition by Metzger, the one-time government prosecutor, that he be placed on a year's probation instead of going to trial.

Diversion of first-time drug offenders from criminal action to rehabilitation and education is permitted under a state law enacted last year.

Metzger's petition was supported by the Marin Probation Department.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino said he formerly was of the opinion Metzger could not benefit from probation, but had changed his mind upon reading a probation report, and so had no recommendation.

Drug agents said they found LSD, cocaine, marijuana, hashish and an illegal tear gas weapon in the raid.

In a court battle lasting almost two years, Metzger first won a motion to suppress the evidence, but was overruled by a state court of appeals. He then lost a bid to have the search warrant thrown out, appealed the ruling and lost once more.

William O. Weissich of San Rafael, Metzger's attorney, called his client "an ideal person for diversion." Several character references have been received, including letters from U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert, U.S. Magistrate Richard S. Goldsmith of Mill Valley and a federal marshal.

Reserve Book Fee Is Cut

Fees for reserving books at the Mill Valley Public Library were reduced last night from 25 to 15 cents by the library board.

Carol M. Asch, board chairman, said that as of Oct. 1 patrons may also reserve two books for 25 cents.

Mrs. Asch said the board will hold a special meeting Oct. 1 at the library gallery at 8:15 p.m. to hear a report on increased automation in the county library system.

Irma Kay Named To Arts Board

The Fairfax Parks and Recreation Commission last night appointed commissioner Irma Kay to the town's new cultural and performing arts advisory board.

Fairfax Mayor E. Ross Parkerson will appoint four more members of the group, which is charged with advising the commission on local cultural matters.

In other business, the commission said the town "did better than break even" on the Fairfax Septemberfest. Last year's festival lost $400.

The commission next meets in joint session with the planning commission at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Fairfax Women's Club to review plans for the new firehouse.

Student Pleads To Lower Charge

A Sausalito law student charged with two felony counts of possessing cocaine and amphetamine was allowed to plead guilty yesterday to a misdemeanor count of driving under the influence of drugs.

Judge David R. Baty accepted the plea from Harry Marks Goodman, 24, and sentenced him to 15 days in jail, suspended, placed him on two years probation and fined him $250.

Goodman, who represented himself in court, was stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Highway 101 in Corte Madera July 27 when he was seen driving eratically.

Officers said they found cocaine and amphetamine in the auto.

Innocent Pleas To Grand Theft

Two partners in a San Rafael wholesale auto firm have pleaded innocent to five grand theft charges filed in connection with an alleged odometer rollback scheme.

James Garrett and Leo Morris were ordered to return to Marin Municipal Court on Oct. 16 for a preliminary hearing. They entered pleas Wednesday before Judge David R. Baty.

Garrett and Morris, partners in G and M Wholesale Autos, are accused of buying used cars, knocking from 12,000 to 37,000 miles from their odometers, then reselling them to unsuspecting customers.

Slow Down Seen At Sea Ranch

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Fear that the huge Sea Ranch subdivision on the Sonoma coast will be all built before a coastal plan can be drawn are groundless, the executive director of the North Central Coast Regional Commission reported last night.

Michael L. Fischer said inflated home financing and lumber costs have slowed home construction so much that only 75 to 120 more homes probably will be built while the commission draws its plan for the coast over the next three years.

His comments were triggered by the commission's rejection two weeks ago of a permit for two Sea Ranch homes on ground they could be followed by so many others that the view of the ocean from Shoreline Highway would be lost.

Motions by several commissioners to reconsider the denials failed, however.

Fischer said that while the 5,200-acre project could accommodate 5,200 units, the ultimate probably will be about 4,200. Roughly half will be single-family homes and half condominium and townhouse units, he said.

To date, 300 to 325 homes have been built, he noted, adding that while the first homes resembled cabins the newer ones were more like castles.

"We will be seeking a return to cabins," he promised, explaining they have less effect on the landscape.

Fischer cautioned another problem will be the previous planting of 50,000 trees between the highway and the ocean. Unless some are removed, topped or trimmed, he said, most views will be lost within a few years.

Other problems being tackled by his staff in its search for a blanket permit for the Sea Ranch, he said, include beach access, public trails, and septic tank capacity.

The commission agreed to hold its Oct. 19 meeting at the Sea Ranch so a tour of the project can be arranged.

Judge Asked To Impose Heavy Fine On Bodega Bay Developer

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The attorney general's office has asked a judge to impose heavy fines on the developer of a controversial 1,600-home project at Bodega Bay and to order possible removal of all work done since Feb. 1.

The complex legal contest between the state and Transcentury Properties, developer of Bodega Harbor, was escalated with the state's plea that the company be fined $10,000 for working without a state coastal permit plus $500 a day since Feb. 1 for the same offense — a total of some $100,000.

Unless the project can qualify for a construction permit, all improvements since Feb. 1 should be removed and the land restored as much as possible to its original contours, the state suit said.

It also asked Sonoma County Superior Court Judge Lincoln F. Mahan to order Transcentury to post a $1.5 million bond to cover the cost of restoring the land in case it fails to get a permit from the North Central Coast Regional Commission.

Details of the new legal move were reported to the commission last night by its counsel, Deputy Atty. Gen. Donatas Januta. Further hearing on the issues was set on Oct. 2.

The issue has been in court since the regional commission denied Transcentury's claim it was exempt from its jurisdiction as it began work before Proposition 20 created coastal controls. The measure was approved by voters last November, and the commission was seated on Feb. 1.

Transcentury promptly got a court order barring the state from seeking a court ban on work at the project while the denial was appealed to the state coastal commission. The state body upheld the denial on Sept. 5, but Transcentury got the order extended until the issue is settled in a trial.

The regional commission's executive director, Michael L. Fischer, said Transcentury has "hired virtually every unemployed person on the Sonoma Coast to proceed with construction as quickly as possible."

Januta said that his office will go to the District Court of Appeal if Judge Mahan, as he already has indicated, decides to try the constitutionality of Proposition 20.

Builder At Dillon Beach Faces Construction Slap

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The North Central Coast Regional Commission last night imposed eight conditions on all further construction at the Oceana Marin subdivision at Dillon Beach, overruling the developer's objections that they were "unacceptable."

The commission's staff recommended adoption of the conditions despite the developer's withdrawal of an application for a blanket permit for 155 single-family home lots.

Benjamin P. Bonelli of Belvedere, attorney for Frisco Land and Mining Co., said the blanket permit was sought only "to allow the sale of lots before the corporation went bankrupt." The conditions, however, "would hurt rather than help the sale of the property," he said in his letter withdrawing the application.

He objected especially to the requirement for a soils report on each lot, which he said would add about $1,000 to the cost of each home, and to height restrictions to preserve views.

Other conditions were that each home be approved by a design committee which would check especially for soils stability, the staff of the coast commission have final say over all plans, homeowners be liable for repairing landslides, all buyers be notified of this potential liability, an easement for a trial along the bluff be dedicated to the county and signs be posted to notify the public of access to the beach.

Commissioner Melville Owen of Ross won a 9-to-4 vote on his motion that the conditions be considered a "checklist" for individual applications to build homes. Not all conditions would have to be met, he said, but his motion left it to the staff to determine which of the eight applied in each case.

If Bonelli reapplied for a blanket permit, then all eight would be imposed on the development as a whole, Owen said.

The chairman of the commission, Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum, was the only absentee.

The North Central Coast Regional Commission also:

HALT — Heard without comment a plea from Californians Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands to halt all further individual permits for home construction and to require instead blanket permits so subdivisions cannot be developed piecemeal.

DAM — Asked the Army Corps of Engineers to study whether its proposed Warm Springs Dam in Sonoma County would deprive ocean beaches of sand.

PUBLIC — Agreed to consider holding public hearings at the beginning of meetings, as asked by San Francisco Supervisor John L. Molinari, instead of forcing the public to wait for hours while commissioners handle their own business.

PERMITS — Approved six permits for residential construction from San Francisco to Oceana Marin at Dillon Beach.

Guerrilla Chief Is Wanted Man

MEDELLIN, Colombia (UPI) —The Colombian armed forces put a $40,000 price dead or alive on the head of antigovernment guerrilla leader Fabio Vasquez Castano yesterday.

Col. Alvaro Riveros Abello, commander of the 4th Army Brigade, offered the reward for information leading to Vasquez Castano's capture, "dead or alive."

Vasquez is the suspected leader of the self-styled outlaw band calling itself the National Liberation Army which follows the Fidel Castro Marxist line and operates in Colombia's mountains.

In Bogota, army sources reported an all-day shootout between army troops and the guerrillas near Medellin yesterday. The soldiers killed two guerrillas, the sources said.

Job Count Climbs In Two Areas

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Jobs in manufacturing and construction were up substantially but employment in government was down during the first half of this year in California, the Finance Department reports.

Overall, the department concluded: "Economic expansion in California is continuing at a strong pace."

In a bi-monthly summary of the state's economic situation, released yesterday, the department said employment in durable goods manufacturing including aerospace and other industries were registering an increase of about 60,000 from levels last year.

Construction jobs were also maintaining a substantial increase, the survey said. But it also said the service industries, which grew by 80,300 during 1972, have expereinced a "gradual tapering" in growth since the start of the year. The July 1972 to July 1973 increase amounted to 42,400.

The survey said government employment "has slowed notably," due to cutbacks in federal civilian jobs and reduced growth in local agencies.

Government jobs in June totalled 1.55 million, compared to 1.52 million a year earlier. Total nonmilitary employment in the state as of June was 8.6 million, the report said, compared to 8.4 million a year ago.

The survey said increases in personal income have been "substantial so far this year."

Wages and salaries were reportedly about eight per cent above the pace of last year. The report said this was due largely to above average gains in manufacturing, communications-utilities and the finance industry.

Client Had Quart Of Prevention

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Antonio Bifulco was arrested yesterday on drunken disturbance charges, but his lawyer plans a unique defense.

He blamed it all on cholera and television.

A lawyer for Bifulco said he would argue in court that his client heard on television that wine and beer offered a degree of protection against Italy's current cholera outbreak.

The lawyer said the program did not say how much wine should be taken, and his client did not know a quart was too much.

Today is Friday, Sept. 21, the 264th day of 1973 with 101 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

English author and historian H. G. Wells was born Sept. 21, 1866.

On this day in history: In 1792, its royal family deposed, France became a republic.

In 1893, the first successful American-made gasoline-operated motor car appeared on the streets of Springfield, Mass. It was designed and built by Charles and Frank Duryea.

In 1938, an estimated 600 persons were killed by a hurricane which battered the coast of New England.

In 1955, Rocky Marciano knocked out Archie Moore in the ninth round at Yankee Stadium in New York, successfully defending his heavyweight title for the sixth time.

Athought for the day: British author H. G. Wells said, "Human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe."

San Rafael air quality yesterday: Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Man Held For Burglary Trial

A San Rafael man was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a felony burglary charge following a preliminary hearing before Judge David R. Baty of municipal court.

Isaac Felder Jr., 19, was ordered to appear Oct. 1 in the higher court.

He is accused of burglarizing the Amanda Griffin house in Marin City. Also charged with using a stolen credit card to buy gasoline on two occasions, Felder pleaded guilty yesterday to misdemeanor counts of credit card fraud.

Demos To Delay On '76 Guides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic Party rule makers, still showing signs of the 1972 factionalism that split the party, decided today not to make a final decision this weekend on delegate guidelines for the 1976 national convention.

Soon after Barbara Mikulski, head of the Delegate Selection Commission, opened a two-day meeting, a motion to permit voting on actual rules changes was defeated, 29 to 18.

The meeting originally was called to permit members to debate rules.

Three Bears Find Haven In A Tree

CLARKSBURG, Mass. (UPI) —Three little bears didn't like the barking dogs, so they went up a tree in a backyard here. Mama bear came along and joined her cubs.

None of the bears liked the crowd that gathered, so they stayed up the tree for most of the day yesterday, state fish and game officials said.

It wasn't until police finally moved the crowd back that mama dared venture down, and the cubs followed.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Politicians Measure Medical Care Through Mortality Rates

Perinatal, maternal, childhood, and adult mortality rates are used frequently by politicians to measure the caliber of medical care in our country. At present, those who wish to socialize medicine are having a field day, because the United States is twenty-first among the nations in infant mortality, even though their is criticism as to how these rates are calculated in different countries.

Maternal mortality (death rate from childbirth) is used in the same way. In 1947-48 the maternal mortality in the United States was 125.8 per 100,000 live births. In 1967-68, it had dropped to 26.3 per 100,000 live births. In Denmark, it went from 112.1 to 11.5; in the Netherlands, from 131.4 to 23.8.

AGAIN, THE medical community is blamed, mainly because of political expediency. The medical profession does not claim to be perfect, but the basic fault centers about poor nutrition, inadequate housing, environment, and educational opportunities.

This becomes obvious when we note that the maternal mortality for the white population in the United States was 18.1; it was 66.6 for nonwhites. The massive influx of people into urban areas and the failure of our larger cities to cope with their needs is, perhaps, the explanation.

According to Dr. Harris C. Faigel, our country is a union of states, any one of which is comparable — in area, population, density, industrialization, and health — with many smaller nations. Infant and maternal mortality rates for New England are better than those in Scandinavia. Twenty-one of our states have lower maternal death rates than either Sweden, Norway, or Denmark.

MANY AMERICANS believe that since we have the best resources we should get the finest of everything, including medical care. This is our goal, but the basic problem is that 60 million of our poor or near-poor people do not receive adequate medical care because of poor distribution of facilities.

Our nation is a mixture of people and health problems. The real victims of the American health tragedy are nonwhite mothers and children. Unfortunately, the problem is compounded by the never-ending cycle of social and medical crises — palliated, but never cured.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, P.O. Box 330, San Rafael, Ca. 94902. Telephone inquiries will not be answered.

SKIN CANCER

R.B.T. writes: Is there a sure way of determining whether a skin lesion is malignant, or must it be removed first for study?

REPLY

Removal for study is a sure way. But many of these lesions are so typical in appearance, the physician would be willing to bet his last dollar it is a malignancy.

CROSSED KNEES

V.P. writes: Will sitting with the knees crossed cause or contribute to varicose veins?

REPLY

Varicose veins stem fron an inherent weakness in the wall of the blood vessel. Crossing the knees could aggravate the condition, but standing produces more strain on the veins than does sitting. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on varicose veins.

ICY COLD ARM

D.R. writes: During the night I awaken frequently because my left hand and arm are icy cold. This happens even in a warm bedroom. What could be causing this sensation?

REPLY

Coldness is a sign of poor circulation. I assume the artery to the left hand and arm is compressed by a muscle, tendon, or bone when you sleep in a certain position, such as with the arms over the head. Special tests are needed to determine if a circulatory problem exists.

NOISY JAWBONE

P. E. writes: When my husband chews his food, his jawbone makes a peculiar noise, which reminds me of a metal beetle snapper children play with. When the house is quiet, I can hear it in the next room. What could be wrong?

REPLY

Noise of this type usually comes from the joint where the jawbone is attached to the skull or from the ligaments surrounding the joint. He may have arthritis of this joint. I assume his teeth are not clicking together because of a poor bite.

UPPER G.I. SERIES

E. P. writes: Does an upper gastrointestinal series of X-rays include the lower abdomen?

REPLY

No — the esophagus, stomach, and part of the small intestine (duodenum).

SHINGLES

Mrs. G. writes: What should be done about shingles? My son has had it for three months and nothing helps.

REPLY

Shingles varies in severity. It is most painful and destructive when the nerves of the face and eyes are involved. On the other hand, the disorder is difficult to treat when the rash disappears but leaves in its wake a painful neurallia. I assume your son is in this predicament and has received anti-viral therapy including idoxuridine. Give it a little more time and if pain continues a few months longer, it may be wise to have the nerve cut.

LUNG CLOT

A reader writes: I have been hospitalized with pulmonary phlebitis. Is there any drug to prevent the formation of new clots?

REPLY

Anticoagulants (heparin or one of the coumarins) are used for this purpose. You ought to ask the physician who made this fancy diagnosis which veins in the lung are inflamed and obstructed.

TREE TOPPLES UTILITY LINES

A mammoth tree lies on its side on Fifth Avenue in San Rafael, entwined in severed utility wires that were cut when the diseased oak fell at about 10 a.m. today. Utility crews, who said the tree had a rotted trunk, said that power to about 14 customers was cut when the tree fell. No one was injured.

The Chili Champ Will Step Aside

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (UPI) — Dick Slocumb, the champion chili cooker of all Texas and the other 49 states, has decided to hang up the old pot and give some young chefs a shot at his title.

Slocumb, the defending champion chili concocter, announced his retirement from active stewmaking yesterday and said he will serve as a judge in the fourth annual state "Chilympiad", which began today and ends Sunday.

"I have chosen to follow in the footsteps of Rocky Marciano and other great champions," Slocumb said. "I will retire as an unbeaten champion."

With the news Slocumb wasn't going to compete, 50 other chefs converged at the site of the cookoff to compete for his title. The winner will advance to World Chili Cookoff held in Terlingua, Tex., in November.

Terlingua is a ghost town near the Big Bend that no one passes through. To get to Terlingua, you have to be going to Terlingua. The chili cookoffs started as a joke there a half dozen years ago but became so popular the state title holder had to be decided in the regional "Chilympiad," which attracted 50,000 persons last year.

Miss Texas, Judy Mallett, will be on hand tomorrow to announce the winners of the Old Fiddler's contest and will help auction the champion pot of chili.

The whole shebang ends Sunday with an appearance by a group called the Confederate Air Force, which will bring its collection of World War II airplanes for a show saluting American war prisoners held in North Vietnam.

CHP Chief Dislikes Fear Role

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Pudzinski complained today before the Commonwealth Club that the public regards peace officers as people to fear.

Although enforcement is vital to society, he said enforcement is resented even by many who hold the law in the highest regard.

"The symbol of enforcement —the peace officer —thus becomes almost by default, the object of fear and distrust," he said.

"What a curious irony —that the man whose basic reason for existence is protection of life and property is so viewed as a 'threat.' "

"Traffic law enforcement has always been viewed as a plot, a trick, a scheme —to do what? To snare the motorist, to extract a penance in the form of a fine or bail forfeit. In other words, to raise money. To produce revenue for the always hungry government."

Pudzinski said the highway patrol is supported by money from the Motor Vehicle Fund, and not from fines. Revenue from fines goes to the local jurisdiction, he said.

Authorities Refuse To Identify Children

Three children found in a Homestead Valley home where four persons were arrested early last Friday during an investigation into the death of a Point Reyes ranger have been placed in protective custody in Marin homes, juvenile authorities said today.

Juvenile authorities refused to identify the children.

An associated press report said two of the children were a 6-year-old boy and a 7-year-old girl but juvenile authorities would neither confirm nor deny that report.

The children were found at the home when Catherine Mary King, 25; Jonathan Zachery Shoher, 28; Veranzo Leon Bowers, 28, and Stephanie Laura Bowers, 31, were arrested.

Neither the four nor Alan Veale, 24, have yet been charged with the Aug. 5 slaying of Ranger Kenneth C. Patrick.

Veale, accused of Berkeley bank robbery and being held in San Francisco, said he was present on a poaching expedition when Patrick was killed.

In an affidavit filed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Veale said he was present when Patrick was killed. He contends he did not shoot Patrick although he was in the back seat of a car which was halted by the ranger.

The other four were booked in Alameda County on a variety of charges stemming from a Berkeley burglary late in August.

Strikes Keep Students Out Of The Classroom

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Some 500,000 children remained out of school today because of teacher-school board standoffs, but parents in Highland Park, Mich., continued their blockade of a board of education office in an effort to force a settlement.

"We're mothers and we're taxpayers and we're tired of this strike," said Mrs. Robert Jones, 43, the mother of a girl attending Highland Park High School.

Mrs. Jones was one of about 60 parents who blocked off the entrance and exits to the building, forcing board of education officials and teachers' negotiators to remain in the building.

Another mother said she was "not budging until those people in there come out with a contract settlement."

Elsewhere today, teachers in Kenosha, Wisc. were scheduled to vote on a tentative agreement, ending the 16-day school walkout.

The agreement also ended the levying of fines by a circuit court judge. The fines against the Kenosha Education Association totaled $7,500 a day after he found the teachers in contempt Wednesday.

Judge Gordon Myse urged parents to send their children to class, saying the teachers could be expected to return "sometime today."

Teachers in the upstate New York city of Newburgh also vowed to defy a court injunction and continue their strike today. School officials have consolidated classes and brought in substitute teachers to continue classes for Newburgh's 13,000 school children.

Elsewhere in New York, face-to-face bargaining between striking lay teachers and the Brooklyn Diocese was scheduled to resume today in hopes of ending a walkout that began Monday at eight Brooklyn and Queens Catholic high schools.

Other strikes continue at Greenburgh, Harrison and Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

In Youngstown, Ohio, one of several school employe unions striking the school system, reached a tentative settlement yesterday. However, the settlement covered only 315 non-teaching workers. Negotiations were continuing between the Youngstown Teachers Association and local school officials to end the strike that has kept 23,000 children out of school.

There were no reports of progress in teachers strikes in nine Pennsylvania districts, affecting about 2,000 teachers and more than 35,000 students.

Michigan remained the hardest hit of states, with the Detroit school system and 18 other school districts out on strike.

Stiff Election Laws Advocated

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The director of the Office of Federal Elections says stronger laws are needed to enable the government to crack down on campaign financing abuses.

Phillip S. Hughes yesterday told a Senate elections subcommittee that "a flexible assortment of investigative and administrative powers" is needed to prevent abuses such as occurred in 1972.

Hughes heads a division of the General Accounting Office responsible for supervising presidential campaign spending. He also urged public financing of federal elections to equalize opportunity for competing candidates to gain exposure to the voter.

Railroad Loses $140 Million

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The bankrupt Penn Central Railroad lost more than $140 million in the first eight months of this year, including a net loss of $18.1 million in August.

The figures were reported yesterday by the railroad's trustees. August losses last year were $10.3 million and eight-month losses last year were $145.8 million.

The report showed freight revenues last month totaled $138.4 million, up $600,000 from the same period in 1972.

The trustees said the line's freight traffic dropped last month by an estimated 4,000 carloads because of the Canadian rail strike.

Total revenues for August rose three per cent to $160.7 million from $156 million in the same month last year.

Nominated To FCC Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has nominated James H. Quello, a former broadcasting executive, to serve a seven-year term on the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The nomination, anounced Thursday, is expected to draw strong opposition from consumer groups, members of Congress and Nicholas Johnson, the man Quello would replace on the commission if he is confirmed by the Senate.

Dry Cabbage A Boon To Kraut Firms

By PETER TONGE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

GENEVA, N.Y. — When Michael Dixon — tall, lean, and bronzed by long hours in the sun — speaks of hitting "pay dirt" he means food.

Specifically, he means yet another in the long line of plant breeders' successes that literally are keeping humanity going in the 1970s. Short and costly as world food supplies are, they are far more abundant and cheap than they would be if farmers had to depend on the plants they cultivated only a few decades ago.

Dixon illustrates this with row upon row of his special cabbage plants strung out like soldiers on parade at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station. They are a new frost-resistant variety destined, among other things, to help lessen water pollution.

Dr. Dixon calls his new cabbage "High and Dry" because it contains only 91 per cent water — down 2 per cent from the water content of standard varieties. It sounds like an insignificant figure. But that 2 per cent less water makes all the difference between a need to dispose of thousands of gallons of brine waste and none at all in the manufacture of sauerkraut in upper New York state.

When environmental standards stopped the New York kraut manufacturers (more sauerkraut is made in this state than in any similar area in the world) from pouring their wastes into the nearest stream, they immediately hooked into local sewer systems. But the highly acid brine solution upset the bacterial action of sewage-treatment plants.

In making kraut, a certain amount of saltwater is needed at the start. But in the process, the cabbage itself gives off considerable water, leaving more solution at the end than the beginning. The need: a dryer cabbage which Dr. Dixon now has provided and which has performed well in both field and factory.

It has another advantage too. With a lower water content it has greater frost tolerance. Any temperature below 20 degrees F. will kill ordinary cabbage. High and Dry will withstand temperatures down to 15 degrees F. In colder regions, this improved hardiness lessens the danger of a premature freeze, which can drastically cut supplies and send cabbage costs skyrocketing in the supermarket.

Marinite To Share The Folger Fortune

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — James A. Folger, coffee heir who died last year at age 72, left a $15 million estate and a San Rafael woman is in line to inherit a third of the fortune according to an appraisal filed yesterday in superior court here.

Claire Reitzel of San Rafael will share the estate with her sisters, Jane Allen of Potomac, Md., and Ann Folger of New York, on the death of their mother, Jane, to whom Folger left it in trust. It consists of blue chip stocks and municipal bonds, according to the appraisal.

A 1922 graduate of Yale, Folger first worked as a clerk in the coffee firm founded by his grandfather in 1850. He became chairman of the board in 1968 when Proctor and Gamble took over the firm.

He was also a board member of Wells Fargo Bank, the Caterpillar Tractor Co. and E. D. Bullard Co.

Zen Center Leader Claims 20 Residents

Residents at the Zen Buddhist Center on Green Gulch Ranch near Muir Beach number 20, its president said yesterday, and not the 60 reported by the Marin County planning staff to a planning commission meeting on Monday.

Harold Anderson said the group has nine acres under cultivation for crops or gardens and leases an additional 22 acres for cultivation. The remaining ranch land, he said, is available to the public as an extension of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The Zen center was mentioned at Monday's meeting when planning commissioners discussed means of curbing population growth on land zoned for agricultural use. Synanon Foundation, chief topic of the deliberations, claims nearly all of 422 people on two of its West Marin ranches are primarily engaged in agriculture.

Investigation Into Flooding Scheduled

Lynwood Park Improvement Association is going to investigate what steps can be taken to relieve flooding in the area along Sunset Parkway, between South Novato Boulevard and Leafwood Drive, according to Secretary Kathy Loring.

Directors agreed Wednesday to check out the flooding problem with Novato city officials, she said.

Branson Fund Drive Results

The largest fund drive in the history of Katharine Branson School in Ross (which now includes Mount Tamalpais School for Boys) has reached nearly half the goal, according to William R. Kimball, chairman.

A three-year campaign to raise $960,000 for endowment and building capital has netted $412,976 so far, Kimball said.

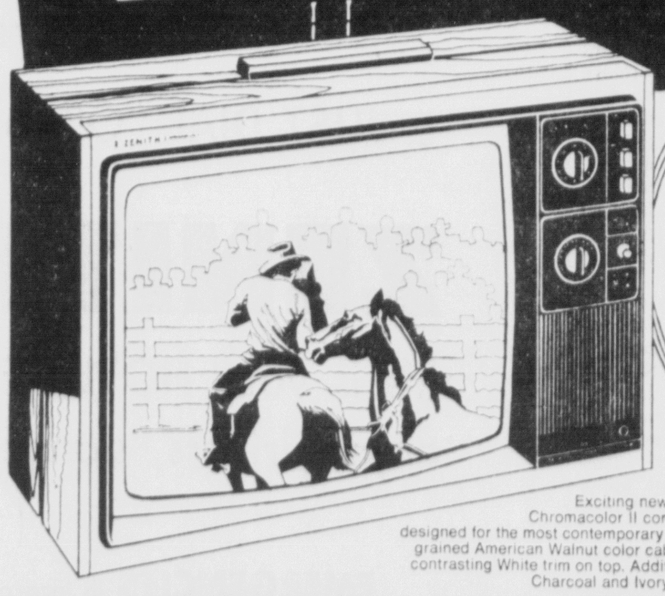

The drive will end in December 1974.

YOUNG BROS.
NOVATO

Red Bluff To Test Novato Defense

Red Bluff High School, with a well-traveled offense in more ways than one, will provide an intriguing test for Novato in a non-league football game tomorrow at 3 p.m.

The green-and-gold clad Spartans from near Redding will travel some 163 miles to face the Hornets in a game which may turn out to be a rugged one for Novato's defense.

San Marin High will host Healdsburg at 12:15 p.m. on the same field at Novato High, after which the stadium will be cleared. Separate admissions will be charged for the two games.

Except for Tamalpais, which was to see action at San Mateo at 3:15 p.m. today, all other Marin teams will play road games tomorrow.

San Rafael will meet Lincoln in San Francisco at 10 a.m., Drake will visit St. Elizabeth of Oakland at 1 p.m., Marin Catholic will confront Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa at Santa Rosa Junior College, 6 p.m., Redwood will visit Vallejo, 8 p.m., and Terra Linda will face Mission San Jose at Fremont High, 8 p.m.

Novato (1-0) played an excellent defensive game to defeat San Francisco power Riordan last week, 13-7. The Hornets held the Crusaders to 21 yards in the second half, but face a Red Bluff offense which ground out nearly 400 yards in a 14-12 season-opening victory over Yuba.

Novato coach Al Scott was especially pleased with the work of lineman Chris Meany, playing defense for the first time inthree years, and inexperienced defensive backs Dave Brazell and Jeff Mertell.

The quarterback situation remains cloudy. Les Nicolini earned high marks for his passing against Riordan, but if Novato elects to run against Red Bluff, top ball-handler Chris de Recat may get the call. Mike Moroski also is battling for the post.

San Marin (1-0) got good offensive line blocking, sharp medium-range passing from Mark Moore and quicksilver running by Wayne Roche to beat Canyon of Hayward last week, 14-6, to inaugurate what coach Bob Martin thinks will be a successful year.

Tamalpais (1-0) was to take 21 varsity players to San Mateo to meet an opponent which has 55. The Indians discovered hard-running Kevin Murphy (24 carries, 160 yards) last week in a 22-12 victory over Washington of San Francisco.

Sn Rafael (0-1) went back to the drawing board to examine its defense against the big play after a 32-6 loss to Vallejo.

Redwood (1-0) gets Vallejo this week, and it will be an interesting test. The Giants proved they had quality football players in a 48-13 destruction of San Francisco's Sacred Heart last week, and a victory over Vallejo would stamp them as threats to retain their Marin County Athletic League co-championship despite severe graduation losses.

Marin Catholic (0-0-1) had good and bad points in its 7-7 tie with Galileo of San Francisco. Coach Bruno Banducci feels his lighter Wildcats outhit Galileo, ran well and made few mistakes, but was unhappy about the passing attack which failed to gain a single yard.

Drake (0-1) hit well and was "very physical" in a 7-0 loss to Petaluma, according to coach Dean Lazzarini. "Lazz" praised the defense, led by linebackers George Pederson and Marv (Corky) Ingraham, and said the offense had "no problems that can't be corrected."

Terra Linda (0-1) coach Don Lucas felt "we just didn't hit anybody" last week in an 18-7 loss to Concord, and went to work in practice against the pass to the sidelines and the run up the middle.

Paula's A Lady In Fast Company

What's that you say? Behind the steering wheel of a drag racer going faster than 250 miles per hour is no place for a lady? Don't let Paula Murphy hear you say that.

Paula is a professional drag racer under contract with Andy Granatelli and the STP Corporation. She holds just about every land speed record for women available. Her latest record is driving a rocket powered car 258 miles per hour in a quarter-mile, elapsed time six seconds flat.

PAULA MURPHY

Sunday at Sears Point International Raceway, she'll try to better that record in a new rocket car, which like the one she drove to the world record at Bonneville, Utah, last October, was designed by Ky Michaelson of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Murphy will be making two exhibition runs during the second day of this weekend's National Hot Rod Association's World Championship Series at Sears Point, last NHRA national points event in the country.

Paula doesn't think there is anything wrong with a woman driving a drag racer and says fear doesn't come into the picture.

Paula doesn't go in for all this women's liberation stuff. "I've been racing since 1958, long before women's lib." But still, Paula broke the "men only" barrier at staid, old Indianapolis Speedway in 1963 when she became the first woman to ever drive a race car on that track. And there hasn't been any since.

She got into the world of auto racing by driving sports cars and soon was winning production class races. After five years of amateur sports car racing she signed her first professional contract with Granatelli in 1963 and turned her attention to drag racing "because there was more money in drag racing."

She set her first land speed record for women in 1963 at Bonneville in a Studebaker Avanti, 161.29 miles per hour and the next year drove a jet powered car to a record of 226.37 m.p.h. Since 1964 she has been the best woman drag racer in both gas-burning production and fuel-burning "funny cars."

The rocket car she will be driving Sunday, because of a higher power to weight ratio, is capable of reaching 300 m.p.h. Paula is expecting to go "at least 270 miles per hour" in a quarter-mile which would break the six second barrier, giving her another women's "first."

She is looking forward to racing at Sears Point and believes the drag strip to be among the fastest and safest in the country.

If you got close enough to see the engine on her race car, you would be surprised to find that it is small and weighs only 57 pounds. But it provides 3,000 pounds of thrust, more than enough to get you to the corner store. And since it runs on liquid hydrogen peroxide, Paula won't have to be worried about finding an open gas station. She's brought along her own fuel supply.

TENNIS TIME: Ed Balatti of Kentfield, a charter member of the San Francisco 49ers who played defensive end, will be teamed with Larry Axtell, pro at California Tennis Club in San Francisco, in the pro-am portion of the Fireman's Fun International Open Tennis Championships this weekend at Round Hill Country Club near Alamo. Lucky Dave Houston of the Belvedere Tennis Club will be teamed with Claudine Longet in a mixed flight in the pro-am, and Marin County's John Zwieg, now a pro at Round Hill, will be teamed with Ron Tomsic.

SHE'S INCLINED TO DO WELL

Australian women's water ski champion Kaye Thurlow, 22, practiced her slalom earlier this week in preparation for this weekend's $15,000 California International Cup Championships at Berkeley's Aquatic Park. Jaap Suyderhoud of San Anselmo is chairman of the tournament, which will be held tomorrow and Sunday and is expected to attract a top international field of 35 skiers from 11 countries. Sing No Sad Mays Songs

Baseball Star Has Fond Memories In Retirement

By VITO STELLINO

NEW YORK (UPI) —Sing no sad songs for Willie Mays.

He won't be back next year but he has left so many lovely memories behind him.

The end is now in sight for the electrifying player who brought charisma to baseball even before the word became popular in politics.

Mays made it official yesterday, announcing his retirement, effective at the end of this season.

"The hardest part will be coming to spring training next year, knowing I'm not going to play," Mays said.

"Willie had great difficulty facing retirement as many men do," New York Mets' board chairman M. Donald Grant noted.

But it wasn't really a sad occasion at Shea Stadium as Mays called the end of a 22-year career.

Facing a battery of television cameras at a formal press conference, Mays said, "It's difficult to explain how much I love baseball. You might call it a love affair. We've been together 22 years and they've been terrific years. I don't know if I'm saying this right but that's the way I feel."

Mays was clearly uncomfortable in the formal setting as he tried to express his feelings but later he relaxed in a smaller gathering and chuckled, "wouldn't you guys have been surprised if I'd said I was going to play another year?"

Of course, Mays knows that's not possible. At age 42 with a .211 batting average, Mays knows this is it.

But he also knows he left behind a record that few men in the history of the game have touched—660 homers, 3,283 hits and a lifetime average of .302.

Mere statistics, of course, can never reflect what Willie Mays meant to baseball. It was his flair in the field and on the bases that made him a legend in his own time.

Most baseball fans have their own favorite memory of Willie... the over-the-shoulder World Series catch against Vic Wertz... running out from underneath his cap... tipping his glove before he made those breadbasket catches... dancing off first base and driving the pitcher to distraction.

As Mays reminisced about some of the great days, he said, "I never worry about the highlights. I just make the plays and let you guys rate them."

Explaining his decision to announce the retirement now, Mays said, "with the club moving in the last couple of weeks, I said, 'hey,' maybe they don't need me. I don't want to interfere with the team's progress when the team had a shot at it.

"I told Mr. (M. Donald) Grant that I wanted a press conference now to end all this specu-

Fox Eyes Next Year For Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mathematically, the Giants "ain't dead" yet in 1973 but already Manager Charlie Fox is making plans for 1974.

"No one really expected us to win this year," Fox said Thursday after watching his Giants beat the Cincinnati Reds, 7-5, "so in that regard no one should be too disappointed.

"Yet, I'm disappointed, because only a couple of weeks ago it looked like we had a helluva shot at it. But in the end our pitching came apart again, the same way it did in June and July, and without pitching you might as well not even go out there."

In every way Fox figures the Giants are a solid club and will be a contending team for years to come, but he knows he has to go out and get some pitchers.

"Outside of John D'Acquisto, we don't have anyone in the system who can help us real soon," said Fox, "so it's obvious we have to go out and try to trade for a solid starter and a left-handed reliever. If we could get a quality catcher, that would help, too, but there aren't many catchers around and the ones who are good probably are untouchable."

Fox, while he doesn't say it right out, has Juan Marichal and Willie McCovey as trade bait. There is no question neither will be around for 1974, mostly because the Giants can't afford them.

Marichal, who has won 237 games for the Giants in a brilliant career, and McCovey, who has hit 411 career homers, carry salaries of $150,000 each and since the Giants are drawing about 830,000 this season, both become expendable.

McCovey, with 27 homers and 68 runs batted in this year, said he's sure he won't be around for 1974.

"It's going to be sad to leave," said McCovey. "I've given my whole career (15

Billie Jean Mauls Riggs— With Help From Margaret

HOUSTON (UPI)—Billie Jean King chopped Bobby Riggs into little pieces and then added the crusher.

Margaret Court, she said, helped her do it.

Riggs had destroyed Court in their now-famous Mother's Day match but Billie Jean credited her long-time rival for the No. 1 spot in women's tennis with last night's romp.

Maybe the effort wasn't ladylike but it was workmanlike and Billie Jean's straight set 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory last night proved conclusively that a 29-year-old woman should never have been rated a 5-2 underdog to a 55-year-old man.

"I really feel Margaret had one of the worst days of her life against him," Billie Jean said. "But she helped me. Margaret told me he can't roll with his backhand. She said, 'just attack his backhand. It's more vulnerable than his forehand. He can't handle it.' That's what I did and it helped tremendously."

One of the big questions left is whether another match is necessary?

Riggs thinks so—the sooner the better, hopefully within six months. Billie Jean is not so sure.

"This is my night," said the queen of tennis, nimbly avoiding the issue. "I don't want to talk about a rematch. Let me enjoy tonight. I just want to drink a beer and relax."

Billie Jean earned the right to sit back and drink whatever she felt like drinking. She had survived the pressure of the $100,000 winner-take-all prize money. She had survived the pressure of being the representative of women's lib in general and women's tennis in particular. And she had survived the pressure of the most elaborate sideshow in the history of the Astrodome — an edifice that is used to glamerous goings on.

There was a band, there were cheerleaders, there was a bar not 60 feet from the court where the elite who paid $100 for a seat could also plunk down a dollar and pick up a glass of champagne.

There were people from a nearby amusement park dressed as animals and there were 30,472 persons in the six-leveled stadium, the largest crowd ever to watch a tennis match.

The players did their share. Riggs made his entrance in a rickshaw accompanied by nine well-endowed women. Mrs. King did him one better by showing up like Cleopatra on a portable throne toted by four gentlemen attired in costumes from a Ben-Hur set.

That, as Mrs. King and Riggs had freely admitted, was not tennis—it was entertainment.

The tennis turned out to be entertaining, too, even though it soon became obvious that the best tennis was owned by five-time Wimbledon champion Billie Jean.

Riggs, at least on this night, wound up looking like just what he was—26 years older than the person on the other side of the net.

"I think he was nervous," Billie Jean said of Bobby. "Any great athlete has got to be nervous before a big match.

"Tonight a lot of people saw tennis for the first time. Nothing could be greater for tennis. I love it. The crowd was great. I believe in people screaming at spectator sports."

Drag Racing Set Tomorrow

A star-studded field will be on tap in the National Hot Rod Association World Championship finale tomorrow and Sunday at 10 a.m. at Sears Point International Raceway.

A top attraction will be the Double A Fuel dragster class with 24 cars featuring Concord's Dennis Baca, North Hollywood's Larry Dixon, Santa Rosa's Bob Neal, Walnut Creek's Jim Davis, San Rafael's Jim Garatti, and Cincinnati's Jim Bucker.

Bucker drives the lightest car in NHRA drag racing, a 1,000-pound machine powered by an all-aluminum Chevrolet engine. He won Top Fuel honors at the Florida Nationls last week. That afforded him a shot at a starting berth in the World Championship meet next month in Amarillo, Texas — providing he can make the final rounds at Sears Point.

Other top competitors in the Top Fuel category are El Toro's Carl Olson and Sacramento's John Stewart. Stewart defeated Don Garlits in his first Top Fuel outing, while Olson triumphed in the 1972 tionals.

Baca, a 16-year-veteran, won world championship titles in 1972 and was second in the Ponoma Winternationals last year and this season.

Championships will be decided in all seven NHRA divisions with most of the attention focused on the Double A class, the funny cars and pro stocks. San Rafael's Mike Mitchell will enter a funny car.

Tickets for the event on the track at the junctions of Highways 37 and 121 can be purchased at Macy's and Ticketron. Cost is $4 for qualifying races tomorrow and $6 for Sunday's finals. Children under 12 are admitted free to the general admission area.

DOUBLE DEFEAT

A's Treading Water In West

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Right now, the Oakland A's are treading water in the American League West.

They could have clinched their third straight division crown yesterday with an assist from the Chicago White Sox but instead kept their magic clinching number at three. The A's dropped a 4-3 and 5-4 doubleheader to the Minnesota Twins while Kansas City defeated the White Sox, 10-3.

That narrowed the A's lead over the Royals from 8 ½ to 7 games. Had the A's swept the twin bill and if the Royals lost, Oakland would have clinched the title.

In today's series closer, lefty Ken Holtzman of Oakland went after his 21st victory against Ray Corbin (6-5) of the Twins. Holtzman has lost 12.

Minnesota scored its winning runs in the ninth inning of the opener and eighth inning of the nightcap. Steve Brye singled with two out in the ninth for the 4-3 victory and pinch-hitter Tony Oliva singled home Larry Hisle in the eighth for the 5-4 triumph.

Bobby Darwin drove in two runs for Minnesota in the first game with his 18th homerun and a single.

The A's jumped to a 3-2 lead in the third inning of the nightcap when Dick Green doubled and scored on Rod Carew's throwing error. Bill North went to third on the error and scored on Sal Bando's sacrifice fly. Pat Bourque then hit his second home run of the season for Oakland.

Marichal isn't as open as McCovey about a possible trade.

"I don't even want to think about it," he said.

Ron Bryant, with help from Randy Moffitt and Elias Sosa, won his 23rd game against 11 losses yesterday.

ROUGH SHOT — Former New York Yankees' pitcher Art Schallock (right) of Novato looked over a difficult shot he had last Friday at Marin Country Club in Novato during the fall Marin County Board of Realtors golf tournament. Frank Hanses of the Marin Board of Realtors helped Schallock study the shot. Schallock recovered and shot a two-under-par 70 to win low gross honors in the tourney.

ABA Czar Storen Says Wilt Has Three Picks

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The way American Basketball Association Mike Storen sees it, Wilt Chamberlain has three options in his pro basketball hassle for a better business deal.

"Mr. Chamberlain can either stay with Los Angeles, play for San Diego or sit on the bench," Storen said yesterday while trying to appraise the situation.

Storen said he has not spoken to Chamberlain, but has conferred with Leonard Bloom, owner of the San Diego franchise, and talked with Wilt's attorney.

"Bloom has been in contact with Mr. Chamberlain and we're all hopeful that an agreement can be worked out where he will play and coach for the Conquistadors," Storen said. "However, I'm not a lawyer, so I can't really evaluate the situation. Everything depends upon the terms and conditions of the contract he has with the Lakers. Until someone from our office sees that document, it would be extremely difficult to say if he has an option clause with the Lakers."

More Basketball

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — The New York Nets of the American Basketball Association yesterday sent forwards Jim Ard and John Baum to the Memphis Tams as payment for the signing of Memphis State rookie Larry Kenon.

In three seasons, Ard, a 6-foot-9, 215-pound forward scored an average of 5.8 points per game. Baum averaged 6.7 points per game last season.

Norman, Okla. — Joe Ramsey, a former Oklahoma assistant who lost out to Lester Lane for the head basketball coaching job last spring, was named to the post yesterday.

Lane was a surprise choice over Ramsey last April, following the resignation of John MacLeod to join the pro coaching ranks. Lane died of a heart attack earlier this month.

Baseball

CLEVELAND — Rocky Colavito, first base coach for the Cleveland Indians of the American League for the past year, yesterday announced he will resign the post at the end of the current season.

Horse Racing

LAUREL, Md. — Triple Crown winner Secretariat was the first American-bred horse invited yesterday to race in the $150,000 Washington, D.C., International at Laurel Race Course.

If owner Helen Tweedy accepts the invitation, it will probably be Secretariat's last run before retiring to stud Nov. 15. The race is Nov. 10.

49ers Plan No Changes In Lineup

REDWOOD City, Calif. (UPI)—San Francisco 49er Coach Dick Nolan plans no lineup changes Sunday when his team calls on Denver.

Tackle Bob Hoskins reinjured his knee slightly in Wednesday's workout, but Nolan expects him to be ready.

The 49ers are only four-point favorites for the game even though they disposed of Denver 43-7 in an exhibition battle.

Defensive end Cedrick Hardman sacked the quarterback three times, forced one fumble and ran in another for a touchdown.

But Steve Ramsey was the quarterback for much of that contest and he likes to set up deeper than starter Charley Johnson.

But Hardman, who made life tough on Bronco tackle Marv Montgomery, says he is playing with more confidence than he had last year following a 1972 operation on a ruptured knee tendon. Deep dropback or not, Hardman promises to try to again get to the Bronco signal-callers.

Belvedere Man Falls In Tennis Finals

STOCKTON — Bob Tarics of Belvedere advanced to the finals but was defeated there yesterday in the Class B portion of the fifth B and C Tennis Tournament in Oak Park.

Tarics lost to Scott Harper of Sacramento, 6-4, 6-3, after subduing Don Durio of Sacramento, 7-5, 6-1.

Tar Booters Fall, 4-0

SAN FRANCISCO — College of Marin (0-3-1) gave up a goal at one minute and another at 10 minutes in the first period yesterday, then steadied, but still suffered a 4-0 non-league soccer loss to powerful City College of San Francisco (2-1) at Balboa Stadium.

GOLF NOTES

Baer, Williams Notch Women's Club Crowns

By RON LENT

The women's golf club championship picture in Marin County has a new and old look today.

The new face belongs to Mrs. Roger Williams who Sunday outlasted defending champion Mrs. William May in an 18-hole playoff at Indian Valley. Mrs. Williams' 84 in the playoff and 344 overall gave her a nine-stroke cushion over Mrs. May and her second club title. The Indian Valley Women's Golf Club captain won her first crown in 1971 and was runnerup nine times. It was a 54 hole tournament.

Meanwhile, Ms. Harold Baer fired a 259 to retain her Peacock Gap laurels in San Rafael. The San Franciscan won by two strokes over Mrs. Alvin Cole to capture her seventh crown. The three-day tournament concluded Sunday.

TAMALPAIS HIGH SCHOOL graduate Steve Gaddis won his first Mill Valley city junior golf championship Sept. 1-2, shooting a 65-65—130 at Mill Valley Municipal.

THE THIRD ANNUAL College of Marin Golf Tournament will be played Friday, Oct. 26, at the Meadow Club near Fairfax.

Tee off is 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. for the event benefitting the Paul (Dutch) Clymer Scholarship Fund. Cost is $20 for golf, hole-in-one contest, prizes, scholarship fund and refreshments.

FORMER NEW YORK Yankees' pitcher Art Schallock of Novato last Friday captured low gross honors with a two-under-par 70 in the fall Marin County Board of Realtors golf tournament at Marin Country Club in Novato.

San Rafael's John Vivaldo fired a low net score of 99-36—63 in the tourney featuring 140 real estate men and guests.

JACK GREY of Meadow Club near Fairfax Saturday won the 36-hole Silver Spoon portion of the Meadow Club's 23rd annual Gold Putter-Silver Spoon Invitational.

He teamed with uest George Keller to shoot a best ball 18 ip on par in the match vs. par tournament Friday and Saturday. They won by one stroke over member Al Garcia and guest Howard Norton.

The Garcia-Norton team won the Golf Putter portion, winning a playoff after shooting a best ball 141. They had an 18-hole puttoff on the putting green against Dr. Lou Geissberger and guest Dr. Jack Luceti and member Dr. Marv Gilberg and guest Dr. Hal Drury.

MARIN COUNTRY CLUB in Novato will present its 54-hole women's club championship starting Tuesday at 8 a.m. with defending champion Tillie Gondak heading the 84-gal field. The tournament will continue Thursday and Friday at 8 a.m.

SIGNUPS are being taken for the Marin Country Club Sportsman Tournament Saturday, Oct. 13. Men will be playing on two-man teams in Scots play. Teams can sign up at the golf shop.

MRS. LAURA CANN heads the field in the Meadow Club women's golf club championship which began yesterday and continues Tuesday and Thursday.

The perennial champion will be playing in a 54-hole tourney in medal play with 79 other competitors. Tee off time is 8 a.m.

TONY SAVALA of San Geronimo National Golf Club and Larry Babica of Meadow Club will be playing in the Northern California Assistants Championship Monday starting at 8 a.m. at Silverado golf course. They will be playing 18 holes in the morning, 18 more in the afternoon.

MILL VALLEY Golf Course will crown a new men's club champion this year. Defending king Byron Eggleston Sunday lost 2 and 1 to Frank McCarthy in the second round.

Third round play will be held Sunday with the finale the following Sunday at 8:30 a.m.

"THE ALL NEW"

1974 MERCURY COUGAR XR-7

In size, this new breed of Cougar is like Grand Prix and Monte Carlo.
In every other way, it's like nobody else's car.

You're looking at the all new Cougar for '74. It's more than a new car. It's moved up one whole class. In fact Cougar is the only new choice among the mid-size personal luxury cars.

There's new styling, inside and out. New dash with tachometer and hooded gauges mounted in deeply padded vinyl. Elegant new opera window. Distinctive new Landau roof. Steel-belted radials. All standard. There's power steering. And front disc brakes, automatic floor shift and bucket seats, also standard. Plus the same type suspension system as Lincoln-Mercury's most expensive luxury car. Other features shown are optional.

And along with Cougar's new size class comes a whole new class of comfort for you. Because we felt this much luxury deserved a little more room.

Mixed Prospects For Deer Hunters

Improved fawn survival and better buck carryover notwithstanding, hunters taking to the field for the opening of the late deer season tomorrow face a mixed bag of prospects for success.

In most late season areas, the Department of Fish and Game summary of field reports said, fawn production and the number of available bucks are up from last year's figures, but there are record lows as well. Good food and water conditions are tending to scatter herds.

AS IS THE CASE every year at this time, hunting will be best on opening weekend and when the first storms of winter trigger the annual migration of deer from higher elevations.

Bucks are in good condition generally, access is satisfactory in most areas and the fire danger is high statewide. Hunters are advised to check local forest offices regarding campfire regulations and closed areas.

THE MARIN County Ducks Unlimited chapter members tell me they are having their annual "Drake Only" dinner Tuesday at the Deer Park Villa, Fairfax.

Cocktails at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30. The dinner features the finest New York steaks, with all the trimmings, pasta and wine. All seats sold in advance with tickets available at the Western Sport Shop, Sausalito Bait and Tackle, and Novato Builder's Supply. Cost for tickets is $25. There will be a drawing prize, auction, door prizes and a film on duck shooting. The monies are used for the preservation and conservation of waterfowl. It's a good cause.

LOTS OF INFAMOUS duck hunters will be there. This is the time of year duck hunters are in their glory with put-ons of every sort. I suppose the following note from Tom Mack — one of those infamous hunters — really starts the season. Here it is:

Dear Al:

"I have received the enclosed press release, from person or persons unknown, which contains many false statements as to Mr. Ken Biss's and Mr. Tom Mack's qualifications as duck hunters. I demand a public retraction. After hunting with me for so many years, I know that you will have a candid, and most of all, honest opinion. You have also hunted with Mike Dufficy, so I know that you will attest to his "qualifications?" In our club, they call him "Trade Bait Dufficy." Yours truly, Tom Mack."

SAID THE PRESS release: "In an astonishing trade, Tim Egan, Coach of the Yolo Duck Farms, today acquired veteran duck hunters Tom Mack, 36, Ken Biss, 36 and Mike Dufficy, 35. The wily Egan refused to specifically divulge what he gave in trade, other than saying, 'Undisclosed future draft choices.'

"The trade obviously was not directed toward Mack or Biss. Biss, at age 36, is gun shy, and all knowledgeable observers concede that despite early promise, Mack never was any good.

"However, in the 35-year-old Dufficy, Egan may have pulled a coup on the likes of George Allen. Dufficy, a former number one draft choice and Kleisman Trophy winner, has lost none of his amazing skills and talent over the years.

"During the 1968 season, Dufficy reportedly held the head of famed waterfowl artist Bruce Lattig under water until Lattig lost consciousness, thereby releasing his grip upon a Cock Sprig over which he and Dufficy were having a dispute as to ownership. As a result of this encounter, Dufficy has evermore been known as "My Bird" Dufficy."

"IT HAS BEEN this type of aggressive play which has made Dufficy infamous on duck ponds from Los Banos to the Columbia River in Oregon. In fact, Egan quite candidly admits, 'I may have acquired the Duane Thomas of duck hunters.'

"This writer evaluates the trade as follows: Biss is an unknown quantity; Mack is underweight, physically inept and obviously not an addition to any club; but Dufficy, if he keeps his head on straight, could restore Yolo Farms to the heights and fame of former years."

At the dinner, this type of banter will be continued!

MAYS

lation so the guys can concentrate on winning it. I always said I wouldn't play when it wasn't any fun and it's not fun when you're hitting .211."

Mays hasn't played since Sept. 9 when he injured his ribs against Montreal, and was given the day off by Manager Yogi Berra last night after announcing his retirement. But he's expected to make at least another taken appearance before the season's over.

"If they get in the Series, I'm playing. I don't know how but I'm playing," he said.

Mays is now on the second year of a 10-year contract with the Mets that stipulates he'll receive $50,000-a-year when he retires. He made $165,000 as a player.

His new duties with the Mets haven't been defined—he's likely to tutor in spring training and serve in a public relations capacity—but he's not interested in managing or coaching.

"If I' m coaching, I'm just standing on first base and not doing anything. Why shouldn't I continue doing something for baseball?" he asked.

Mays began his career with the New York Giants in 1951, moved with them to San Francisco in 1958 and then came back to New York on May 11, 1972 when he was traded to the Mets.

Marin Academy Booters Shock San Rafael, 4-1

The soccer team of tiny Marin Academy (enrollment: 145) slew its first giant yesterday, scoring a 4-1 victory over San Rafael High School (enrollment: 2,000) in a non-league game at San Rafael.

It marked the first time that the second-year team has defeated a Marin County Athletic League varsity squad.

Marin Academy (2-0) got two goals from Hunt Conrad and single scores by Bill Spencer and Kit Schweitzer, and its defense allowed only three shots on goalie Byron Rice.

Semi-Pro Baseball Tonight At Albert

Two new Marin County semi-pro baseball teams debut tonight at 8 o'clock at Albert Field when the Marin Suns take on the Marin Merchants.

The two teams are members of the San Francisco Double A level league featuring 11 teams and will be playing some 20 games each. The Merchants feature shortstop Bob Daniele, former Terra Linda High School and College of Marin star, catcher Danny Bell of San Quentin Village and pitcher Mike Timmel of Terra Linda.

CROSS COUNTRY

Challenge Year For San Rafael

By LEW CODDINGTON

Instead of being utterly overpowering again this year, Redwood High School's cross-country team merely will be excellent, which means San Rafael will have a shot at the championship.

That's the consensus of the Marin County Athletic League coaches, who await the season-opening schedule of double dual meets next Wednesday, but who will send their runners to the Stinson Beach Relays tomorrow.

The Giants last year swept to the league title and went on to win the North Coast Section championship with nobody close enough to them to even grab their jerseys.

Graduation has cost them Eric Moller, Pete Sweeney and Mike Killeen, but has left openings for seniors Dave Brainerd, Ed Phelps and Kevin Glasner and junior Pete Demarais. Glasner was among the top five as a sophomore but missed last year due to allergies and other problems, according to coach Doug Basham.

San Rafael, coached by Dave Dwight, is ready to challenge with the likes of Ray Green, Brian McCurdy, Tom Stibich, Tom O'Reilly and sophomore Brooke Chesnut.

Krieg Vezie's Tamalpais team will have quality runners, but not enough of them, with Kim Baez, Steve Locey and Rhett Wilkes available.

The rest of the league probably will not challenge those three teams, but Novato will boast an outstanding individual, George Cagle, who went to the state track and field meet last year in the half-mile.

The battle for the freshman-sophomore title will be between San Rafael and Redwood also, Dwight feels, despite the fact that the Bulldogs will run Chesnut on the varsity for dual meets.

In girls' competition, Tamalpais, Redwood and San Rafael will have good years and the proofreaders will have a tough one, since they must cope with Redwood's Wendy Severinghaus and San Rafael's Laurie Scharninghausen. They are as hard to defeat as they are to spell, and the only runner likely to beat them is Tam's outstanding Kate Keyes, the North Coast Champion last year as a junior.

Dan Losee has returned to the head boys varsity coaching job at Terra Linda after a year as a football assistant. He replaces Hugh Broyles. In other coaching changes, Gerry Kobil has replaced Warren Fairbanks at Drake and Ted Cain has taken over for Jim Van der Beets at San Marin. Robert Smith remains at Novato. Marin Catholic has no program.

No Local TV For Raiders Vs. Dolphins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

San Francisco Bay area fans wanting to see whether the Oakland Raiders can prevent the Miami Dolphin's march toward an all-time winning record Sunday will have to make a mad dash for the remaining 3,297 seats before kickoff because the game will not be shown on local television.

Only six of the 12 scheduled National Football League games were sold out 72-hours prior to starting time yesterday, permitting live local telecast, while several others were close but not complete sellouts.

The St. Louis Cardinals reported only about 2,000 seats available for their home opener against the National Football Conference champion Washington Redskins, Kansas City at New England had about 3,000 seats unsold and the New York Jets game at Baltimore had 1,289 seats available. Tickets were also available for Atlanta at Los Angeles and Buffalo at San Diego. All those games will be blacked out on local television.

The Raiders-Dolphins game carries the greatest amount of interest for football fans as Miami, defending Super Bowl champion, goes after its record-breaking 19th straight victory. Only the Chicago Bears in 1933-34 and again in 1941-42, in addition to the Dolphins, have won 18 straight games in NFL history. Miami is also one short of the 1933-34 Bears' mark of 17 straight regular season victories.

Last week against San Francisco, Miami trailed 13-6 in the fourth quarter. But the Dolphins rallied for 15 points in the final period on a 10-yard touchdown pass from Bob Griese to Paul Warfield, two field goals from 45 and 22 yards by Garo Yepremian and a safety.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of this team for its second half performance," Miami coach Don Shula said. "I think the Dolphins should be recognized as one of the all-time teams for their second half performances. The heroes—you can start with Garo. He kept us in the game early (with two field goals) and came through again in the second half."

Shula said he's not "thinking about winning streaks. Our intention is to win every week—and let the historians do the talking about streaks."

In other games Sunday, all of which will be televised locally, Philadelphia plays the New York Giants in their last football game at Yankee Stadium, Cleveland is at Pittsburgh, Detroit at Green Bay, Houston at Cincinnati, Minnesota at Chicago and San Francisco at Denver.

About 15,000 tickets still remained today for the Monday night game between New Orleans and Dallas at Irving, Texas.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Seaver Can Pitch Mets Into First

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Mets, given up for dead not so long ago, are alive and well again—and unless Steve Blass can come back the same way tonight, they're going to be in first place.

And when was the last time the Mets were in first place this late in the season? 1969, that's when.

"You never know, it's like 1969 all over again," enthused Tom Seaver, the Mets' pitching ace, after New York scored its third straight come-from-behind victory over Pittsburgh's National League East leaders last night.

New York was 10 ½ games behind at the end of July and 5 ½ down as recently as two weeks ago but if Seaver, the pitching hero for the 1969 world champions, can beat Blass, the pitching star of the 1971 world champs, in tonight's windup of a five-game series, the Mets will be on top.

"We've come back from the dead," said Manager Yogi Berra. "We've played good ball since we came back from the West Coast in July 11 or 12 games behind. That's when everybody said we were dead. But we're not."

The Mets moved within a half-game of the Pirates last night, winning 4-3 in 13 innings, and it looked so similar to the '69 miracle, like they were getting help from above.

Trailing 3-2 into the bottom of the ninth, the Mets tied the game on a two-out run scoring double by Duffy Dyer, a .181 hitter. They won it 4-3 on rookie Ron Hodges' run batted in single but the play that saved the game occurred a half-inning earlier, in the top of the 13th.

Elsewhere in the NL East, Chicago handed Montreal its fourth straight loss 5-4 and Philadelphia edged St. Louis 6-5, in the West, San Francisco kept Cincinnati's magic number for clinching another title at five by winning 7-5 and Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 5-3 in 12 innings.

In the American League, Baltimore blanked Detroit 9-0, Kansas City ripped Chicago 10-3, Minnesota swept Oakland 4-3 and 5-4 and California beat Texas 6-4 in 11 innings before losing the second game 8-3.

Blass, who hasn't won since June 1 and is suffering through one of the most nightmarish seasons ever for a top-ranking pitcher with his 3-8 record and 9.51 earned run average will be making his third start tonight since Danny Murtaugh took over again as the Pittsburgh manager Sept. 6 and put him back in the rotation. It's certainly his most important start of the year.

Seaver, on the other hand, is 17-10 with a 1.88 ERA and one of the NL's top candidates for the Cy Young Award. But Pittsburgh bombed him out in three innings Monday night when it beat the Mets 10-3, the Pirates' only victory so far in this five-game showdown series.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Great living sea captain — Jul Petersen, 79, can remember when men sailed from ocean to ocean powered by the wind. Born in Endelave, Denmark, he went to sea at 15 as a cook and ordinary seaman on a small schooner plying the Baltic and the North Sea. Later voyages took him 'round the world many times on full-rigged ships. On a four-masted bark from Hamburg, it took 165 days to reach San Francisco. Rising through the ranks, he learned navigation and got 2nd Mate and Master's papers in 1928. The next five years he was the skipper on an 81-foot yacht. Now retired, Captain Petersen lives with his wife of 48 years in Los Altos, where they have made their home since 1943. Naturally they were married on a ship in 1925, sailing from San Francisco to Denmark.

Who's Gemini? (May 21-June 20): Your cool, calculating brain fascinates everyone who watches TV. Problem-solving comes easily to you. Yet friends must push you to get you going. Bad guys say you're a burr under their saddles. Now they know your will of iron sides with the law day and night. (Answer: See below)

Famous birthdays today (Sept. 21): Test your knowledge of world notables born today. Answer true or false.

1 - LARRY HAGMAN, 42 today, who starred on "I Dream of Jeannie," is the son of film star Mary Martin.

2 - H.G. WELLS, British author, actually predicted the development of the atomic bomb in a 1933 novel — 12 years before its perfection by the U.S.A.

3 - DAWN ADAMS, 43 today, got her big break co-starring opposite the great film comedian Charlie Chaplin.

Choosing The Right Finesse Will Assure South's Victory

"One finesse is as good as another," South cackled, as he played today's hand. The cackle was followed by the usual result — South laid an egg.

LOW SPADE

West opened the four os spades, and South won with the ten of spades. It was at this moment that South made his foolish statement.

South meant the heart finesse was as good as the club finesse, but he was wrong.

BACKS JUDGMENT

South backed his judgment by finessing with dummy's queen of hearts at the second trick. East won with the king of hearts and returned a spade. This allowed West to defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

"Very unlucky, partner," South summed it up. "The club finesse would have lost also."

This was true, but South could make the game contract even if he lost the club finesse. That's why the club finesse was better than the heart finesse.

GET TO DUMMY

South's correct play is to get to dummy with a diamond at the second trick. He then leads the ten of clubs for a finesse.

West can win with the king of clubs but cannot continue the spades without giving South a second trick in the suit. If West leads anything else, South carefully wins (he must not risk a heart finesse) and runs his nine tricks. He collects one spade, one heart, four diamonds and three clubs.

Game and rubber instead of minus 100 points.

The Breakdown Of A 'Second'

CHICAGO (UPI) — When somebody says he will be finished in a second you can now determine precisely how much time is required.

The second, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, has been defined by the General Conference of Weights and Measures as "the duration of 9,192,631,770 periods of the radiation corresponding to the transition between the two hyper-fine levels of the ground state of the cesium 133 atom." Now you know.

Natural Sonar Guides Oilbird

Chicago (UPI) — The guacharo, or American tropical oilbird, can "fly blind."

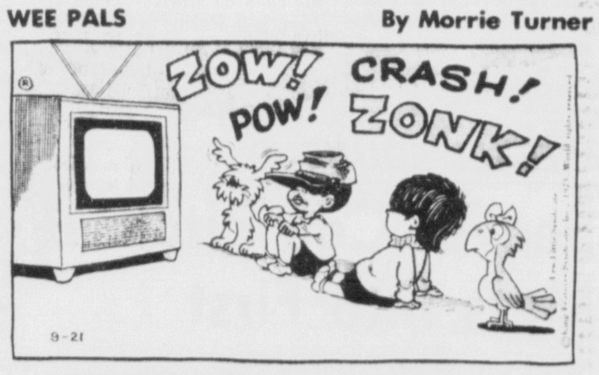

This bird, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, uses the natural sonar of echo location to avoid obstacles while flying in darkness — a form of navigation otherwise unknown among birds.

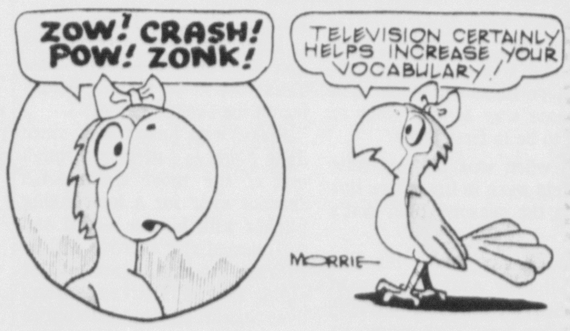

Arms Collection

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Colt Collection of firearms and related materials is stored and displayed at the Connecticut State Library. The collection includes more than 1,000 firearms, including many designed and manufactured by Col. Samuel Colt.

Poles Pack Theater For Nude Rock Show

LODZ, Poland (AP) — Poland's latest rock show — probably the most far out in Communist Europe — is packing theater audiences in this textile town with a combination of naked blondes, hard beat and rubber monsters.

Called 'Naga,' meaning naked, it's billed as a rock opera. The show will be going further afield in the East bloc.

Contracts are signed with Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union is reportedly interested — provided the girls leave on a bit of clothing.

Naga's underlying theme is to show the danger of a world menaced by technological progress.

Three of Poland's top pop stars portray frightened humans being chased and enveloped by out-of-control robots. They also have to cope with giant blobs of rubber that resemble the pulsating body of an octopus.

Director Jerzy Krechowicz concentrates most of all on visual impact.

In one scene, long-haired singer Wojciech Korda, after finishing his number, turns to a curvaceous blonde standing beside him and pulls off her black gown, leaving her stark naked.

There are several nude scenes. In one, a flabby rubber monster, looking like an overgrown gorilla and with the drunken sway of a Frankenstein monster, carries off one naked blonde in his arms. In the background a rock group twangs out heavy beat.

"I wanted to show truth in a new form," says song writer Grzegorz Walczak, "in a communicative and uninhibited way . . . thanks to which the awareness of truth becomes more universal."

Reaction to the show in Poland's Communist party press has been mixed.

Although Naga has been playing to packed theaters, audience response is also mixed. Said a student: 'for Poland, it's some achievement against prudery, and anyway it's a step forward to freedom of expression in art."

Besides Wojciech Korda, other singers appearing are Ada Rusowicz and Stan Borys. Borys was a winner in Greece's Olympiad of Song last year and more recently won high acclaim at a song festival in Caracas, Venezuela.

"To me," says Borys, "Naga shows the world around us, as presented by those shapes in the play. It's an overmechanized and overcivilized world that is killing human feelings."

Contractor Charged With Getting Around State Ban

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Democratic lawmaker yesterday charged that a Los Angeles construction company "circumvented" a state ban on any work by the firm because of its death-marred safety record and presently was involved in a Southern California bridge building project.

Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, chairman of the Assembly Select Committee on Industrial Safety, said the firm, Polich Benedict, had been cited more than 100 times in the past four years for unsafe work practice.

Polich Benedict, Fenton said, had been banned from any state work because of 10 fatalities and 171 injuries on their jobs but "came in the backdoor" to work on the Foothill-Simi Valley freeway interchange.

"With their past record they shouldn't be in a position to do this job," Fenton said.

Fenton, Assembly majority leader from Montebello, told a news conference Polich Benedict was the contractor on the Pasadena bridge that collapsed last October, killing six men and injuring 31 others.

After three other major accidents, the Division of Highways shut down every state job by Polich Benedict and "made it clear to this contractor that his bids on public work projects would no longer be invited," Fenton said.

"We have since learned that Polich Benedict has circumvented the Division of Highways' decision and is working on a new state project," the assemblyman said.

"Another contractor, Steve P. Rados Inc. of Monrovia, who had never even bid on a bridge job before, suddenly came up with a low bid on a $12 million highway bridge contract," he added.

Fenton said, however, that Polich Benedict "in effect is running the job."

The state, he said, could take no action because there was nothing illegal. But he added he had directed his committee to "contact every legal expert in this field...to find a way of controlling this type of act."

Fenton also said the firm had been investigated by the state Contractor's Licensing Board, which was expected to take action soon. But, he said, the board was understaffed "and they can only do so much."

A man who identified himself as an officer of Polich Benedict in Los Angeles, but who refused to give his name, said, "This is the first I've heard of it."

The man said, however, that Polich Benedict did not subcontract with Steve P. Rados Inc. and "all employes on the project belong to Steve P. Rados."

Ted Polich, Los Angeles attorney for the firm, said he could not comment, but to call him back "next week."

Suspected Cases Of Meningitis

HONOLULU (UPI) —The Navy said yesterday three cases of suspected meningitis have been reported at the naval air station in Adak, Alaska. The area has been placed under a "limited quarantine."

The Navy announcement said the three cases are of a 4-year-old dependent son, a 5- year-old daughter and a 21-year-old wife, each related to Navy men stationed at Adak.

A team from the Navy Environmental and Preventative Medicine Unit in San Diego was ordered to fly to Adak "to evaluate the situation."

Networks Plan Coverage Of Watergate Hearings

NEW YORK (AP) — There's good news today for Watergate buffs. The three networks say they'll again take turns providing live TV coverage of the Senate Watergate hearings, which resume Monday.

But there's bad news for daytime Watergate viewers. The networks say they'll only cover the hearings live next week. And there won't be any live coverage of the hearings on public TV at all this time.

There'll only be three days of hearings next week — Monday through Wednesday — and it'll be a pattern generally followed until Nov. 1, when this round of testimony is scheduled to end.

Under a plan agreed on by the networks this week, ABC provides live coverage of Monday's session, NBC takes over on Tuesday and CBS has the duty on Wednesday. Each network has the option of carrying the hearings live any day it isn't scheduled to do so.

The networks say they'll "terminate their experimental rotation system" after Wednesday's session, although network spokesmen say this doesn't necessarily mean the end of a revolving era.

They say continued rotation coverage in future weeks is possible, but that it'll require a new agreement among the networks. However, no negotiations to that end are planned right now.

The networks adopted the rotational plan last June 5 to lessen the uproar from viewers deprived of game shows and soap operas and to reduce the loss of advertising dollars as the hearings wore on.

Fade Your Jeans Before Wearing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The faded look is the jeans look of today.

The Denim Council suggests that before wearing, the jeans have the sizing removed with a couple of washings and a generous dose of fabric softener. Machine dry so wrinkles won't set. The faded look comes about naturally, since indigo is a "fugitive" dye.

Theft Trial Is Ordered For Youth

A Tamalpais Valley youth has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of grand theft. Thomas William Duerner, 18, was ordered to appear Oct. 1.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled after a preliminary hearing Tuesday that enough evidence exists to try Duerner, of 438 Wellesley Avenue.

Duerner is said to have attended a party at the San Rafael apartment of Carl E. Mead on Aug. 25 and to have stolen a gun belonging to Mead.

Mead testified at Duerner's hearing that he went into his bedroom during the party and noticed a stereo and gun missing. Going outside, he saw Duerner about to drive away, and stopped him.

When Duerner refused to let Mead look in his trunk, Mead called police and Duerner walked away. Police refused to open the trunk with a search warrant, so Mead pried the trunk open with a crowbar and found his gun inside, he testified.

The stereo was found, smashed, where it had been dropped from a second-floor window.

1974 CATALINA

The new Catalina Hardtop Coupe (top) and the four-door Hardtop (bottom) show the all-new front end styling that highlights the standard size Pontiacs. The 1974 models return to a strong center motif. Immediately noticeable on the Hardtop Coupe is the new fixed rear quarter window. For 1974, bumper "impact band" heights have been made uniform to help prevent mismatch and resulting override or underride with other 1974 cars. Marin dealer is Stan Wisnes Pontiac-GMC-Honda of San Rafael.

NEW GRAND VILLE AND BONNEVILLE

The standard Pontiacs feature all-new front end styling with a return to the strong isolated center theme as shown in the top-of-the line Grand Ville (top) and the Bonneville (bottom). They have energy-absorbing bumper systems on both front and rear to meet the new federal standards. The Bonneville Hardtop Coupe shows the stylist new fixed rear quarter window and new rear styling treatment for 1974. Marin dealer is Stan Wisnes Pontiac-GMC-Honda in San Rafael.

SPORTY FIREBIRD

All 1974 Pontiac Firebirds have been dramatically restyled as shown in the Firebird Trans Am (top) and the Firebird Esprit (bottom). Frontal surfaces have been canted back for a modern aerodynamic appearance. The distinctive Firebird twin ports are maintained, and two new functional air scoops have been added beneath the bumper. Front bumpers are ofurethane foam cast over a stamped, high-strength steel retainer. In the rear, the impact bar is a low-density flexible urethane casting. Endura bumper guards give added impact protection. Marin dealer is Stan Wisnes Pontiac-GMC-Honda of San Rafael.

PLYMOUTH'S SPECIAL PAIR

Smart, snappy look and solid road feel of Plymouth's specialty compact Barracuda (top) and 'Cuda (below) continues for 1974 with a list of engineering and safety improvements. Standard are 318 V-8, bucket seats, and front disc brakes. Optional are 360, four-barrel V-8 with dual exhaust. Corte Madera Chrysler Plymouth is the local dealer.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Portfolio Shows Off Sound Stocks

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Would you please comment on the enclosed portfolio? We are in our 50s and well covered by insurance, pensions and have no debts. Our portfolio is now 60 per cent in growth stocks and 40 per cent income investments. Three of our common stocks make up 48 per cent of our investments but these were bought many years ago and have increased in value many times. From here on until retirement we plan to buy good-quality, high-yield bonds. — O.M.

A. Your portfolio of investments has obviously been carefully and thoughtfully planned. Included in the list of 11 top-quality holdings are such growth issues as: First Chicago Corp. (NYSE) and Minnesota Mining & Mfg. (NYSE) and income stocks such as Lone Star Gas (NYSE) and B. F. Saul REIT (NYSE). Fixed-income investments which account for 20 per cent of the total include: tax-exempt bonds, a mortgage and savings.

You also have a diversified portfolio with each holding representing a different industry from computers to petroleum and communications to photographic supplies. Keep up the good work; you are certainly on the right track.

Q. Do you recommend a passbook account at a savings and loan stock corporation insured to $30,000 by the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corp.? How safe is this insurance company? How does this compare with savings and loans insured by Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp.? — D.G.

A. This insurance fund has been in operation since 1962 and presently covers depositors' accounts in close to 150 savings and loan associations in Maryland. It was created by special statute, authorized by the state's legislature, and operates under state supervision.

State Chartered Associations which are covered by the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corp. are not directly regulated by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board although state regulatory authorities frequently adopt policies similar to those of the FHLBB.

You may rest assured that an account insured under this fund is secure. However, if you want further information I suggest you contact the agency which regulates savings and loan associations in Maryland.

Phony Invoices Termed Illegal

Phony invoices are currently being mailed to the Bay Area by Checkmaster Insurance Agency using Post Office box numbers in Los Angeles or Chicago, the San Francisco Better Business Bureau warned.

Checkmaster uses an inovice with pictures of a Paymaster Checkwriter Protector in both the left and right hand corners of the invoice, said BBB. "Complaints to this Bureau indicate that recipients think they are paying for protection under their Paymaster contract. Paymaster Corporation does offer bonding with their check protection equipment, but not insurance."

"Checkmaster uses this invoice as a means of securing business, yet fails to provide the required disclosure on the face of the statement," said BBB.

Berg — Peltz

Bankers are in the news today.

Alex M. Slenkin of Greenbrae, a vice president of Hong Kong Bank of California and former senior examiner of the California State Banking Department, was elected president Wednesday of the Pacific Coast Banking School Alumni Association. The school is at University of Washington.

Ray Banta of Novato has been named cashier of Bank of Marin, with headquarters at the bank's main San Rafael office. He has been Bank of Marin auditor since 1971.

Patricia Macdonald of Mill Valley has been named assistant vice president in Wells Fargo Bank's investment department in San Francisco. She formerly was assistant cashier, and has been with Wells Fargo since 1957.

John P. Helm, a Tiburon resident, has been named a vice president in Bank of America's municipal securities department.

Jack E. Berg of Novato has been named assistant vice president and manager of Crocker National Bank's Tiburon-Belvedere office.

Also in the Crocker organization, Robert Peltz of San Rafael, vice president of the Transamerica Pyramid office, has been graduated from the Pacific Coast Banking School.

Bank of Marin will contribute a $100 savings bond award to the queen of this year's Grape Festival, to be held Oct. 6 at the Marin County Fairgrounds. William P. Murray, bank president, will present the award during the coronation of Kris Miklos of Novato as queen.

Computax Calls Off Merger

Merger of Computax Services, Inc., El Segundo, into Commerce Clearing House, which has its west coast headquarters in San Rafael, has been called off, Commerce Clearing House announced today.

Computax Services will remain a majority-owned subsidiary of Commerce Clearing House. Directors of the two companies announced plans for merger on July 24 but have terminated them because of adverse reaction from Computax stockholders.

Commerce Clearing House also declared a third quarter cash divident of 6.6 cents per share, payable Oct. 24 to stockholders of record Sept. 28.

Prices Open Lower In Moderate Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some profit taking among the glamors, oils, electronics and computers pushed prices lower in moderate trading today following two days of sizable gains on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market rallied strongly in the past two sessions, with the Dow gaining 38 points. Analysts said some profit taking at this time would be normal.

Investers also seemed concerned about a government report that consumer food prices rose in August at the fastest monthly rate in 40 years and pushed the overall cost of living to the greatest monthly increase since 1947.

Federal National Mortgage was the most active issue.

Prices were slightly higher in moderate trading on the Ame'ican Stock Exchange. Investors Royalty was the most active issue, unchanged at 10½ on 14,900 shares.
